COUNTY TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS
Hon. HORATIO G. FISHER,

FOR SENATOR
Hon. JOHN B. PACKER, of Northumberland.
(Subject to decision of Senatorial District Conference.)

FOR ASSEMBLY
L. N. MYERS, of Middleburg.

FOR COUNTY SURVEYOR
GEORGE R. BENFER, of Jackson.

Old General Cameron has already counted all the chances, the probabilities and the prospects in the ensuing campaign. His advice is to count on nothing in the South, but to make all the gains possible in the North. He thinks Pennsylvania good for from 40,000 to 50,000 for Garfield and Arthur.

Mr. George, the Republican candidate for congress in Oregon, has 1,337 majority, which is very good for the Presidential year. The three Republican candidates for supreme court judges have an average majority of 1,636. The Oregon Republicans promise to do still better for Garfield.

All over the country the Republican party is united. In fact the party was never more a unit than it is to-day. From all sections come the cheering news that the Republicans are confident of victory. The fight will be a hard one, but Republicans everywhere were never in a more cheerful mood or more certain of the result.

Providence can hardly be favorable to the Democratic party this year, as the reports made to the agricultural department are of a very encouraging character. There is a good demand for farm labor at increased wages. Under such circumstances, the demand for a change in the administration is not very general.

The shot-gun campaign has already opened in the South. Republicans in Alabama are not to be permitted to make a canvass this year. Two Republican candidates have been compelled to withdraw, as their lives have been threatened by the Ku Klux, and the Democratic platform demands a fair election.

At the organization of two Garfield and Arthur clubs last week, in New Albany, Indiana, fifteen straight-out Democrats signed the rlols and expressed their intention of voting for Garfield and Arthur. These may be called straws, and indicate how things are going in Indiana. The Republicans were never more confident of carrying the State. Democrats are flocking to our ranks in all parts of that State.

The Industrial League, a non-partisan organization, of which Gen. Robert Patterson, a Democrat, is President, and Hon. Daniel J. Morrell, vice-President, have issued a circular endorsing General Garfield for the Presidency, and vouching for his soundness on the question of Protection to American Industry. This drives another nail into the Democratic coffin, so far, at least, as Pennsylvania is concerned.

The grand rush of old soldiers to support Hancock which the Democrats have been predicting doesn't appear to come. Indeed the Democratic situation strongly reminds one of the mill concerning which the impatient customer remarked that he could eat the flour as fast as the darned old mill could grind it. "How long could you do so, sonny?" asked the miller. "Until I starved to death," was the reply.

It was a Pinkerton detective who brought Harry English, the notorious outlaw and murderer of Elk county, to terms. He found him in the Michigan pineries, worked with him a week, enticed him into a tavern, and over a glass of grog, in an unguarded moment, covered him with a revolver.

The Elk County Outlaw.

Erie, July 15.—District Attorney Wurtzell, of Elk county, started from here yesterday with extradition papers for the murderer Harry English, who has been arrested in Michigan. Wurtzell took with him the heaviest leg irons in Erie county jail.

English, the notorious outlaw of Elk, has long been a fugitive from justice. He was wanted for murder, and when he visited his home in Caledonia the sheriff undertook to arrest him. He kept up a brisk fire from his house, killing one man and seriously wounded another. He swore that he would not be taken alive. A great crowd gathered in front of the house and approached as near as they dared. Finally English slipped out the back way and was not discovered until quite a distance from the house. Pursuit was given, but he turned and fired and his pursuers dreaded his straight aim. He was wounded in the leg; but managed to escape to the mountain. Soon after the shooting affray J. R. Thomas, of Pinkerton's detective force, was given the case, which has finally resulted in the arrest of the dangerous outlaw. He was heard from in various localities, threatening death to all who tried to take him. English was arrested last Saturday night at Sheboygan, Mich., by Thomas, and is now in custody. He will have a determined set of men to deal with in Elk county and unless he takes his own life it is not improbable that a rope will await him even before trial.

A delegate from Allentown to a state Sunday school convention that met in Williamsport some years ago, urged the association to hold its next meeting in his town. He assured the members that he had no house of his own in which to entertain any of them, but that they were perfectly welcome to the other people's houses! The Democratic party have no grounds to claim credit for having put down the rebellion, but they point with pride to the fact that their candidate fought and bled in the war. They propose to offer him as a sort of propitiation for their defects. It is worthy of remembrance, however, that a single righteous man was not sufficient to save Sodom and Gomorrah. General Hancock's loyalty and gallantry will not suffice to save his disloyal and unrepentant party.

Though a saint may pray for a sinner;
A sinner must pray for himself.

General Garfield's letter of acceptance is like the man—plain-spoken, honest and courageous, animated with a genuine love of liberty, and unfailing sympathy with all that tends to the progress of his country. It cannot fail to strengthen him in the minds of all those who want to see a statesman always in the President's chair, and above all a statesman whose great abilities are under the firm guidance of an unwavering moral courage, who believes that the truth can be told in politics, and who, in stating to the American people the views upon which as the representative of a great party, he will ask their support, scorning to stoop to the prevarications and sinuous evasions which made the letter of the Democratic candidate of four years ago, for example, a mere jungle of words.—N. Y. Tribune.

Wallace is to be depended upon to manage the "still-hunt" in Pennsylvania, while Barnum looks after the circus elsewhere. With all his experience, Wallace will find that coffee pot tactics will not prevail in this state this year. No trait in General Garfield has been more prominent than his signal ability to unite conflicting elements. In every instance where he has been chosen to office there has been a contest between other candidates, and he was selected because he was acceptable to all factions. The secret of this is not that he is a negative man, but because of the breadth and accuracy of his views. He always impressed men with the positive honesty of his sentiments. When elected to the executive chair he will be President of the whole people, and will give satisfaction to all.

The campaign this year will not be fought upon the candidates, but upon the principles of the contending parties. The leading doctrines of the Republican party are clearly set forth in the letter of acceptance of General Garfield, and are such as the party may with perfect confidence commend to the consideration of the voters of the country. The Democracy as usual have no definite policy upon which they can appeal to the people.

Thoughtful people will find reason for thanks in the fact that we have been enabled to meet the cost of our vast imports this year, which are a hundred millions greater than ever before, without trenching on our reserve. It is true the balance of trade in our favor has been materially reduced, but our exports passed the highest figures ever previously known, and left us with an excess of exports amounts to almost a hundred millions.

Allegheny county's Democrats are as much at loggerheads as those of Philadelphia. The fight in Pittsburg, as in this city, is between the Tilden and anti-Tilden factions, the latter of which now carries the Hancock flag. Their troubles are further increased by the desertion of their Greenback allies. On the other hand, the Allegheny Republicans have composed their quarrels, are abandoning their rival organizations and promise to vie with their brethren of Philadelphia in rolling up a majority for Garfield.—Philadelphia Press.

POLITICAL FINE-CUT.

It is announced by authority that M. S. Quay is not a candidate for United States Senator.

"Hamburg" Butler reproves the duellists of South Carolina. Satan reproving sin.

Prince Leopold has hurt his ankle, and wants to go home to his ma. Poor fellow.

If some Pittston murderer were hanged perhaps there would be less killing in that town.

General Grant is going to spend a week with Gen. Garfield at the latter's farm in Ohio.

If Speaker Randall takes any interest in the present campaign the fact has not developed itself.

There are two Democratic headquarters just now—Mr. Tilden's residence and Governor's Island.

The Cobden club of England will take a hand in the Presidential election, in the interest of the Democracy.

The New York Herald is growing impatient at its poor success in hammering common sense into Democratic skulls.

The Democrats are thoroughly disgusted again with General Grant since he has declared in favor of the Republican ticket.

Missouri is now claiming General Hancock as a resident. He owns a farm in that State, and also another in Mississippi.

As between the two Yankee Generals, Jefferson Davis says he prefers Hancock,—which is quite natural, and very proper.

Col Forney has called upon Gen. Hancock, and received personal assurance that the latter appreciates the former's sacrifice.

Hancock, a soldier and—here his record ends. Garfield is a soldier and a statesman. His record is contained in the history of the country for the last twenty years.

General Garfield's letter is, on the whole, satisfactory, except to people who don't want to find any virtue in it. This number, however, is small.

Congressman March, the Greenbacker, says his party flourishes best when times are hard. The confession is honest and humiliating.

Col. Forney is writing the life of General Hancock for campaign circulation. He is to receive $5,000 for the work. Well, that is something.

General Roger A Pryor, who won his military title fighting against the Union thinks the country is in great danger from the Republicans.

The Democratic organs don't like General Arthur's letter of acceptance any better than they did Garfield's. They are so difficult to please.

Wade Hampton promised Hancock the solid Southern Electoral vote. He should have added: "Peaceably if we can—with shot-gun if we must."

Senator Cameron's alleged lukewarmness in the present contest does not appear to have been well grounded, much to the disgust of the Democrats.

Senator Ermentrout thinks he is the man who is going to wear Sec. Olvner's Congressional shoes. There are, however, nine other patriots after them.

There is a probability of a dead failure being the result of the attempt to harmonize the Democratic troubles in New York. In Philadelphia, ditto.

Hon. Galusha A. Grow has received invitations to "open the campaign" at twenty different points in the State within the next ten days. He is kept busy.

Senator Wallace, it is said, proposes to conduct the campaign in Pennsylvania on the "still hunt" plan. The Republicans will soon make him abandon such tactics.

The Hawkeye says: "Don't grumble about the hot weather. It is manufacturing the biggest crop of corn and potatoes and Republican votes ever known in the history of the country."

General Butler has at last, defined his position. He will devote himself this year to thorough identification with the Democratic party and next year run for Governor.

In 1864 the soldiers refused to vote for General McClellan because he was the candidate of the Democratic party. In 1880 they will decline to vote for General Hancock for the same reason.

Barksdale, the assassin of Captain Dixon, of Yazoo, Mississippi, is organizing Hancock clubs in that State. He expects to make things lively for Republicans, Greenbakers and Independent Democrats.

How would you like to have appropriations made out of the public fun is to pay rebels for their property confiscated during the slaveholder's rebellion? And yet that is one of the things inevitable if the Bourbon party is restored to power.

General Garfield's letter formally accepting the Republican nomination for the Presidency, is the strong yet simple expression by a strong and well trained yet modest mind of the fundamental truths and progressive ideas which are the faith of the Republican party. The leading thought of the letter, as it is the nation, the supremacy of its laws, the power of the national government, the universality of its citizenship, and its right and duty to protect its every citizen everywhere in the enjoyment of every right.

The presumptuous boast of the Democrats that they will carry Pennsylvania, if it ever stood the least chance of realization, has been rendered perfectly hopeless by the manly utterances of General Garfield upon the tariff question. Pennsylvania is for protection, and will cast her vote for no candidate within her limits or elsewhere, who is not in accord with her views upon this subject.

General Arthur's letter of acceptance is a strong, clear and emphatic expression of a pronounced Republican upon the strictest enforcement of the election laws and the amendments to the constitution. He takes strong grounds in favor of the leading tenets of the Republican faith, and expresses the utmost confidence in the triumph of his party next November.

The Democrats are publishing the statement that one John W. Forney is "out" for Hancock. Yes, gentlemen, he is out and he is out to stay, the same as poor Greeley, Curtin and Andy Johnson were "out." His name will go down in history as one of the men that was "out" and wanted to get in and couldn't. Selah.

The fiery, untamed bulldozer is already abroad in Alabama, and is compelling candidates to withdraw. Since Dixon was assassinated in Yazoo county, Mississippi, for the offense of running as an Independent, political ambition on the part of Independents or Republicans has been greatly discouraged.
