

ose olden times ! how many words	Ine 'Till rich tradition makes each tomb a	Till armies, nations, nobles, royalties,		abundance. Suddenly one of our		KNOWN AND REPORNIZED IN
are spent	shrine.	Are laid at rest, with all their fears		number, noted in our travels for his		EVENYOUARER OF FILE CLOBE weak regret and shallow argument prove them wiser, happier than		and hates ;	threatening us.	acute hearing, declared the doge our own !	Our standing army those, with	Till Europes thirteen Monarchies are		were after us. According to pre-		The Carpenter Organs oldest moment that the word has	spectre glaives, Our fortressed towns their battle-or-	States, Without a barrier and without a		vious agreement, when we were sat-		were first manufactured as early as 1850 at Brat- belown', VL. For a number of years the extensive known 4	dered graves.	throne,		isfied such was the case, we separat-		Contesten Onias Wonas and Guaral Office Lavo assing now. Those vaunte l times	Here sleep our valiant, sown like drag-	Of one grand Federation like our		ed, each running in different direc-		Worcoster, Mass., U. S. A., With Branch Offices and Warercoms in were young ; ir wisdom from unlettered pea-	on's teeth ;	own !		tions to give the dogs all the trouble		New York (No. 7 West Functional Street), sants sprung ;	Here new-born sons renew the plous	For The Post.		we could, as possibly by the method	all and a burner of a construction of the second second second	London, Madras St. Petersburg, ir laws from nobles arrogant and	wreath ; Here proud Columbia bends, with	REBEL PRISONS.	over, had it been desirable.	some of us might escape.	must be good to be acceptable.	City of Mexico, Berlin, Barcelona rude ;	tear-stirred mouth,		At another time that night we		The second of the second secon	Bweetness of Tons in every real, Durability in every part, ir justice force, their whole	To kiss their blood-seal, binding	BY DR. R. ROTHROCK.		I jumped into a little brook which	and millin tours to pelligation	Are Characteristic of the CARPENTER CROANS.
achievement crude. h men the old are wise: who	North and South,			ran along through the low land	i and a state apprenting the state	WARRANTED for EIGHT YEARS.
change the rule	Two clasping hands upon the knot	The course I had marked out was			with the you may be content.	MOST RELIABLE DEALERS sell the en nations speak, and send the	they tied When Union lived and human Slavery	very simple. If I tried to reach		and the second sec	interest and common nemet	Concerna Charas, but if any do not have them to show you, write direct to the factory for a Calaold to school ?	died.	Sherman on the east side of Macon,			make the best counsellors.	them.
pest the past for all the good it		flanking towards the sea shore, I had		To be Continued.	Many men fail of success in life	OVER 100 STYLES, knew :	Who doubts our strength or measure	many large places to pass, and such a	o'clock that morning it stopped rain-	Name and Address of the owner owne	for want of great occasions.	Banging in price from $20.00 to $1,200.00 and over. A boautiful 100 page Catalorne, the finest their due :	it with those Whose armed millions wait for com-	course would throw us in contact	ing, and we lay down together under	Late Month Country Lots		A beautiful 100-page Catalogue, the finest ever published, SENT FREE to intend- ing purchasors.
ask, what freedom knew the com-	ing foes,	with the many marauding forage	a tree, to get such rest as best we	Falls, for a distinguished New York		Address or call upon mon' men	They judge by royal standards, that	parties which would naturally fre-	could. It was such lodging as we were accustomed to, and the three	professor has discovered that the		E. P. CARFENTER, Worcester, Mass., U. S. A.
perved and bled and won the	depend	quent that portion of the country,	middle ones had some hopes of	fails themselves have been receding		MADDIN WODI victories then ? leaders are immortal, but the	On hireling hands to threaten or de-	My plan was to go to the westward	keeping warm.	about half an inch every year. He	and the second se	MARBLE WORK hordes	fend,	of Macon, in a Northwesterly course	At daylight, stiff and more weary	calculates that about 1,267,700 years		LEWISBURG, PA. y led to death were simply human	That keep their war-dogs chained in	until the Chattaboochie River was	than when we lay down, we resumed	man boou reduitor tot man to out		And and a second s swords,	time of peace, And dread a foe scarce less than their	reached, then following due north	our journey through the woods.	their way up to their present loca-		ITALIAN AND AMERICAN MARBLE mowing what they fought for,	release.	until the blue-hills around Marietta	One Takanan aska man outen and	tion, and also believes that in about		MONUMENTS, why they fell.	Who hunt wild beasts with cheetahs,	could be seen, trust to fate and Sher-	during the day we stopped only to	3,128,000 years more the twenty-five		Tombstones, Statues, Urns, Vases - at change has come? Imperial	fiercely tame,	man for deliverance. These plans I	pick a few berries which grew in	miles of solid rock between the vil-		LAMBS, for Children's G aves, Posts, Lintels, Tabletops, Murble and Europe tell 1	Must watch their hounds as well as	had stated briefly to my companions,		lage of Ningara and Lake Erie will	injure us, even if we do not lorget.
			the woods. We got nothing else to			Slade Manteis, Acc.
	fear their game.	who had adopted them, and looked	the woods. We got nothing else to	lave been entirely waenou aways	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas-	All those who desire to purchase tombstones th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ;		upon me as Moses, who was to lead	eat during that day. Next day,	which will be bad on the lake, but	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of	All those who desire to purchase tombstones anything else manufactured at the above men- toned markle works, should consult the under th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; wa's field the word of Pievna	Around our veterans hung so dread or doubt	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land.	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some	which will be bad on the lake, but still barder on the hackmen who are	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour.	All those who losire to purchase tombetones anything else manufactured at the above men- toned marble works, should ensuit the under signed agent, before purchasing elsewhere. SAMUEL BOWEN, der th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; wa's field the word of Plevna speaks :	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus-	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We	which will be bad on the lake, but still barder on the backmen who are depending on the falls and strangers	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour.	All those who losire to purchase tombetones anything else in a outractured at the above men- tioned marble works, should consult the under skaned agent, before purchasing elsewhere. SAMUEL BOWEN, der July 15 '75-tf Middleburg, Shy Co.F
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; wa's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea-	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out,	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one	which will be bad on the lake, but still barder on the hackmen who are	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar.	All those who losire to purchase tombetones anything else manufactured at the above men- toned marble works, should ensuit the under signed agent, before purchasing elsewhere. SAMUEL BOWEN, der th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; æa's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms,	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party.	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living.	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago	All those who losire to purchase tombetones anything else in a suffictured at the abave men- toned marble works, should ensuit the under signed agent, before purchasing elsewhere. SAMUEL BOWEN, dec July 15 '75-tr Middleburg, Sny Co.P PIMPLES, I will mall (free) the receipt for a simple
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; wa's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis	All those who losire to purchase tombetones anything else in a out a thread at the abave men- tioned marrie wards, should ensuit the under skined agent, before purchasing elsewhere. SAMUEL BOWEN, der July 15 '75-tf Middleburg, Sny Co.P PIMPLES. I will mall (free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable them that will remove Tar.
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; wa's field the word of Plevna peaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- mant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like,	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suil-	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man w.s brought before the examining board	All those who losite to purchase tombetones anything else manufactured at the abase men- tioned unrhis works, should emsult the under signed agent, before purchasing elsewhere. SAMUEL BOWEN, der July 18 'that Middeburg, Sby Co.P PAMPLES. I will mall (free) the receipt for a simple Yegetable them that will remove Tar, FreeBive, Pinnels and Hiotches, baying the sin soft, clear and beautifuil; alrein-true then soft, clear and beautifuil; alrein-true
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; wa's field the word of Plevna peaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- mant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like,	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy-	All those who losite to purchase tombetones anything else in an una tured at the above mer- tioned unarries were, should ensuit the under signed agent, before burrelasing elsewhere. SAMUEL HOWEN, der July 18 'Ta-tr Middleburg, Sny Co.P PUMPPLES. I will mail (free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable theirs that will remove Tar, Freekbes, Pluiples and Hiotches, beving the skin set, clear and healthailte instruc- tion for producting a furgrant for a simple played head or smooth face. Address in- clasing a stamp, BEN VANDELF a CO., 12
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; wa's field the word of Plevna "peaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- mant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suil- ing lakes,	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not be should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor	All those who losite to purchase tombetones anything else in a outractured at the allows meet constituenties were, should ensuit the under signed agent, before burrelasing elsewhere. SAMUEL BOWEN, der July 18 '78-tr Middleburg, Shy Co.P PRMPPLES. I will mall (free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable theirs that will remove Tar, Freekbes, Pluples and Blotches, beving the skin seft, chars and beautiful, bein instruc- tion for productor a lu serial fair a simple tion for productor a fur struct of hair on a bait bead or smooth face. Address the closing 3a, stamp, BEN VANBELF & CO., 12 Another St. N.Y.
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; wa's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea.	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers,"	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man w.s brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not be should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination	All those who losite to purchase tombetones anything else in a outractured at the allows meet constituenties were, should ensuit the under signed agent, before burrelasing elsewhere. SAMUEL BOWEN, der July 18 '78-tr Middleburg, Shy Co.P PRMPPLES. I will mall (free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable theirs that will remove Tar, Freekbes, Pluples and Blotches, beving the skin seft, chars and beautiful, bein instruc- tion for productor a lu serial fair a simple tion for productor a fur struct of hair on a bait bead or smooth face. Address the closing 3a, stamp, BEN VANBELF & CO., 12 Another St. N.Y.
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; an's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- mant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel natural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ;	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds,	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another cut her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers,"	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man w.s brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not be should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination	All those who losite to purchase tombetones anything else in a outractured at the above mer- tioned unarries were, should ensuit the under signed agent, before purchasing elsewhere. Samuel, BOWEN, der July 1s 'tast Middleburg, Sny Co.P PUMPLES. I will mall (free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable them that will reheave Tar, Freekber, Pluiples and Blotches, beving the skin sett unstituit, above Tar, Freekber, Pluiples and Blotches, baring the skin heat or a most face. Address in charden best or a most face. Address in thereby St. N.Y. TO CONSUMPTIVES.
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; an's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- mant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms; earth mapped ont estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children breat to feel maural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies'	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen,	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him nicked it up, "Got fooled how to"	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man w.s brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer,	All those who losite to purchase tombetones styling else manufactured at the above mer- ioned unarhie works, should ensuit the under SAMUEL BOWEN, der SAMUEL BOWEN, der PURCHASS, Styling Co.P. PURCHASS, Styling Negligible them that will remove Ter, Freehlers, Pinples and Hintches, having the sin soft, clear and beautiful; alenin-true- tions for producture a twometal growth of hair another beautiful; alenin-true- tions for soft, clear and beautiful; alenin-true- tions for soft, soft, soft, soft, soft, soft, soft, arothy St. N.Y. TO CONSUMPTIVES. The alvertiser having been permanently under of thest dread disease. Comeungifue, by
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, oren kinds, five million men in urms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ;	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact.	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth-	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" ohnckled the first man. "No," said	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wish brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow	All those who losite to purchase tombetones systems else manufactured at the above mer- inned unrile works, should ensuit the under SAMUEL HOWEN, der July 18 'Tatt Middleburg, Shy Co.P PUNPLES, I will mill (free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable them that will remove Tar, Presented the theory of the simple receipted the second this remove Tar, Presented the theory of the simple to all neith (free) the receipt for a simple receipted the them that will remove Tar, Presented the theory of the simple to all neith (free) the receipt for a simple receipted the them that will remove Tar, Presented the theory of the simple to all head or smooth face. Address the charden St. N.Y. TO CONSUMPTIVES. The alverther having been permanently strengt remove the to make know to the file ender the two of the pre-
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, oren kinds, five million men in urms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in smil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yest army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" chuckled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10."	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?"	All those who losite to purchase tombetones synching else manufactured at the allowe meet constituction with else and the allowe meet and the second meet allower meet and the town of the allower to but to the the allower allower allower allower allower a
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ma's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- mant farms, oren kinds, five million men in arms; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel matural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' field is builded by the people lined h scowling forts and roadways un-	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in smil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yest army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and awimming with almost	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifor, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" obnokled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10."	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them."	All those who losite to purchase tombetones systems else na outra tured at the allowe merry oned unarrie wards, should ensuit the under Multiple town of the system July 1s 15-11 Middleburg, Shy Co.P PRANCEL HOWEN. PRANCELES. Influence the societ for a simple restrict the first will remove Tar, by the their the societ for a simple restrict the stand beautiful remove Tar, by the stand the societ for a simple restrict the stand beautiful remove to that a stand beautor a furger that a simple to a size stand beautiful remove the size of the size stand beautiful the size stand a size stand beautor a furger of the size stand a size stand beautor a size stand beautiful the size of the size stand beautiful the size stand a size stand beautor a size stand beautor size stand a size stand beautor a size stand beautor size stand a size stand beautor a size stand beautor size stand a size stand beautor size stand beautor size stand beautor size stand beautor size stand beautor size stand beautor size stand beautor size stand beautor size stand beautor size stand bea
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, oren kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel satural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined h scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ;	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in smil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast.	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost grantic exertion soon brought us to	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it.	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" obnckled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10."	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh-	All those who losite to purchase tombetones synching else manufactured at the allowe mer- boned unarhie works, should ensuit the under SAMUEL HOWEN, der July 18 '18-11' Middleburg, Shy Co.P' PUMPLES . I will mail (free) the noselet for a simple result in the state of the state of the string for state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the star for state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of t
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, oren kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel satural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined h scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every basioned frontier, every state	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mustered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in smiling lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. Bo died the hatred of our brother- 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little sait we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" ohnckled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner?" —"Yos my sen, we are all sinners."	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did you ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?"	All those who losite to purchase tombetones synching else manufactured at the Alexe mer constituation wave, should emissife the under SAMUEL BOWEN, der July 18 'that Middleburg, Sby Co.P. PURCHASSION OF State PURCHASSION OF S
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; an's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- ant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' heed ; eities builded by the people lined h scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, Picibn, sworded, standing by the	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mustered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in smiling lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. Bo died the hatred of our brother- 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which anch swollen by freshets, was	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the	which will be bad on the lake, but still barder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" chuckled the first man. "No," said the socond, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner?" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners."	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did you ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time."	All those who loss to purchase tombetones and the allows meeting the second end of the topurchase tombetones. All the second end of the second end end
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- eant farms, oren kinds, five million men in wrms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' field ; eities builded by the people lined h scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, heiton, sworded, standing by the fate 1	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mustered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suiling lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brotherfeud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was running swiftly. Getting upon logs,	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negross. Our first confidence in	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" chuckled the first man. "No," said the socond, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner?" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it !"	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did you ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the	All those who loss to purchase tombetones any thing else manufactured at the Alexe merging of the theore introducing the shows merging and agent, before introducing the shows the source of the sourc
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- eant farms, oren kinds, five million men in wrms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' field ; eities builded by the people lined h scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, heiton, sworded, standing by the fate 1	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mustered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in suiling lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brotherfeud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What victor king e'er spared the van- 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was running swiftly. Getting upon logs, we floated with the stream for sever-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another cut her threat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negroes. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" chuckled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner?" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it !" "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers !"	All those who loss to purchase tombetones and the allows meeting the second end of the topurchase tombetones. So which the solars meeting and the second end of the second for the second for the second for the second of the second for the second for the second for the second for the second end of the second for the second for the second of the second for the
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, oren kinds, five million men in urms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined b scowing forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, beion, sworded, standing by the fate 1 furn our eyes from those oppres- tive lands ;	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mustered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in suiling lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brotherfeud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What victor king e'er spared the van-quished foe 1 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was unning swiftly. Getting upon logs, we floated with the stream for sever- al hours, until we thought it suffi-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another cut her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little sait we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negross. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by any preconceived ideas, but by ac-	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey ?" obuckled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner?" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it ?" "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then pa, are you the devil 1" His offspringe	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers !"	All those who loss to purchase tombetones and the allows meeting the second end of the topurchase tombetones. So which the solars meeting and the second end of the second for the second for the second for the second of the second for the second for the second for the second for the second end of the second for the second for the second of the second for the
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, oren kinds, five million men in urms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined b scowing forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, beion, sworded, standing by the fate 1 furn our eyes from those oppres- tive lands ;	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mustered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in suiling lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brotherfeud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What victor king e'er spared the van-quished foe 1 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was 'unning swiftly. Getting upon logs, we floated with the stream for sever- al hours, until we thought it suffi- cient to baffle the dogs from further	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negross. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by any preconceived ideas, but by ac- eident. We discovered it was pos	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey ?" obnokled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner?" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it ?" "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then ps, are you the devil 1" His offsprings logic was too much for him and he	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wis brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers !"	All those who loss to purchase tombetones and the allows meeting the second end of the topurchase tombetones. So which the solars meeting and the second end of the second for the second for the second for the second of the second for the second for the second for the second for the second end of the second for the second for the second of the second for the
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children breat to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined h scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, bision, sworded, standing by the fate 1 furn our eyes from those oppres- sive lands ; old, one country all defenseless stands,	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mustered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in suiling lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brotherfeud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What vistor king e'er spared the van-quished foe ? How much of mercy did strong Prussia sho w 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was unning swiftly. Getting upon logs, we floated with the stream for sever- al hours, until we thought it suffi- cient to baffle the dogs from further pursuit. It was nearly noon, when,	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another cut her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negross. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by any preconceived ideas, but by ac- cident. We discovered it was pos- sible to trust them, to some extent,	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey ?" obnokled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it ?" "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then ps, are you the devil 1" His offsprings logic was too much for him and he elipped out of the room without an-	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wise brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers !" "Why I carried them back." The old farmer gave a blow al- most as loud as Nancy Hart's whis-	All these when loose to provide the allower meeting of the second meeting of the transfer of the second meeting of the second meetin
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, ozen kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; elties builded by the people lined h scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, plaion, sworded, standing by the tate 1 furn our eyes from those oppres- sive lands : eld, one country all defenseless stands, nation-continent, from East to	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mustered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in smilling lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brotherfeud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What vistor king s'er spared the van-quished foe ? How much of mercy did strong Prussia sho w 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he heard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was 'unning swiftly. Getting upon logs, we floated with the stream for sever- al hours, until we thought it suffi- cient to baffle the dogs from further paranit. It was nearly noon, when, wet and exhausted, chilled with be	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little sait we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negrose. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by any preconceived ideas, but by ac- cident. We discovered it was pos- sible to trust them, to some extent, from the following incident. One	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey ?" obnokled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it ?" "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then ps, are you the devil 1" His offsprings logic was too much for him and he elipped out of the room without an-	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man w.s brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers ?" "Why I carried them back." The old farmer gave a blow al- most as loud as Nancy Hart's whis- tle, and said :	All those who loss to purchase tombetones and the allows meeting the second end of the topurchase tombetones. So which the solars meeting and the second end of the second for the second for the second for the second of the second for the second for the second for the second for the second end of the second for the second for the second of the second for the
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- sant farms, oren kinds, five million men in urms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children bred to feel utural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined b scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, beion, sworded, standing by the sate 1 iturn our eyes from those oppres- tive lands : old, one country all defenseless tiands, nation-continent, from East to West,	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brother- feud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What victor king e'er spared the van- quished for 1 How much of mercy did strong Prus- sia show When anguished Paris in dust by prone ?	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he beard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to F.int River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was running swiftly. Getting upon loge, we floated with the stream for sever- al hours, until we thought it suffi- cient to baffle the dogs from further pursuit. It was nearly noon, when, wet and exhausted, chilled with be ing so long in the water, we crawled	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negross. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by any preconceived ideas, but by so- eident. We discovered it was pos- sible to trust them, to some extent, from the following incident. One day "e came accidentally upon some	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" ohnckled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner?" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it ?" "Yee, dear, I believe it does." "Then pa, are you the devil 1" His offspringe logic was too much for him and he slipped out of the room without an- swering.— Youkers Gazette,	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man w.s brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did you ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers !" "Why I carried them back." The old farmer gave a blow al- most as loud as Nancy Hart's whis- tle, and said : "Gentlemen, he's no lumatic !	<text><text><text><text><text><text><text></text></text></text></text></text></text></text>
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- ant farms, oren kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and cread ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined b scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, plaion, sworded, standing by the sate ! furn our eyes from those oppres- tive lands : old, one country all defenseless stands, nation-continent, from East to West, Friches heaped upon her bount-	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in suil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea, Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brother- feud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What victor king e'er spared the van- quished foe 1 How much of mercy did strong Prus- sia sho w When anguished Paris in dust bay prone ? The German trumpet rang above her 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he beard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was running swiftly. Getting upon loge, we floated with the stream for sever- al hours, until we thought it suffi- cient to baffle the dogs from further pursuit. It was nearly noon, when, wet and exhausted, chilled with be ing so long in the water, we crawled upon the opposite shore, and wer-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negross. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by any preconceived ideas, but by ac- cident. We discovered it was pos- sible to trust them, to some extent, from the following incident. One day "e came accidentally upon some negrose vorking in the woods.	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him pickod it up. "Got fooled, hey !" ohnckled the first man. "No," said the socond, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner?" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it ?" "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then pa, are you the devil 1" His offsprings logic was too much for him and he elipped out of the room without an- swering.— Yonkers Gazette,	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man w.s brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did you ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers !" "Why I carried them back." The old farmer gave a blow al- most as loud as Nancy Hart's whis- tle, and said : "Gentlemen, he's no lumatie ! Just simply a common liar, and all	<text><text><text><text><text><text></text></text></text></text></text></text>
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- ant farms, oren kinds, five million men in arms; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and creed ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined b scowling forts and roadways un- demined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, pleion, sworded, standing by the fate ! furn our eyes from those oppres- tive lands : old, one country all defenseless stands, nation-continent, from East to West, Friches heaped upon bar bount- fous breast ;	Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snow that fall in suil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea. Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brother- feud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What victor king e'er spared the van- quished for 1 How much of mercy did strong Prus- sia show When anguished Paris in dust by prone ?	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he beard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to F.int River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was 'unning swiftly. Getting upon logs, we floated with the stream for sever- al hours, until we thought it suffi- dient to baffle the dogs from further paranti. It was nearly noon, when, wet and exhausted, chilled with be ing so long in the water, we crawled upon the opposite shore, and wer- gled to run to get ap a little warmth	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negrose. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by any preconceived ideas, but by ac- cident. We discovered it was pos sible to trust them, to some extent, from the following incident. One day "e came accidentally upon some negroes vorking in the wouls. We ran away quickly, thinking to	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him picked it up. "Got fooled, hey !" chuckled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner!" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it !" "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then pa, are you the devil 1" His offsprings logic was too much for him and he elipped out of the room without an- swering.— Youkers Gazette, Smokeing and chewing are two wils, and he who selects the former	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man wish brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said: "My friend, did yon ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers ?" "Why I carried them back." The old farmer gave a blow al- most as loud as Nancy Hart's whis- tle, and said : "Genthemen, he's no lunstie ! Just simply a common liar, and all the asylums in the world won't curo	<text><text><text><text><text><text><text></text></text></text></text></text></text></text>
th's warders ory from twenty cen- turies' peaks ; ea's field the word of Plevna speaks : martial draft still wastes the pea- ant farms, oren kinds, five million men in arms ; earth mapped out estate-like, hedged with steel ; eighboring schools the children brea to feel atural hate, disjoined in speech and cread ; forges roaring for the armies' need ; eities builded by the people lined b scowling forts and roadways un- dermined ; every bastioned frontier, every state, plaion, sworded, standing by the sate ! furn our eyes from those oppres- tive lands : old, one country all defenseless stands, nation-continent, from East to West, Friches heaped upon her bount-	 Around our veterans hung ao dread or doubt When thrice a million men were mus- tered out, As scattered seed in new-ploughed land, or flaks Of Tpring-time snowthat fall in suil- ing lakes, Our war born soldiers sank in the sea, Of peaceful life and fruitful energy. No sign remained of that yast army, save In field and street new workmen, bronzed and grave ; Some whittling teamsters still in army vest Some quiet citizens with medalled breast. So died the hatred of our brother- feud ; The conflict o're, the triumph was subdued What victor king e'er spared the van- quished foe 1 How much of mercy did strong Prus- sia sho w When anguished Paris in dust bay prone ? The German trumpet rang above her 	upon me as Moses, who was to lead them to the promise land. Travelling through the woods dur- ing the night, one of my four com- rades got separated from the party. The next morning we reached over- flowed portions of country, which in- dicated that we were near the Flint River. While debating as to the best course to pursue, one of my par- ty declared he beard the hounds, which we soon found was an un- pleasent fact. Not a moment was to be lost, and wading and swimming with almost frantic exertion soon brought us to Fint River, the current of which nuch swollen by freshets, was running swiftly. Getting upon loge, we floated with the stream for sever- al hours, until we thought it suffi- cient to baffle the dogs from further pursuit. It was nearly noon, when, wet and exhausted, chilled with be ing so long in the water, we crawled upon the opposite shore, and wer-	eat during that day. Next day, about noon, we came upon some cattle brawsing in the woods. We killed a small yearling heifer, one holding her as best he could, while another out her throat with our sheath knife. We cut the meat such as we desired and divided it among ourselves. The skin we cut into strips, with which, and with some of our clothes, we constructed rude haversacks, in which to carry our meat. We had no matches, or oth- er method of kindling a fire, and of course eat our meat raw, with little salt we had to season it. Thus day by day, we travelled incessantly, keeping away from the negross. Our first confidence in negro aid was not brought about by any preconceived ideas, but by so- eident. We discovered it was pos- sible to trust them, to some extent, from the following incident. One day "e came accidentally upon some negroes vorking in the wools. We ran away quickly, thinking to	which will be bad on the lake, but still harder on the hackmen who are depending on the falls and strangers to gain an honest living. Some people are too smart. A man saw a pocketbook lying on the pavement and was about to pick it up, when he remembered what he had read about "tricks on travelers," and let it alone. A man behind him picked it up. "Got fooled, hey !" chuckled the first man. "No," said the second, "got $10." Lostc.—"Pa, am I a little sinner!" —"Yes my sen, we are all sinners." "And, papa, the Bible says the devil is the father of sinners, does'nt it !" "Yes, dear, I believe it does." "Then pa, are you the devil 1" His offsprings logic was too much for him and he elipped out of the room without an- swering.— Youkers Gazette, Smokeing and chewing are two wils, and he who selects the former	We cannot lay in a stock of pleas- ure as we would lay in a stock of flour. A Common Carolina Liar. "Old B" says that some years ago in a Carolina town a crazy man w.s brought before the examining board to settle the question as to whether or not he should be sent to the asy- lum in Columbia. After the doctor got through with his examination one of the committee, an old farmer, said : "My friend, did you ever borrow any bags or jugs ?" "Yes, lots of them." "Did you ever borrow your neigh- bor's newspaper ?" "Yes, many a time." "Well, now what became of the jugs, bags and newspapers !" "Why I carried them back." The old farmer gave a blow al- most as loud as Nancy Hart's whis- tle, and said : "Gentlemen, he's no lumatie ! Just simply a common liar, and all	<text><text><text><text><text><text></text></text></text></text></text></text>