is no longer needed, -nay, when 'Protection' coverts only to be let alone. These are tempt? changes natural enough to all communities, and hence, naturally enough, the delegation from Massachusetts voted on the Tariff with tion that! Most remarkable sign of the times!

is not the less obvious, that a great and leadabandonment disbands the Whig organizain the American organization,—but its leadits delegation in Congress voted with the Free Traders of the South.

Concurrently with these significant movements in other States, we have signs and favor of sustaining the rights of man to self govern movements in our own State, which look the same way. To say nothing of the 'hail,'-Democratic U. S. Senators as Durkee, of State upon the certainty of his election. Wisconsin, and Trumbull, of Illinois, are received, we see the fact, that in two of our leading Whig counties, Ontario and Livingston, the 'Seward Whigs' of the State abandoned all Whig organization and nominated, and tried to elect a democratic Free Soiler to the State Senate. In Orleans, a like performance was attempted, with like results. In the midst of this, the State Senator, Dickinson, a gentleman as eminent in driving political, as any other kind of cattle, avails himself of an opportunity to say—the Whig party is disbanded, broken, gone, &c., &c., at least, as a party in the States, north of Mason and Dixon's line. 'The Whig Platform,' previously 'spit upon, -to quote the coarse phrase of a city cotemporary, - has now been so shattered by the withdrawal of its main protection tariff plank, that the question arises, can it stand on its dislocated and broken remains? It is not for us to answer the question, only to record the facts. This answer can only be had by finding out what are the remains of the Platform. But what these remains of our once cherished Whig principles are, it is Whig principle, has just as strong a Democratic as Whig support in Congress. A protective tariff has now more friends among the Pennsylvania Democrats than in any other State of the Union. The currency issues have been superseded by the railroads and magnetic telegraphs, which do away with all necessity for any great regulator of the domestic exchanges. Indeed, there is not a Whig principle that Clay and Webster fought for that has not achieved its success, and so become functus officio, or is not dead and buried, as the U. S. Bank was, by new inventions, such as the locomotive and telegraph, that make them unnecessary.

Nevertheless, Whig ghosts will hover for months and months yet, over the tombs of Clay and Webster, and the principles buried with them-for mourners of parties, like other mourners, are the last to believe in the dissolution of death. There are people in Pennsylvania said to be voting for Gen. Jackson yet! Meanwhile—when men rub open their eyes—and see that the questions of their vouth, or of their manhood, have ceased to exist, they will begin to join in new organizations, and to join in new issues. The time is already come, indeed, with most intelligent men-and hence the disgust of all sensible persons over existing party organizations.—N. Y. Paper.

Under these circumstances, it seemed searcely possible that he could be nominated. He was openly repudiated by three-fourths of the members, and certainly we had no reason to fear, with this open avowal of hostility; for almost any other of the many names before us would have been acceptable. It is true they had masked themselves by the secret ballot; but to us this was more an evidence of cowardice than of perfidy. The old party organizations were dissolved There is not enough left, we fear, of the corpse by an unseen power, and old politicians with Internal improvements, once a cherished all their schemes, left floundering or wrecked, with the elements that supported them, absorbed by the mysterious power of an organization beyond their control. This great revolution is not without its lesson. The old parties, with their leading politicians-were urday, Feb. 24, at 12 o'clock M. They did rebuke corruption, and the party in power stands as a monument of that rebuke.

Shall the American party, then, in the face of all its professions and actions, be now made the dishonored instrument in elevating Simon Cameron to the highest office in its gift, and thus hold him up to the world as the exponent, embodiment, and personification of Americanism? We trust not. We consider him a fit representative of nothing good, and a fit exponent of no honorable principle.

As Pennsylvanians, we remember that our State motto, as adopted by our ancestors of 76, is "Virtue, Liberty, and Independence!" We reverence this glorious old motto; and bear in mind that we but recently swore, as Representatives, to perform our duties as such with fidelity fidelity to our constituents, fidelity to our native State, and fidelity to the ennobling principles engraven en our State escutcheon. Montrose, Nov. 22, '54: HAWLEY & MOTT.

ABEL TURRELL HAS just received from New York affull assortment of NEW GOODS, comprising a first rate variety of Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Oils, Burning Fluid, Camphone, &c., cheap as the cheap-DYE-STUFFS, GLASS-WARE, FAMILY GROCERIES, MATE-DYE-STUFFS, GLASS-WARE, FAMILY GROCERIES, MATEBIALS FOR LIGHTS, MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, YANKER NOTIONS, JEWELRY, PERFUMERX, AND ALL SORTS OF FANCY GOODS which will be sold extremely low for cash. Having recently sustained a loss by fire of at least five thousand dollars, above insurance and goods saved, I fancy I have strong claims for the patronage of my friends and the public generally. I ask no man to give to me, neither do I ask or expect additional profits in consequence of said loss. I will sell goods as low, if not lower than can be bought elsewhere in this town or county. All I ask is that patronage
from the public which will enable me with industry to slowly but gradually replace the loss sustained—said slowly but gradually replace the loss sustained—said loss being the hard earnings of a life of anxious toil. Store at the lower end of the burned district, on Main street, a few doors below the corners.
