"FREEDOM AND RIGHT AGAINST SLAVERY AND WRONG."

Independent Republican.

CHARLES F. READ & H. H. FRAZIER, EDITORS.

MONTROSE, THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1856.

" Poets' Corner."

A Lay of Real Life. BT TOX HOOD.

"Some are born with a wooden spoon in their mouths, and some with a golden ladle."-Goldsmith. Some are born with tin rings in their noses, and some with silver ones.7-Silversmith.

Who ruined me ere I was born, Sold every acre, grass or corn, And left the next-heir all forlorn ? -My Grandfather

Who said my mother was no nurse, And physicked me and made me worse, Till infancy became a corse? My Grandmother.

Who left me in my seventh year, A comfort to my mother dear, And Mr. Pope, the overseer? My Father

Who let me starve to buy her gin, Till all my bones came through my skin, Then called me "ugly" little sin?" My Momer.

Who said my mother was a Turk, And-took me home-and made me And-took me home-and made me work, But managed half my meals to shirk? My Aunt.

Who "of all earthly things," would boast, "He hated others" brats the most," And therefore made me feel my post? My Uncle.

Ś. Who got in screps, an endless score, And always laid them at my door, Till many a bitter pang I bore? My Cousi

Who took me home when mother died, Again with father to reside, Black shoes, clean knives, run far and wide My Stepanother.

Who marred my stealthy archin joys, And when I played cried "what a noise !" Girls always bector over boys-My Sister

Who used to share in what was mine. Or take it all didde incline, 'Cause I was sight and he was nine? My Brother

Who stroked my head, and said "Good lad," And gave me sixpence, "all he had," But at the stall the coin was bad?

worn in the limestone by the tramping of toward the ceiling, the effect upon our lungs stances, I should have felt incensed at such horses and mules, and just wide enough to can be better imagined than described. Be conduct, but our only course was to bear it admit your horse's feet, and then it winds fore the bride arrived, coffee was prepared in patience. As Dr. Haskell and I passed and served, pipes were passed around, and a out the Arab women exclaimed to Mrs. Benalong the edge of a precipice, where a false little round table, about ten inches high, was | ton that we were of " tall and noble stature. step would precipate you into unknown set before us, containing a dozen small plates the very cutting off of perfection." They depths. The scenery grows more and more wild, of confectionary, roasted peas, seeds of the admire tall men, and were not at all modest pine-cone, and raisins. We sat on the floor in expressing their sentiments. Do not supthe road more difficult, the rocks more abrupt, and if you are at all given to nervousin the corner, on the right hand of the bride- pose that we felt at all elevated on hearness or fretful anxiety, here is ample scope groom, but neither the dignity of our position ing this remark. The very beggars in the for your natural impulses. You ride on cau- in being thus honored, nor the excellence of streets, instead of asking an alms, will invoke tiously, yet you soon find your horse to un- the entertainment, could reconcile us to the ten thousand blessings on your head, wish derstand the road and the difficult places so awkward wearisomeness of sitting cross- you long life and prosperity, peace and plenlegged on the floor. Great was our relief ty, and take it for granted that such a showmuch better than you 'do, that you let loose legged on the floor. Great was our relief ty, and take it for granted that such a show-when the bridegroom was sent for to meet er of good wishes will bring its legitimate selves of the time when the merchants of that back to his family and friends. the bridle, hold steadily the pommel of the saddle, and trust to the sagacity of the faiththe bride. We followed him out as we best return.

in bridge architecture here, plunges down the bridegroom is utterly destitute of windows, delight in adding new fuel to his fire, so as opposite side,- and you are safely across.- and as the smoke of the fire mingling with the to compel every one present to inhale the

As you ascend, the road is a narrow ditch smoke of a dozen pipes, curled gracefully abominable vapor. Under other circum-

After such a day and evening, we were ful animal. His sure-footedness fills you could, and selected as good a position as possible to witness the approach of the fair one. glad to retire to rest. On Sabbath morning with amazement. Down the precipices, up The glare of torches and lanterns, and the at nine o'clock, I went with Mr. Benton to the craggy rocks, leaping, sliding, onward he goes with such precision that you forget danshouts of the crowd increased as she rode up the Sunday School, where I talked to the ger and surrender yourself to the enjoyment toward the house. She was dressed in white, children and he interpreted my remarks. I

of this magnificent, scenery. closely veiled with a white veil, and sat never saw children give better attention or At mid-day we stop at a Kahn, where a astride of the horse. When she approached recite their lessons better than those little crowd of traveling Arabs are scated on the the house, she threw a pomegranate to the Arab boys and girls. Some of them are ground under the shade, enjoying their pipes, bridegroom, who ate a part of it, and then very bright and intelligent, and repeated sevcoffee and coarse black bread. Some of them followed a singular scene. Before this, how- eral pages of Scripture and numerous queswere more intelligent than the rest, and after ever, as the bridegroom came out to meet tions in the Catechism without hesitation .an interchange of salutions, took their seats by the bride, the crowd raised the cry, ' Behold One little girl, Katarina, repeated the hymn, us as an expression of go od will and kindly the bridegroom cometh !" just as was done "Awake, and sing the song of Moses and the feelings. We told them that we could speak in this land two thousand years ago. Then Lamb." She is a bright-eyed child, about Arabic but a little, (shwei) and they sat in the male relatives of the bridegroom and the nine years of age, and has as fair a complexsilence until we took our departure. female relatives of the bride, began to ex- ion as any of the little girls in the Montrose Proceeding still up the mountain, we change compliments in the most extravagant Sabbath School. As I have not yet been pass ed immense beds of iron ore, extending style.' It was a contest for the superiority. here three weeks, of course it was difficult for on both sides of the road for half a mile.-One would shout for a minute, pouring forth | me to read the hymn as she repeated it, but The ore is of a dark rich color, containing, as a flood of Arabic with a volubility which the beautiful English words were familiar, I should judge without testing, about 80 or was atterly amazing to me, and the crowd and it was most interesting and delightful to 90 per cent of pure iron. These beds show would burst into a corresponding shout of hear such language from these dear children no signs of having been wrought, and their laughter, when the same process was repeat- in Syria. I told Mr. Benton to promise the

Jales and Sketches.

From the Indiana (Penn'a.) Register. LEWIS. THE ROBBER.

Lewis was the master-spirit of a gang of highwaymen, who lived by robbing travellers tered upon an examination of their booty.-- | or is hard." and committing depredations upon residents, After ascertaining the amount, Lewis turned chiefly between Chambersburgh and Bedford to McClelland and smilingly said he was where they harbored in the forests of the nevertheless these were pretty rich pickings' mountains. They were a terror to the community, and western merchants who travelland he and his associates were amply comed on horseback generally armed themselves pensited thereby for their trouble. Conner when going to the east, so as to be prepared to repel an attack, and for greater, security, sometimes went in companies. It was understood, or at least believed, that some of them and might cause their arrest; against Lewis' band were stationed in Pittsburgh, which Lewis stoutly protested and at the where, by mixing in genteel society, and be- same time handed to McClelland his watch place and from parts farther west intended to make their semi-annual trips to Philadelthe intelligence to their accomplices along the Lewis was a young man of hardsome apon the fruits of his unlawful pursuit. His miles from the public road, they had erected any body in pursuit. In order to make sure a shanty, which was well supplied with pro-visions and other comforts, whither Lewis, filled with whiskey and ordered him to drink citing suspicion, or until he had received let- soon sall asleep and might not awake for main for days and weeks, concerting measler or for obtaining a booty in some other animal.

and subsequently cost him his life.

that if his death had been resolved on all his plending for life would be unavailing, he conwav Persons who have travelled the turnpike between McConnellsburg and the Crossings of the Juniata will remember Reamer's tav- and therefore, to their great surprise, drank ern on the eastern slope of the mountain and the entire contents of the flask. Fortunate-

McClelland to keep silent if he did not wish ful in his day and generation ; but having to have his brains blown out, they led him penchant for the romantic and lawless, where onward for several miles, the other man with he could indulge his passions without resthe horse bringing up the rear, until they traint, he became alienated from society, an reached the robber's hut, which had been outcast and a by-word, and in his death we constructed of light logs and covered with have but another proof of the truthfulness of bark, where they halted and forthwith en- the proverb that "the way of the transgress-

FRAZIER & SMITH, PUBLISHERS--- VOL 2. NO. 19

Den Standi,

PREMATURE BURIALS. "not the bird they had been watching for, The baste which some people manifest to write their friends' obituaries often gives rise o grave mistakes which would be ludicrous were it not for the solemnity with which the and Connelly then proposed they should put subject is invested. In the year 1832, while McClelland to death, alleging as a reason that the cholera was raging in this city, those who if he were set at liberty he would inform on died of the epidemic were sometimes buried with an indecent haste and lack of ceremony, which, under other circumstances, the public would not have tolerated. Late one afternoon an honest citizen was just sitting down to his dinner and preparing to rest after the fatigues of the day, when his dream of com-fort was suddenly interrupted by the ringing of his door bell. He went to the door, and was met by a strange face, which seemed to have some connection with a dead cart, with all the paraphernalia of hasty burial, which a second glance told was stationed in front of his dwelling. The unexpected visitor attempted some apology, but it was impossible to conceal the fact that he had called on unpleasant business-in fact, to transport the master of the house to the nearest cemetery, whose synonym-the place appointed for all liv-ing-seemed suddenly, to have acquired an nterpretation which was probably never contemplated by the psalmist. The gentlemen refused, certainly with some show of reason, to enter the vehicle, at least, he added, till after dinner, and returned to discuss that meal with what relish he

Not long ago, a dead body was taken front the water at Alexandria, Virginia. Having been recognized and claimed by the wife of a citizen as the corpse of her husband, it was borne to the grave with due solemnity, followed by the widow and children in all the habiliments of woe. Several days passed, when the husband and father whose

This done, preparations were made by the roblers to start with the money taken from phia, and would then find means to convey | McGlelland to some place where they would deposit it for greater security, and he was told that if he offered to move from the spot before their return, his life should pay the pearance and agreeable address, and it, was torfait of his temerity. That they intended said he supported his mother and sisters up to return has always been doubted, and it has on the fruits of his unlawful pursuit. His been judged, and with very good reason, that more impediate associates were Conner and their object was to induce him to remain there Connelly, who, at the time of which we are during part of the day, whereby they would speaking, kept amongst the gorges of Side have gained ample time to get out of harm's ling Hill, where, at a distance of several way before he could give the alarm and start after remaining about Bedford and Bloody freely, thinking no doubt that by so doing he, Run as long as he could do so without ex- a man unaccustomed to strong drink, would ters which he expected, would resort and re- many hours. McClelland thought the liquor contained some deadly poison and the robures for robbing some unsuspecting travel- bers were taking this method to get rid of him; and knowing he was in their power and

cluded to die with as little pain as possible Nycum's on the western, the intervening dis- iy, however, the liquor was not poisoned

Who, gratis, shand my social glass, But when misfortine came to pass Referred me to the pump ? Alas ! My Friend. Through all this weary world, in brief, Who ever sympathized with grief, Or shared my joy My sole relief?

LETTER FROM REV H H JESSUP. B'HANDUR, Height of Mt. Lebanon,) Monday, Pear 1856.

DEAR BROTHER :- I am writing from the lofty regions of the goodly mountain of Leb. anon. This little willage is thirty-six hundred feet above the sea, and at this season | Lebanon.

the air is as cold as it is in Moutrose on the first of April. I came up with Dr. Haskell anything I have ever seen. In one spot the Dr. Cox once remarked this very thing, and word to any one. A short time since, the pike a patch of cultivated ground, embracing from Beirut on Saturday, intending to return strata have been thrown into a vertical posi- you may assure him that his view on the Greek servant girl in her father's family askto day, but we are reather bound, and must | tion and the rough points project about ten subject is entirely rational, and judging from | ed for some one to teach her to read, and as remain through the day, at least. It rains, and yet it does not rain. You cannot distin- obstacle which one would think sufficient to served here, eminently historical. Immedi- to teach her. Of course she is very young, guish the rain drops as they fall, yet everything is completely drenched. We are so this famous Damascus road passes directly large cluster of fragrant onions, stored away high that the clouds are around us on every through it, and our horses picked their way for winter's use, and Arab ideas of propriety side, and we cannot see ten feet before us through with astonishing dexterity, not even seemed not at all offended by such a singuwhen we walk out. The wind blows and missing a step. whistles through the casements just as it does I would gladly invite you all to join our called forcibly to my mind the language of of the Greek children do. She replied that more at home that when melting under the stands on a mountain about as high and steep shed them now." The Greek priest who burning sun of Berrut. When we left Bei- as Elk Mountain, and infinitely more stony. officiated was a little fat man, with musrut, on Saturday, morning, the heat was al- You see it first from the opposite mountain, tachios and whiskers, clothed in an old clummost intolerable, but as we ascended the and the village in the distance looks like a sy black cap and gown; and as he rattled off mountain, the temperature diminished, until low-walled stone castle. To reach it, you the marriage service in a galloping, nasal, we find it almost necessary here to wear our must descend a mountain over stone steps so sing song style, you would have supposed overcoats in the house.

This is a wonderful country. The ride lead your horse to the bottom. Ascending words he could utter in the shortest possible of thrilling interest. Follow me for a few tually beyond description, we enter the town, breath he handed the book to one of the minutes, and I will re-ascend the mountain which is literally founded on a rock. Our men standing by, who read, on until the with you. While Mrs. Lyons is preparing guide conducts, us to Howadji Benton's, priest recovered himself, when he resumed good Arab saddle, so that it will not be ne is the thin coating of plaster on the inside of Ghost" in a tone which was proof enough the child, and turned away. cessary to change it, but the stirrups, alas, the walls. When the wind blows severely, that he neither knew nor cared for the charsuggest unpleasant memories of Nahr el it is almost impossible to live on the side of acter of the Being whom he thus invoked. -- (tarboosh) constantly. You never see a man, Kelb, of which I wrote you recently, and I the house next to the storm. Such a house He then took a glass of wine, and gave each woman, or child without the cap. The chilimmediately put mine in their pace. The is pleasant enough in the summer, but when of the persons now married, three sips or dren and their teachers keep their caps on in sun is pouring down with intense fervor, and the snow and rain are driven by the gales of drops of the wine, in the name of the three the Sunday School, and Mr. Benton preach-I prepare my white felt hat by winding a wind which whistle over the heights of Leba- persons of the Trinity-a most blasphemous es with his red cap on. It is the custom large linen towel around it, a la turban, and non in winter, our missionary friends expe- and foolish custom, as some of the more en- here, and in Syria custom is law. In Amerplacing a folded linen handkerchief on the in- rience no little discomfort. side of the crown. This affords good protec-project on every side.

almost inaccessible position renders it at least ed by the friends of the bride. The light of children that when I learn the Arabic well doubtful whether they ever will be. If a the torches illuminating the scene, gave quite enough, I will translate some of our sweet by presented little else to the eye than scrub- ken enough to answer all their purposes, now passable road were constructed to Beyroot, a singular effect to the countenances and hymns for children into the Arabic, so that iron could be made with moderate expense. dress of the crowd, and the bride seemed they can sing the same little verses which the The limestone necessary, underlies almost like some sheeted spectre in the midst of children in America sing. I became much every inch of ground in Syria, and there are dancing men and women clothed in all the interested in little Katarina, and asked Mrs. served the hunter as a guide and passage veins of a tolerable bituminous coal among grotesque costames of Syrian fellahin .-- Benton to tell me more about her. She is when following the game along the mounthe mountain valleys. When Ibrahim Pa. When the bride entered the house, we fol- the daughter of the wealthiest man in the sha was governor of Syria, between 1828 and lowed, and took a position in front of the village, Elias Subbyer, who became a Protestant about two months ago. Katarina has ing of the crow as she hovered overhead, or 1840, he impressed the natives into the labor bride and groom, to witness the ceremony. of working the coal mines, though to but lit- There were no windows in the room, and the been interested in the truth for some time, the sudden bound of a deer aroused from his tle profit. The coal contains too much sul- ceiling was so low that Dr. Haskell and I and though at the time only eight years old. pliur for generating steam, and the veins are were rather fearful about knocking our hats was accustomed last summer to tell the Arab very thin, but I have no doubt that in Amer- against the beams which support the roof. The children that she was a Protestant, though they would all turn against her and call her lieving it by leaping from the saddle and ican company would construct a stationary, bride stood on the right hand of the bridemotive power and railroad up these means groom, and it seemed to me far more approevery kind of bad name. It was very hard walking by its side, would long to gain the tain gorges in a very few months, and devel- priate than the custom which prevails in for her to bear such abuse, and sometimes ope the resources of this "goodly mountain" America. The right hand of the groom is she would talk back to them, but more rethe place of honor and dignity, and who has cently she has become softened and subdued The rock scenery of Lebanon surpasses a better claim to such honor than a bride ? in her manner, and never speaks an unkind, one sees now on the south side of the turnor fifteen feet above the surface, forming an the manner in which old customs are pre- she could not go to school Katarina offered interrupt all progress in that direction. Yet ately above the head of the bride hung a and is exposed to great temptations and dangers, but she seems to strive to glorify her Father in Heaven. One day the old Greek priest met her in the street and asked her lar juxtaposition. The odoriferous vegetable why she did not go to confession as the rest at home in stormy February, and I feel far company as we approach B'Hamdun. It the poet: "If you have tears, prepare to she would not go to a priest who had never told her anything but lies. She could go to Christ and confess. The priest then said that her father and the rest of the Protestants confessed their sins to Mr. Benton, and wrote them on papers which Mr. Benton placed in rat-holes in the wall. Katarina knew this to be a foolish falsehood, and told steep that you very willingly dismount and him reading on a wager, to see how many the priest so. He then asked her how the from Beirut to this mountain village, is one the hill by a zig-zag rocky road, which is ac- time. After reading until he was out of Protestants confess. She replied that they where he remained until the next morning, and confess as the Lord Jesus tells them toquoting to him the language of Scripture, (Matt. 6:6.) "But thou, when the prayest, a lunch for Dr. Hand the rest of us, we will where we are most warmly welcomed by in a similar strain. Taking two silver rings enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut examine our interesting Arab horse. He is Bro. B. and his excellent wife. The house is about like napkin rings, he placed them on the door, pray to thy Father which is in sea slender, lean, suraw fed creature, with a one story in height, built of large blocks of the heads of the bride and groom, exchanging cret, and thy Father who seeth in secret shall meek eye and evident marks of age, and em. stone. There is no mortar in the walls, and one for the other several times, muttering reward thee openly." The old priest was inent usefulness in the past. The saddle is a the only protection against the wintry storms "in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy confounded by the ready, truthful answer of > twice looked around, exhibiting a pair of The people in Syria all wear the red cap blackened eyes, as if he had been very recently engaged in a fight; and McClelland inferred from his whole conduct and appearance that he had been in company drinking and got himself handsomely pummeled, without having been sobered by the operation .---As they approached the summit, McClelland gained upon the fellow, until at the point we lightened natives themselves testify. At the lica it is the custom to take off the hat: here In the portion of the country assigned to tance being about eight miles, which formerbut the robbers thinking their prisoner had t oak thickets, interspersed with rocks and left, after ordering him to lie down in a corfallen timber, with here and there a slight net of the cabin.

opening, through which the cattle feeding M'Clelland was now alone. The incidents during the summer had trodden paths which of the morning clustered around his mind, and his distress was indescribable. Within he space of a few hours all his earthly hopes tain range in winter. It was, indeed. a been blasted. Hagwas not only beggargloomy road, with nothing to break the mobut in all likelihood doomed to die, pernotony, save, perhaps, occasionally the cawhaps in a few moments, away from his friends kindred, where his body might become food for vultures and wild beasts and his relair by the noise of approaching footstepsguiem should be the winds as they passed and the lonely traveller, as he wended his owling over his bleaching bones! He picway slowly up the steep ascent, now urging uted to himself the distress of his family conhis jaded steed to greater effort, and now reduent upon his sudden and mysterious disphearance, and their fruitless conjectures in gard to his fate, and then ran with his summit, where he might proceed more speedmind's eye over the pages of their future hisily and with more comfort to himself and his tory, lamenting their desolate and forlorn condition as they should be drifted without

On ascending the mountain from the west, an earthly protector on life's wide ocean, tossed by the waves and exposed to the tempest. But he felt admonished to dismiss these reseveral acres, which has been cleared for a flections and turn unto others. * Every monumber of years, but was a dense forest at ment he expected, to feel a deadly stupor the time to which our story has reference.coming over him, and ever and anon he cast It was here, immediately opposite the cleared s eyes upon surrounding objects to assure field, that Lewis performed one of his most himself that all was not a dream and that he daring exploits, and which led to his arrest. was still in possession of his reason. Such was the intensity of his feelings that it coun-

It appeared from what transpired afterteracted the effects of the spirits which he had wards, that Lewis had received intelligence swallowed, and impelled by that love of life from some of his gang, of an individual carwhich clings unto man to his last moments. rying a large sum of money going eastward ventured to ascend to the roof of the shanon horseback, and that Lewis and two assoty and then cast enquiring looks far into the ciates were on the look-out for him, ready to orest, anxious to ascertain whether the robmake an attempt at securing the rich prize bers had actually taken their departure or whenever it came within their reach. From hether they were still loitering about, awaitsome cause or other, however, that individg his death. In a slight opening in the ual's departure was delayed ; but about the woods at the distance of half in mile he at time designated by Lewis' spy, a Mr. Mclength espied them, pressing on with all pos-sible speed, and in a moment his resolution Clelland, a merchant in Pittsburgh; started for Philadelphia to purchase goods, travelwas taken to attempt his escape. Mounting ing on horseback and having in his saddle is horse he entered a ravine near by, which bags some two thousand dollars in silver.e judged must lead him in the direction of He had got to Nycum's on Sunday evening, Reamer's and then urging the animal forward as fast as the nature of the country perthen early prosecuted his journey, thinking to mitted, he kept in the ravine, leaping over breakfast at Reamer's. As he was walking rocks and fallen trees, and in an incredibly his horse up the mountain and when he had hort time reached, the point he was aiming proceeded several miles, he espied, some for, where he gave the alarm and urged immedistance ahead, a man, who wore a slouched diate pursuit. hat and an ill-fitting, somewhat tattered coat,

We may here remark that among those walking rather awkwardly, his body inclined backwoods men who employ most of their forward, now shooting diagonally across the time in hunting and fishing, Sunday is not road, and then taking up and balancing himenerally reverenced as it should be, and it self, moving on again in a straight line. As fill therefore cause no surprise to learn that McClelland neared him, the man-once or then M'Clelland arrived at the tavern just hentioned, he found there some half a dozen r more of rugged mountaincers, who had alled in for their "bitters" preparatory tostarting into the woods in quest of game .---No sooner were they made acquainted with the robbery that had been committed than they volunteered to go in search of the robbers, and in a few moments had all things in eadiness and set out, resolved to do their have been endeavoring to describe he was

I was no less surprised than gratified to close, it is customary for the crowd to seize they take off their shoes and keep the hat or about passing him; but at that moment, and The hunters had a general knowledge of before he suspected any danger, he found tion against the heat, and we set out with our find warm-hearted, intelligent Christian men the bride and groom and carry them around cap on. The little girls wear the same kind the topography of the mountains, and directwhite umbrellas, riding through the narrow here in the mountains, who can appreciate the the room with shouts of laughter. At this of cap with the boys, and many of them sit himself dragged from his horse, the drunken d their steps toward a point some distance man, as he had taken him (to be, having paths shaded will hedges of prickly pear, feelings and trials of the missionaries who time, however, a young man who is a rela- cross-logged on the benches or on the floor. beyond that designated by M'Clelland as the sprung upon him at a bound, while in the same one where he had last seen the robbers : havdodging this way and that to save ourselves come among them. It was interesting, too, tive of the bridegroom, and has been someustant a man with a cocked pistol jumped ng reached which, they divided into two parfrom being impaled on the sharp spires which to see men who have passed through the fires what enlightened with regard to the nature this station (B'Hamdin) there are nearly one up from either side of the road, the one seizes and some distance apart, and in this orof persecution, and now stand erect in the of true religion and the proprieties of re- hundred and fifty villages, and around Tripoing the horse's bridle and the other coming der had not proceeded very far when they. to the assistance of his leader, who was no After passing over the wide plan, through dignity of Christian mauhood. A Christian spectable society, addressed the crowd in a li there are more than here. The people ask spied the objects of their search, by whom other than Lewis himself and who had asmost dignified and authoritative manner, com- for schools, and when a school is established orange, mulberry and olive gardens, delight-profession costs something in Mount Lebaney we seen likewise at the same instant .--sumed this disguise to prevent suspicion .---ed with the beautiful flowers which wave in non. Let any one, however influential or manding them to "break up this foolish cus- the missionary has a right to visit the village The robbers tried to escape by running, but The two who had been lying in wait were before they could get deyond the reach of the the gentle breeze exhaling a delightful fra- promising, leave the religion of his fathers, tom," for they would have no more of it in as often as he pleases, and the people regard Conner and Connelly-and there can be no hunters' rifles, Lewis was wounded by a ball, doubt but some one of the gang had seen grance, we begin the mountain ascent. As and the whole tide of popular feeling turns B'Hamdun. The old priest stared through him as a benefactor. I feel very much en-McClelland the day or evening before, and and one of the others killed, whilst the third race walls rising one above another, square have passed through the fire of opposition ed, and good order prevailed. Before leav-stone houses, distant convents embowered in and bitter enmity: friends have forsaken ing, we were permitted as a special favor to in this little mountain village. There you look apward, you see hundreds of ter- against him. All of the brethr en present his spectacles, but the young man was obey- couraged by the interview with the Sabbath he tarried at Nycum's until later in the day his escape and was pursued, and whilst row teemed it, by running away with, and mars and perchance got some company, he would ing himself across the West Branch of the rying a poor mechanic. But finding there stone houses, distant convents embowered in and bitter enmity : friends have forsaken ing, we were permitted, as a special favor, to is intelligence among the young and old, and greefs foliage, and range after range of them, envy and slander have been armed see the bride, whose veil is generally not there is far more of susceptibility to religious most likely have been permitted to pass un. Susquehanna in a canoe, was shot dead by rough limestone mountains rising in the dis- against them, and yet they stand firm, un- raised for nine days. Poor girl, she looked impressions than I had expected to find .-molested, and the counterfeit drunkard, who, one of his pursuers. with painted eyes and tattered garments, had While in prison, Lewis stated that he had tance, until the lofty horizon terminates in the moved by all the devices of the Evil One. as if she had lost all of her friends, and was Sabbath Schools are practicable in Syria. snow-crowned Jebel Sonreen, At about half past eight, we accepted an undergoing martyrdom. Her eyes were clos- They are practicable everywhere. Children Do not be alarmed at the roads. Before invitation to attend an Arab wedding. I ed, and her hands drooped as though she was love to unite in these hallowed exercises, the specie in a vessel and the bank hills in ny. been staggering along the specie in a vesser and the tents of ly have been thought of again. The spot was well chosen by the robbers a bottle-near a small stream on the west of the Allegheny mountain, and after his death the Allegheny mountain, and after his death you came to Syria, you wondered why the have already given you a description of a aware of the presence of the Howadji and wherever they are. American and Syrian people here never use wagons or wheeled wedding in Beirut, but this was somewhat Hakim. We returned home at ten o'clock. for the accomplishment of their purpose.--children are far more alike in this respect, On the north side of the road, for a distance diligent search was made for the treasure, by vehicles, Your wonder ceases now. This different, as it occurred among the fellahin, I wonder that these people live through than one would suppose. The only difficuldifferent persons and at different places but of at least a quarter of a mile, the woods rugged stone steps, picks his way among the of the bridegroom, and the bride is brought thick enough to choke one not accustomed to Truly yours. deep holes which form the principal feature to him by her relatives. The house of the lit, and the grey grim priest seemed to/take e fa la cara had just been celebrated, suddenly returned, in the full enjoyment of health. The surprise with which he was greeted, and his own at learning what had occurred, may be imagined. The sequel of this strange story did not terminate so happily. The sexton, it seems, had run up a large bill for funeral expenses, which the city authorities refused to allow. and the consequence was that the man actualy had to pay for his own burial.

More recently, at South Boston, a man stepped off from the Old Colony Railroad bridge into the water, and was drowned.-From papers found on his person it was supposed that he was a French bootmaker who resided in Philadelphia. A telegraphic dispatch was accordingly sent to his family, informing them of their bereavement, and asking for instructions respecting the disposal of the body. The Boston authorities received a prompt reply from the reported dead man. stating that since, according to the best of his belief, he was alive and well, they might for the present suspend all solicitude about his remains .--- N. Y. Post.

Parentage of Jefferson.

The following, from the pen of Hon. D. P. Thompson, we find in the editorial columns of the Green Mountain Freeman :

The circumstances of the union from which sprung the illustrious American Statesman. Thomas Jefferson, have never, we think, except in such general terms as would convey no definite idea of their peculiar character, yet reached the eye of the public. But having learned them from the aged neighbors of Mr. Jefferson, during a former sojourn in-Virginia, and being well convinced of their entire truth, we will venture to relate them for the amusement of our readers.

Mr. Jefferson's father was poor, but an in dustrious and intelligent mechanic; and as society was constituted in Virginia, he was wholly excluded from the ranks of the aristocracy, and could have had no hope of forming a family connection with them, but for the following accident :

One of the proud and lordly Randolphs wishing some repairs to be made on the doorsteps of his mansion, and having heard of the voung carpenter. Jefferson, who resided in the same parish, sent for him to come and do the work. In this family there were several beautiful and accomplished daughters who were the acknowledged belles of that part of the country ; while one of the sisters were so far behind the rest either in accomplishments. or the faculty of showing off to advantage. that she was subject to the most mortifying neglect by the young men who thronged the establishment, being generally left at home, while her more favored sisters were taken of for the constant rounds of parties and pleasure excursions in vogue among the wealthy families of the place. It was during one of these instances of neglect that young Jeffer. son happened to be at work on the steps, and the respectful attentions he then had an opportunity of paying the slighted girl so strong y affected her with the contrast with those she had been accustomed to receive from all other young gentlemen who were admitted to the house, that her actions soon revealed to the quick eye of the ambitious young mechanic a condition of heart which he thought he might improve to advantage. And acting on that belief, he persevered, and so well profited by his opportunities, that within a few days a mutual engagement was formed, and a runaway match concocted, and carried into effect. There was, to be sure, a terrible rumpus kicked up by the proud Randolpha, when it was discovered that one of the family had disgraced them and herself, as they es-

ry that the young man was as smart as he was bold, they at length recalled the truant daughter with her husband, installed them inbeen staggering along the road, would scarce- concealed a large sum of money under a rock to the family and gave them their patrimo-From this match sprung we believe, two sons and several daughters, a part of whom like Thos. Jefferson the subsequent statesman and President, strikingly inherited the inteltorrent, and now flooded with water when-ever it rains, is a very good road, compared with some that you will see. Now we cross a short bridge. Your horse leaps up the rugged stone steps, picks his way among the of the bridegroom, and the bridegroom, and the bride is brought the kenoch to choke one not accustomed to H. H. JESSOP. | pass along the road. Having commanded honor to himself and his family and been use- a cage of messenger pigeona, the road.