The AMERICAN JOURNALIST for August is an excellent number of this superior Journal. This number contains a carefully prepared and very large variety of interesting facts and statistics, giving a full showing of the whole Agricultural work, resources, and productions of the United States, and of each State and Territory—of great value for future reference.

We are in receipt of a copy of Frank A. Burr's Life of General James A. Beaver, the Republican candidate for Governor. Mr. Burr is a superb writer—his use and choice of language is simply grand and his style easy and natural. His graceful statement of facts without the usual high-coloring makes the work interesting.

The young man may read the book and be instructed, edified, enlightened and delighted—a lesson of incalculable value may be learned by every young man everywhere, and to follow in the footsteps of the orphan, student, lawyer, soldier, statesman will inevitably bring good results.

Mr. Editor, madame Rumor is more than half the time in error, and I can assure you it was not the Buckeye blacksmith the Captain piloted over the bridge on the 4th, but that other blacksmith—that is to say, the "NEW BLACKSMITH." Veleau, you remember, forged thunderbolts for Jupiter, well this NEW BLACKSMITH isn't any relation of his, but he has a strong desire to get into the Captain's FRUENDSHIP and if Cupid, who might be Veleau's sister or anybody else's sister, don't quit making darts somebody will be hurt that way. For particulars don't ask the Captain but the Colonel.

A Cake walk, and Festival will be held at Centreville, Saturday, July 26. A good time is anticipated.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. J. L. Haldeman gave a birthday party in honor of her husband who arrived at his 69th birthday. To give a word picture of the entertainment would fall far short for it was simply grand in all its appointments.

Among the guests were Rev. Logan and wife, Mr. E. P. Tittel and wife, J. Lafr and wife, Theo. Shuman and wife, H. Hoppie and wife, F. Kramer and wife, H. Rice and wife, W. Giff and wife, T. Shuman and wife, Mrs. Jennings, Dr. J. L. Haldeman and wife, Dr. G. M. Stitzer, Clark Sherrill, Klinehart of Millertown, Robert Wallis and wife of Liverpool, James Wilson and E. Doyne of Thompson's town. After partaking of refreshments E. P. Tittel made a very neat little speech and on behalf of the guests presented Mr. H. with a beautiful gold-headed cane and other appropriate presents. Professor Jones, Centennial Band, of Millertown discoursed excellent music, and the whole passed off delightfully.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

A singular and fatal railroad accident occurred on the Sunbury, Hazleton and Wilkes-Barre railroad at an early hour on Saturday morning last. The night freight train, consisting of over one hundred cars, while on its way to Sunbury from Tomiokan, and when descending a heavy grade at Millin cross-roads became disconnected near the center. The engine being in a precarious position, and the rear section with increasing speed followed behind, and finally plunged into the rear part of the train, wrecking it and piling high in the air about thirty cars. The collision was felt by the engineer, who, as soon as possible stopped his engine, and, together with the crew, ran back to ascertain the cause of the smashup. It was then discovered that three tramps had boarded the train some where on the road, and were quietly sleeping in a box car near where the train broke loose. The dead body of one of them was seen under the wreck. On further examination the remains of another was found, while the other lay a short distance off, seemingly if not fatally injured. The tramps were apparently strangers to each other, and but little could be ascertained from the one who escaped. It has been learned, however, that one of the dead men was Patrick Martin of Pittsburg. He remained with those of the other unknown, were in the village church yard, while the hospitable people are kindly caring for the other unfortunate. -SUNDAY DEMOCRAT.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF STYLE.

By Herbert Spencer. Price 15 cents. No. 31 of the Houghton Library of Science, J. H. F. & Co., Publishers, 30 Lafayette Place, New York. Bulky volumes have been written to show wherein consists the philosophy of literary style, and to establish the principles on which spoken or written speech depends for its force as an instrument of persuasion or simply as a means of communicating ideas. But the rhetoricians have done very little toward the development of a coherent "philosophy of style," or toward the establishment of a criterion by which the essential characters of style may be determined. Herbert Spencer supplies this defect, by applying to the subject the principles and methods that have been found so effective in natural science. He has in short, developed the essential laws of style, and he has, and his companions, treated with real with pleasure and profit by all. Published by J. H. F. & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Cure von Asthma.

A lady whose husband has suffered very recently from asthma, and has tried many methods of relief without advantage, sends the following: "On very hot days when the thermometer stood at one hundred and six degrees my husband took a severe cold and asthma trouble commenced. A gentleman said his word that an old man of his acquaintance had been cured by sleeping on a pillow made of 'swallowtail,' or as the Massachusetts people call it, 'sile' crabs.' It grew wild in most places in the country, and is very scarce, and considerably more a difficult thing to find—made into tea, of course. We had not a particle of faith, but, as some grew close by, sent and got it, and as it was not dry enough for pillow, put it on the floor in his bedroom. That night my husband did not have the asthma, nor has he had it since. We do not expect it to last, but we don't know. We are gathering more. We are going to give it a thorough trial. It has worked a miracle so far, for it is now a week since he has had the asthma."
