County Superintendent Moyer spent the whole of yesterday the 27th inst.—with our borough schools. He was accompanied by the President and Secretary of our School Board—Boice-Benjamin, the two schools were united, and short addresses were made by the directors present, by the County Superintendent, by Mr. D. R. Rothrock—Several schools are recited declamations on call, and both schools joined in singing exercises, under the lead of Miss Wetzel, the efficient teacher of the primary school. The County Superintendent expressed himself satisfied with the progress and attendance, with teachers and pupils, in both schools.

Farmers, your attention is respectfully called to the Original and Improved Ward True Chilled Plows. The Company have spared no pains nor means in the employment of highest mechanical skill in producing not only the lightest running, most durable plow now offered the farming public, but the simplest and generally acknowledged best plow. It turns a furrow better, offers less resistance, sows more completely than any other chilled plow in the market. The company is composed of reliable men whose integrity and financial ability is unquestionable. Ex-Sheriff Bolender has a car-load of these plows on hand in the Fair-house where every farmer who desires may inspect them.

128 Broad St. Harrisburgh, March 21, 1882. DEAR EDITOR:

I was handed a copy of your paper, along with others, containing a notice of my having been placed in an Asylum because of mental derangement induced by over-study. Please say that this is a malicious libel manufactured by my enemies for a purpose. I never enjoyed better health and a more prosperous business than during the past year. I was only once in my life in a Lunatic Asylum than only an hour as a visitor—the conclusion I then arrived at were that there were inmates who should be at large and numbers out who should be in.

Respectfully Yours, J. H. KULZENKABE.

West Beaver.

EDITOR POST:—As a matter of information we have to announce the closing of the Kalpetzer Academy, in West Beaver township, which took place on Tuesday evening 21st inst. The building was filled by the parents and friends of the scholars. The efficient and genial teacher Miss Minnie Strunk made a very good presentation of the children in recitations, dialogues singing &c. and they certainly reflected great credit upon her efforts. Apparently, there is an interest taken in the cause of education here, but, until we see the sessions prolonged to ten months, instead of five, which, of course means more taxes, we shall fail to recognize real and true interest. The exercises were brought to a close after an unanimous vote of thanks, by the audience, to the faithful teacher, than whom, the County has not had a more zealous and pains-taking servant. The township is to be congratulated in the selection of Messrs. A. Augustus Romig and Amos Stook, as directors, at the late election and it is believed that they will give earnest attention to the selection of teachers as has marked the session just closed.

SPECTATOR.

THE SCAFFOLD!

Jonathan Moyer Hanged!

THE TOWN THROGGED WITH PEOPLE.

Jonathan Moyer, convicted at Dec. Term 1880 of the Court of Oyer and Terminer of this county, of complicity in the murder of the Kintzlers on the night of Dec. 8th, 1877, paid the penalty of his crime, March 24, 1882.

Our small borough literally swarmed with people from all parts of the county and from adjoining counties. As the hour for the execution drew nigh, access to the jail was scarcely possible, and those holding permit who arrived late and even the Jury of Inquest, could barely effect an entrance.

IN THE JAIL.

The prisoner had been neatly shaven in the afternoon preceding the execution by Calvin Stetler, and expressed himself as prepared to die. His aged mother also visited him in the afternoon, and the interview between her and her condemned son was heart-rending in the extreme. The son, however, comforted his mother by protesting that she had done all for him that a mother could, and by declaring his willingness to die. Moyer also requested the sacrament, which was administered by Rev. Reed, of the General Council Lutheran organization, after express caution to Moyer that if he was in any degree untruthful, he would eat and drink unworthily, and condemnation would surely follow.

Moyer was engaged in making spiritual preparation until midnight when he retired and slept soundly until about 6:30 A. M. of the day of execution. He ate a hearty breakfast about 7 o'clock, after returning thanks with his own lips.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock religious services were held in the cell of Uriah Moyer, brother of Jonathan, also under sentence of death for the same crime. During this time Joseph Moyer, another brother, was permitted to have brief parting interview with Jonathan in his cell. This ended, Revs. Reed, Edmonds, and Herrold, preceded to Jonathan's cell. Your correspondent also entered, and was welcomed with a long and hearty pressure of the hand by Moyer, who said: "I hope to meet you in Heaven." Revs. Edmonds and Reed then read responsive services in German in which Moyer joined. An English hymn was then sung, followed by one in German, lined by Rev. Edmonds, after which Rev. Glace, a Lutheran minister who had entered the cell in the meantime, led in fervent prayer, all present kneeling on the floor of the cell. Rev. Shindel entered the cell near the close of the services and was almost overcome with emotion.

THE CONDEMNED BROTHERS MEET.

Uriah Moyer was then admitted to the cell of Jonathan, and this thirteenth meeting between the unfortunate brothers was enough to melt a heart of flint. Uriah broke down and wept, while Jonathan bore up better, his voice faltering but once, as he told Uriah they had both sinned, and urged him to "tell all the truth, no matter what might be the result, and he (Uriah) would feel as though his chains had been stricken off him." Uriah promised to do so, and said he made no objection to Jonathan telling anything he desired. The brothers kissed each other repeatedly. Uriah was taken away, and all withdrew from the cell except the doorman and Rev. Reed.

Uriah was taken temporarily to the cell of Israel Erb, who is also under sentence of death for the Kintzler murder and a heavy blanket hung across his cell-window, to shut out the sights in the jail-yard.

THE SCAFFOLD.

The scaffold which had been erected by Stetler Bros. was placed at the west end of the jail-yard, and was 13 feet in height from beam to beam and 6 feet wide.

At the East end of the yard, raised seats had been put up sufficient to seat 114 persons comfortably, and those were soon filled with spectators.

JURY OF INQUEST.

At 10:28 A. M. the Jury of Inquest fled into the yard. The following gentlemen opposed the jury: Wm. H. Moyer, Calvin Stetler, D. T. Rhoades, Thomas Herber, Capt. Lewis Miller, Jacob Hartman, John K. Orwig, Irvin Graybill, Charles Bolender, J. R. Keeler, Henry Freed, J. H. Stalon.

The attendant physicians, J. Y. Shindel, M. D. of Middleburg, and B. F. Wagenseller, M. D. of Selinsgrove, also entered.

After some delay, Ex-Sheriff Bolender announced that the Execution was about to take place, requested all to observe the solemnity of the occasion, asked each spectator to consider himself a police-man and assist in preserving order, and cautioned all present not to take away portions of the rope after the hanging, as it would be needed hereafter.

MARCH TO THE SCAFFOLD.

At 11:38 A. M. in the presence of about one hundred and seventy-five spectators, Moyer was brought from his cell to the scaffold, accompanied by Sheriff Reichly, Ex-Sheriff Bolender and a Revs. Reed and Edmonds. He walked across the yard and upon the scaffold with a firm step and composed demeanor, and stepped to the front of the platform. Being asked by the Sheriff whether he had any statement to make, he hesitated, when Rev. Edmonds proceeded to read responsive services in German, Moyer reading the responses in concert with Rev. Reed and the Sheriff. Rev. Reed then read a German service, and closed with the Lord's Prayer.

Moyer spoke in substance as follows: "I have some corrections to make. I have published what I did, before, Emanuel Edinger killed them Friday evening towards sunset. My brother was along Saturday evening (meaning Edinger) told me, I was along to burn them. I forgive all my enemies. (After a pause.) But I was with people at work pleasantly when they were murdered—that I have of ten said before. (Another pause.) There were not more than two when they were killed, and three when they were robbed."

Moyer then shook hands with the ministers and the Sheriff. The prisoner's hands were then pinioned, he remaining composed, and talking in a low tone with the Sheriff. He then returned thanks to his spiritual advisers, particularly to "Brother Reed," and said he was willing to leave "this world of trouble."

The Sheriff, at the instance of the prisoner, then inquired whether any one desired to ask Moyer any questions? Upon this, J. G. Moyer, a cousin of the condemned man, and one of the principal witnesses for the prosecution, propounded a number of questions as to the position of the body of Mrs. Kintzler, with the evident motive of derailing Moyer's statement as to the time and manner of the killing. Moyer showed no hesitation or confusion in answering, but his questioner persisted in worrying the unfortunate man and disquieting all present, until Mr. Wunderly, the only one of Moyer's counsel who was present, arose and protested, and amid murmurs of assent from the spectators. In reply to the question, was Erb there? Moyer answered, "He was not present when it was committed—there were three when they were robbed." In answer to the question, Did Erb know anything about it? Moyer nodded, and said, "Uriah will tell." At 11:22 the Sheriff told Moyer he could have five minutes more, and a minute later announced that Moyer had nothing further to say.

THE DROP.

At 11:23 the Sheriff adjusted the noose, the prisoner saying, firmly, "Good-bye," his last words. The white cap was then drawn down over his face, and the trap sprung at 11:26 A. M. Owing to one of the supports not having been removed in time, the doors did not fall at once but partly sunk, and fell only after the remaining support had been removed. Although the delay was only momentary it prevented the breaking of Moyer's neck, and death ensued at 11:24 or 25 minutes after the trap was sprung. The rope, 3 inch manilla, had a fall of 32 inches. After Moyer had been pronounced dead, a collection was taken up for Moyer's children. At about 11:45 Moyer's coffin was brought in, the body was taken down and laid in it, and thus ended the first judicial hanging in Snyder county, and would to God it were compatible with justice that it might be the last.
