The Post

Middleburg, April 20, 1882.

J. CROUSE Editor & Proprietor.

George M. Chilcott, of Pueblo, has been appointed United States senator from Colorado to succeed Mr. Teller, Mr. Chilcott is a native of Huntingdon county, Pa., and is fifty-four years of age. He went to Iowa while yet a youth, and studied medicine upon arriving at manhood. He was chosen sheriff in Jackson county, Iowa, at the age of twenty four. Four years later he moved to Nebraska, where he served as a member of the legislature. He finally settled in Colorado and began to practice law. He was register of the land office during President Lincoln's term, and represented Colorado in the fortieth congress.

The wretch that took the life of Garfield develops every day more and more into a fiend. His last words, denouncing his sister, whose anxious solicitude and devotion has awakened so much sympathy since her brother brought the family into disgrace prove that he is a depraved, ungrateful and soul-calloused criminal, destitute of the least grain of gratitude and love. His actions since the close of the trial all go to prove that he was not destitute of reason when he fired the fatal shot, but destitute of that regard for life and honor which constitutes a citizen deserving of protection under law.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 13. This morning Attorney General Palmer filed with the prothonotary 213 suits against mutual insurance companies of this state, and asked that writs of quo warranto be issued by the court in all the cases to show cause why their business should not be closed up. He alleges that these companies have not complied with the law, and that no annual statements have been made of their business. The list includes nearly every company in the state, and the procedure will be similar to that taken in previous cases where companies have been dissolved. The intention is to pipe them all out of existence.

Republicans that fear so much in the coming elections west of the Mississippi, on account of the President's veto, should bear in mind that General Garfield carried only four electoral votes in what is called the Pacific state territory in 1880. If the President had acted unwisely, had overstepped the boundaries of equitable action, this question of effect might cause uneasiness. He is sustained, however, by the better sentiment, and, best of all, by the law under which this government has regulated matters for one hundred years

On Sunday a week, Rev. L. Hamilton, pastor of the Independent Church at Oakland, Cal., died suddenly in the pulpit during his discourse. He paused in his sermon and sinking down, expired almost instantly. The deceased was sixty years of age and well known on the Pacific coast.

Gen. Beaver's consistent political bearing, irreproachable character and patriotic record, place him beyond the reach of men that would shipwreck his prospects for the gubernatorial race.

Michael Eagen, a miner employed at a coal and iron colliery in Beechwood, Schuylkill county, fell into a brook while returning from work on Wednesday night and was frozen to death.

Guiteau is of the same opinion with the people occasionally. He declares most emphatically that he is not insane and proves his declarations true by his words and acts.

A charter was granted on Wednesday for the Taylor manufacturing company, of Chambersburg. The capital stock is $150,000, and the company proposes to build locomotives.

The postoffice department is now paying its own way, and by honest effort will soon prove an aid instead of a burden to the people.

The Clearfield coal miners insist on their demand for an advance of 15 cents. Unless this demand is granted 3,000 men will strike.

The reports from Lancaster indicate that the tobacco crop will be the largest ever raised in the state.

Henry M. Stanley, the African explorer, thinks he will return in about the spring of 1883.

The Duncannon blast furnace has resumed operations, after being closed for ten years.
