Guiteau Sentenced.

TO BE HUNG JUNE 30th.

Judge Cox on Saturday overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of Guiteau, convicted of the deliberate murder of President Garfield, and sentenced him to be executed on the 30th day of June.

The case will be appealed to the district court in banc, where it will be heard during the April term: but there does not seem to be a single point on which to expect a reversal of the judgment. Judge Cox presided not only with great dignity and ability, but he gave the defense the widest possible latitude and ever ruled with the utmost regard for the rights of the prisoner.

The united affidavits of the twelve jurors denying that they had seen any newspaper during the trial, disposes of the only plausible claim the defense had for a new trial. As none of the jurors could have seen a newspaper without the knowledge of his fellow-jurors or of the the officers in charge of the jury, every juror and officer must be perjured if their sworn denial is false, and that would be a preposterous assumption.

The law requires that there shall be thirty days between the close of the term of the Court in Banc and no execution decreed by the Court. The April term, to which the Guiteau case will be appealed, ends with May, and there is every reason to believe that Charles J. Guiteau will atone for his monstrous crime on the gallows on the 30th of next June.

Frank Ramberger, one of the men in the Dauphin county jail under sentence of death for the murder of old Mr. Trautman, has been making a confession to a reporter of the Telegraph. If he tells the truth, he started in crime very young, and has been industriously traveling in that path ever since. His death will certainly not be a public loss. His first considerable crime was at the age of 14, when he robbed the safe of the Summit Branch Railroad at Williamstown. From that occurrence until his arrest for murder much of this time was spent in association with the desperate, in traveling thro' the West and in the commission of petty stealings and other crimes. His statement in regard to the murder of Mr. Trautman has nothing new in it. He and his accomplice, Henry Ramberger, went to Mr. Trautman's house to steal money which they understood he had: they entered Mr. T.'s room, when he seized a gun and chased them from the house, and as he came out they shot him. Frank's statement is not calculated to arouse any sympathy for him.

The Senators of both parties are manifesting considerable interest in behalf of the passage by the present session of Congress of a law to regulate the count of the electoral vote. It is admitted that now is a good time to pass such a law, because with the next Presidential election nearly three years in the future, Congress is free from the considerations of political and party benefit and can give the subject dispassionate attention. Senator Edmunds' bill, which passed the Senate of the 45th Congress, is regarded as an excellent measure and will receive some Democratic support. The present indications are that it will become a law.

President Garfield was shot on the 2nd of last July, and died eleven weeks and two days afterward, on the 19th of September. The trial of Guiteau began on the 14th of November, or eight weeks after the President's death, and the verdict was given January 25, or ten weeks and two days after the opening of the trial. It was twenty-nine weeks and four days from the shooting to the day of conviction, and it was eighteen weeks and two days after Gen Garfield's death that Guiteau was found guilty.

THE NEW APPORTIONMENT.—The Apportionment bill agreed on in committee fixes 320 as the aggregate membership of the House for the next decade, and allots 29 of these to Pennsylvania. The excess of two members over our present delegation will, in the absence of a legislative session, be elected as members at large.

Governor Hoyt has respited John P. Coyle, of York county, whose execution was fixed for March 24. This action is due to the fact that a writ of error had been taken out in the murderer's case within twenty days after sentence, as required by law.

Humbug Advertisements.

The time never has been and never will be when the people of this or any other country can buy a gold dollar for seventy-five cents. Neither can you, dear reader, purchase an organ worth three or four hundred dollars for $60. This is all nonsense. Still we have no objection to other people doing their business just as they see fit. We are selling a good, honest made Piano at from $185 to $575, and a good, honest Organ (not all stops) for from $48 to $475. All our goods are made upon honor, and we send to any part of the world on test trial, and if no pleasee no keepee, as the Chinaman would say. For the past ten years we have sent both Pianos and organs to every part of the world, and our instruments give the most universal satisfaction. If you wish a good instrument, one that will always last you, we shall be pleased to send you our catalogue and prices; and if you purchase one of the Thomas Brothers' Silver Tone Instruments you will get what you require, and one instrument sold in a neighborhood always sells us more. Address, for prices, etc.,
