t the Luman of the rioters in Parkville, on It was said by the rioters in Parkville, on Seturiay, that the destruction of the Luminsaturnay, was designed as an example to others, and it is very knowingly hinted that ours will meet with a similar fate. Very well; we have concluded to give any number of persons who wish to perpetrate such an act of folly, a free pass to 'kingdom come,' and we pledge them every assistance in our power. Probably many of them never took an upward journey, and would like to try the experiment of sailing on a blaze of glory, such as a couple of kegs of gunpowder, exploded at an opportune occasion, would furnish. Should the Herald of Freedom office at any time to be invaded for the purpose of destruction, we give this timely warning to all, both friend and foe, that unless they wish to 'go up' they had better keep aloof from its immediate vicinity, for our purpose is fixed, and the consequences cannot be prevented.

Carey, of Burlington, the ablest writer of the day on the subject of political economy, closes an article in the April number of Hunt's Merchants' Magazine as follows: "The more gold that comes from California, the poorer we shall become, under a system that closes the mills and furnaces of the country, that destroys the power of association, and that causes a demand for exportation of all the gold that we receive; for. with every step in that direction, we are increasing the power of other nations to produce cheaply both cloth and iron, while diminishing our own."
