J. GROUSE Editor & Proprietor.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The message will compare favorably with the state papers of the ablest men who have occupied the Presidential office, in its literary merit, depth of conception and wide spirit of liberal thought, relating to questions of national importance that properly belong to such a document. The sincere feeling evinced in referring to the tragic death of of his predecessor; the modest reference to himself, and his declarations that he will endeavor to discharge the duties belonging to his high office as becomes one realizing its responsibilities, cares and multifarious duties are indications that cannot fail to gratify, impress and assure.

When the aspersions passed upon him pending the issues of the death wound are recalled, it is gratifying indeed—such a message, so full, comprehensive and patriotic. That it will agreeably disappoint the public there is little room for doubt. Upon all questions of vital moment that the people are reviewing and expect early congressional action upon, the President is clear and positive, leaving no room for cavil or dispute. With him, the interests of the whole people are associated under one general head, classified only as they form separate or distinctive subjects. He recognizes no force that favors sectionalism or special legislation. As an honest man the payment of national obligations upon the terms of the agreements entered into at the time, is urged. The settlement of the Indian problem, the uprooting of that incongruous growth so deadening and subversive of Republican institutions, Mormonism; the tariff measures and those adhering therewith legislative movements upon leading questions that spring these fruitful themes for discuss will find President Arthur right side ready to co-operate ing official sanction and ap ng to our relations with gland, Germany, Spain, other monarchical powers in the European continent, suggestions are timely and in ping with the democratic theory of government in its relations with other countries governed by laws opposite in their spirit and design In reference to the question growing out of the Isthmus of Panama imbroglio, wherein the relative rights of this country and of France are concerned, he places himself upon the Monroe doctrine.

The cruel war which has for some time been going on between Peru Bolivia and Chili, has caused much feeling of sympathy and compassion for the suffering people. that the President sent a commission to that country hoping that they would be the means of effecting some compromise putting a stop to such a terrible contest. It would seem as if intervention was necessary in this instance. All good citizens will rejoice should this commission prove successful. He represents the governmental relations with China and Japan as those of the most cordial and friendly character.

The financial subject in its various phases presents matters in an encouraging light, showing the wonderful recuperative resources of the country. He hardly deems it expedient at present to reduce the tax upon ardent spirits and tobacco. He favors legislation tending to advance the strength of the army without increasing the corps of commanding and subordinate offices.

He urges the prosecution of a guilty of malfeasance in office, believing that such is the only course that will strengthen the powers of government and enable its officials to discharge their duty in keeping with the spirit and letter of the law.

Upon the whole the message can not fail in favorably impressing every intelligent and considerate reader who peruses it for the purpose of gaining information and ascertaining the wishes of the chief magistrate. In a word it will bear the closest criticism. If congress follows its injunctions and lives up the high standard marked out present session will produce results that cannot do otherwise than the material interests of the credit upon consented.—

Gardner & Sons, car manufacturers at Carlisle, owing to a pressure of business, were compelled recently to refuse an order for 5,000 cars.

George P. Carr, aged 67 years, was drowned by falling into a creek near Franklin, Venago county, a few days since, while drunk.

The polygamists of Utah have no good reason to expect any favors from the new executive, as he has placed himself upon record as in favor of the adoption of the most stringent laws and their execution against all who carry out the corrupt prastices authorized in the Book of Mormon, or supplements that have been added thereto in order to gratify the lower passions of the disciples and upholders of the faith, so styled.

The friends of protection can readily see that President Arthur is a decided friend of tariff which will favor protecting the general industries that properly require such action upon the part of the general government. He is decidedly more outspoken and decisive than President Garfield's position he occupies more decided protective grounds.

The young wife of Senator Cameron has an interesting class in the Grace street Methodist church, of Harrisburg, who regret the absence of their teacher so many weeks of the year at Washington, where her husband is attending upon official duties. She is represented as a truly Christian woman, interested in matters that pertain to concerns of the present which have a bearing upon the future life.

Gentlemen—Having been afflicted for a number of years with indigestion and general debility, by the advice of my doctor I used Hop Bitters, and must say they afforded me almost instant relief. I am glad to be able to testify in their behalf. THOS. G. KNOX.
