Valuable Discovery.—The last fifty years has been marked with a greater number of valuable discoveries than in all the time before since the Christian era. Among the most important, in medical science, is the discovery, by Dr. Halsey of New York, of a process by which certain plants, found growing wild in the mountains and forests, are converted into an excellent wine, of great value as a verted agent. This delightful wine has a surprising efficacy in the cure of nervous disorders, paralysis dyspepsia, complaints of the stomach and kidneys, and, when used in connection with Dr. Halseys Forest Pills, rheumatism, ague and fever, dropsy, and scrofulous disorders, are quickly and permanently cured by them. Dr. Halsey's advertisement will be seen in another column. ABEL TURNELL, Agent. Montrose Dec. S, 1856.
