

Miscellaneous.

For the Independent Republican.

Why need we who are immortal, mourn over blighted hopes. We were not made for time. Our eternity with its fund of illuminated knowledge is before us.

When this beautiful earth was young, and budding flowers first reared in its existence, then a voice winged its way through the air, and the mind sprang forth to meet it.

Life is passing. Earth is nearing its final destruction. Onward rolls time, and mind should progress, keeping pace. Ah, how much is lost by brooding over disappointments of the past!

War, oppression, and innumerable woes encompass this world. Wrong is to be subdued, and humanity is to receive its due.

Some noble spirits have fought manfully ever, keeping the consciousness of the high part given; they are on high. The crown of life rests on their brows; they have entered the rest.

Yes, there is a battle of life to be fought. Yet is there a call—'Higher.' O, soul, let it think in thy depths! Aim higher!

There are those who are content with the lot of the actual, and dreamers of a better life—dreamers only, and not workers—will never fill their station.

There are hidden things even in the outer world of existence. To him who seeks, comes knowledge; to him who loves, comes love.

Be earnest—truthful—sincere, and although thy reward, perchance, comes not on earth, yet shall it be reserved for thee.

From the Christian Advocate.

Tobacco.

AS AN Eatable, A Smokeable, AND A Sufferable.

When I what a vile subject for a composition. But before I write, I must go to confession. I once used tobacco. When entering into my teens I tried to eat it as others did.

I had looked at the subject between two and three years, and the longer and more carefully I look at it, the more I am convinced of the great evil of tobacco using.

What a sight all the tobacco-bosses, snuff-boxes and pipes and cigars in our country would be if they would fly from them as swift as the accumulation and eruptions of Vesuvius; mind you, I would, if the pipes were all lighted and the cigars on fire!

My best bow to grandmother, who, when she hears this, read, adjust her glasses and takes 'another pinch,' and so all round the circle of Christian tobacco users.

Some faculty seems to hang over that unfortunate man, and he is a black shade rests forever mournfully upon it.

As Mr. Solon Boardman, in all the conscious dignity of a Minister of the United States on a salary of $9,000 a year, is enjoying the sweet evening air in the City of Greytown, an insolent negro flings a bottle at his head and puts his nose out of joint.

But I left off smoking all at once: no whining, whiffing, or tapering; broke short off square off years ago, and have lived a decent life, so far as this habit is concerned, ever since.

But I left off smoking all at once: no whining, whiffing, or tapering; broke short off square off years ago, and have lived a decent life, so far as this habit is concerned, ever since.

Wheeler, and his own wrongs, and the insult to the United States would have been speedily and amply avenged on Jane Johnson's person.
