County Supervision of Schools in New York. County supervision was recommended by Hon, John C. Spencer, in 1841, and instituted under his administration. In 1843, the Hon. Samuel Young, who came into office strongly prejudiced against the plan, after a year's exprience of its results reported to the legislature that "in every county of the State where the Deputy Superintendent has assiduously fulfilled his mission, an improvement in the condition of schools is manifest." In the next report he emphatically expresses his conviction of the importance and utility of county supervision. His successor, the Hon. N. S. Benton, in 1846, bore his testimony to the excellence and usefulness of the plan. The legislature of 1847, in an unpropitious hour, upon the memorial of some half dozen boards of supervisors, abolished the office.-The Hon. Christopher Morgan, after one year's experience in the office of Supermtendent of common schools, without the aid of county supervision, in his report of January, 1849, says "The act abolishing the office of county Superintendent was, in the opinion of the undersigned, a retrogarde movement. If those officers were not in overy instance competent and faithful to their trust the fault was in the appointing power. If a wise selection was not always made, does that furnish a sound reason for destroying the office? It may safely be said that no other office in the State would bear so severe a test." The same officer in his succeeding annual reports strongly urged upon the legislature the necessity of a restoration of the office. The Hon. Henry S. Randall, in his report in 1854, and defective system, and drew a glowing picture of the advantages, and the results of it unnecessary to quote at length the language of the reports, to which he has referred. He will be happy to aid the legislative committee who liave in charge the subject of education. with all the facts within his knowledge bearing relation to this subject. It will be found

Ox-Shoring .- We frequently find in agricultural papers some remarks about shocing horses. Now, it is true that a horse should be shod in such a manner as to cause him to stand and travel with ease, and the ox should stand and travel with ease, and the ox should 180th degree having been passed meanwhile, be shod with equal care; but we frequently and the intervening day duly dropped. The find oxen, especially large oxen, lamed by shoeing. Now, I find one great error to be in the length and shape of the shoes. If the shoes are long and crooked, they of course cause the weight of the ox to bear on the inner edge of the shoe, or center of the foot, causing the hoofs to cant in an unnatural position. This may do for small, light cattle, but with heavy oxen it is quite different.

In shoeing large exent there should be one inch of the toe or forward end of the hoof left bare, and be sure that the shoe sets flush with the outside of the hoof. Then the heal of the shoe should not be crooked or turned in too much; but our blacksmiths are apt to be in too great a hurry, and if a shoe comes within bailing distance of a good fit, they nail it on in preference to selecting a better. his almanac. I am not a blacksmith, but I have always been acquainted with oxen having teamed for forty years, and, of course, had many cattle shod. If the above remarks are not correct, I should like to be set right. - Maine Farm-

The brooklet tinkles as of yore
Around the forest-girded hill,
The hemlock still blads shore to shore, And clasps the rustic ar bor still; But vainly doth the brooklet glide Beneath the heavy hemlock's feet;
There seem so music in its tide
Since Ross shuns the shadow'd scat.

The sunlight still weaves golden thread Among the mosses on its floor, And flashes thre' the streamlet's bed In sparkling veins of seeming ore; But all its hues seem false and dim—
The moss lies crushed by careless feet— There's all e upon the pebble's rim-Since Rosa shuns the stadow'd seat!

Like liquid pearl the autumn moon Drips on the crisping leaves, and low, Thro' the wood-arches sighs the rune, The night-winds whisper to and fro; But here no cye these spells may mark— No heart respond with quickened beat— Save mine! alas! the scene is dark Since Rosa shuns the hemlock seat!

THE AUSTRALIAN MARKET.—It is well to remember that other people are getting along. in the world as well as ourselves. Everybody is prone to believe that he has seen the majority of everything, but Everybody cannot be Everywhere, and so of course occasionally "misses it." We of the United States believe that our great West is the only new country which is filling up in locomothe colonies of Australia could hardly be said to have a commercial existence. Like the Bohemian villages of German proverb, they formed a comparative for obscurity and pettiness. An Australian, in popular opinion founded on pictures in the geography, was a remarkably dirty savage with a Boomerang—now a days he is a gold digger, a sheep raiser, or a merchant of Anglo-Saxon parentnge. On the 25th of August, 1855, the population of Victoria-one of these ex-villages and ci-devant obscurities-amounted to 150.-905 souls; including 100,220 men, 28,843 women, 27,842 children. Once England sent nothing to Australia-now the colonies of the atter require from the mother country goods to the value of $70,000,000 annually, while Seventy millions of dollars is no trifle. It shows among other things why England-a mere speck on the ocean—maintains her wealth, and power and equality with the first nations of the world.

It is thought that, with reasonable aid and encouragement to inventive ingenuity & manufactures for a few years, we may be able to compete successfully with England for this Australian trade, thus adding -vastly to the commercial prosperity of our country.

To ATTAIN HEALTH.-Walker, in his Original," lays down the following rule for attaining high health: "Study to acquire a composure of mind and body. Avoid agitation, or harry of one or the other, especially just before and after meals, and while the process of digestion is going on. To this end, govern your temper; endeavor to look at the bright side of things; keep down as much as possible, the unruly passions; discard envy, hatred and malice, and lay your head upon your pillow in charity with all mankind. Let not your wants outrun your means .be not perplexed, only think what is right to do in the sight of Him who seeth all things, your meals are solitary, let your thoughts be cheerful; when they are social, which is better, avoid disputes, or serious arguments, or unpleasant topics. "Unquiet meals,' says Shakspeare, 'make ill digestion;' and the contrary is produced by easy conversation, a pleasant project, welcome news, or a lively companion. I advise wives not to entertain their husbands with domestic grievances about children or servants, nor ask for money, nor produce unpaid bills, nor propound unseasonable questions; and I advise husbands to keep the cares and vexations of the world to themselves but to be communicative of whatever is comfortable, and cheerful, and

But a short time has clapsed since these great and good medicines have been made known to the public, yet thousands have already experienced their good effects. Invalids, given over by their physicians as incurable, have found relief and been restored to sound and vigorous health from their use. The great amount of good these medicines have done, has induced thousands to recommend them to their friends. Men of integrity and physicians have sanctioned their uses recommended them to the public use, recommended them to the public. READER, if you want not your constitution in ured by that slow, lurking poison, calomel, or other mineral substances, touch not such medicines as contain them, but procure those excellent and purely regelable preparations, Halsey's Forest Wine and Pills. If you have the dyspepsia, or are troubled with costiveness, take this Wine and the Piles according to the directions, and you will then get well. If you are nervous, or was then get wen.

If you are nervous, or weakly, or have emariated countenance, or general debility, this Wine add the Pills will restore you to health and energy.

If you have unhealthy colored skin, or pimples, or pustules, or blotches, these medicines will purify the blood and eradicate all such humors.

If you have a weakly constitution, and feel you selves too old for your years, take these excellent medicines, and they will invigorate your constitution and fortify it for longer life.

If you are bilious (which may be known by such ymptoms as drowsiness, loss of appetite, dizziness and Pills will cure it. These medicines exert a powerful and most solutary action on the liver, and have been the means of curing thousands of this trouble PARENTS, there is not, perhaps, a month in the year that some members of your family does not com-plain of headache, or sickness at stomach, or have Londen's series of Family Medicines; Merchant's plain of headache, or sickness at stomach, or have Garging Oil, the greatest remedy for sprains in men or beast ever known; Mathewson's Infallible Remeof some kind or other soon follows; for such symp toms always show that bile or morbid matter exists in the stomach and bowels, or that the system is othnatory complaints; Pond's Extract, a first rate crivise disordered. Timely use of the Forest Wine and Pills will, in all cases, prevent sickness from such causes, and will purify the blood, and produc strength and minimation. The Forest Medicines, kept always at hand, to be taken whenever such symptoms are exhibited, will save your family almost entirely from sickness, as
