

HUMOROUS.

How thieves are generally high-spirited in their outbursts in the Territories.

Some things are past finding out. The live-for-whisky is what staggered a man.

A client confided in an answer: The spirit of mortal is proud because it so often conquers a glass.

It may be said that a country newspaper's subscription bill is a col, but they are no colliers.

When a man sets out to catch a horse he tries to convince her that he is a man after her own heart.

Jones, getting up from his dinner, in a quiet way remarked to his landlady that he found everything on the table cold except the ice cream.

A long procession: A procession of men passed through Main street this morning, and were an hour and a half passing a given point. The given point was a saloon.

It might have been: A fashionable young lady accidentally dropped one of her false eyebrows in her opera-box and greatly frightened her beau, who, on seeing it, thought it was his mistake.

No Foo runs a Chinese laundry in Boston. He shall have all our washing.—Lowell Courier. Send it along. One more shirt will probably not increase his labors much.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Singular unanimity: "Do I look anything like you, Mr. Jones?" inquired Caudill. "I hope not," was the reply. "Did a man take you for me?" "Yes." "Where is he?" "I must look him." "Oh, he's dead. I shot him on the spot."

A news item says that a Scranton lady kisses all the tramps who call at her gate, for their mother's sake. She seems to have solved the tramp question. Tramps never call at a gate the second time. They prefer ten days in the county jail.

Two old ladies evidently from out of town, were walking along the street one day last week, when one of them discovered a bunch of bananas. Stopping to look at them, she adjusted her glasses and exclaimed: "Well, I do declare, if them ain't bigger string beans than I ever saw in my life."

Outrageous proceedings: An old fellow whose daughter had failed to secure a position as teacher, in consequence of not passing an examination, said: "They asked her lots of things she didn't know. Look at the history questions! They asked her about things that happened before she was born! How was she going to know about them! Why they asked her about old George Washington and other men she never knew! That was a pretty sort of examination!"

Music of the future—Promissory notes. Scripture for toppers—The wages of sin is death. Reversal axiom—To err is human, to forgive unusual.

Some always. You at law. The funeral.

He who gives soft hats to his friends makes his presents felt.

A muzzle over a dog's mouth acts as a suspender to his pants.

"Irony" of the law—Sustaining a blacksmith for "forgery."

The lion is generally regarded as the king of beasts; but the Romans called the ox the bos.
