EXTRACT Prom Daniel Webster's Plymouth Rock Oration, Delivered at Plymouth, December 22, 1820. I deem it my duty, on this occasion, to suggest that the land is not wholly free from the contamination of a traffic, at which every feeling of humanity must forever revolt,-I mean the African slave-trade. Neither public sentiment, nor the law, has hitherto been able entirely to put an end to this odious and abominable trade. At the moment when God in his mercy has blessed the christian world with a universal peace, there is reason to fear that, to the disgrace of the christian name and character, new efforts are making for the extension of this trade by subjects and citizens of christian states, in whose hearts inhabits no sentiment of humanity or justice, and over the rock of Plymouth, to extirpate and dethe furnaces where manacles and fetters are still forged for human limbs. I see the visages of those who by stealth and at midnight labor in this work of hell, foul and dark, as may become the artificers of such instruments they execute the wholesome and necessary severity of the law. I invoke the ministers of tion of these crimes, and add its solemn sancpulpit be silent whenever or wherever there which seems to wave with a gentle magnificence to waft the burden of an honest commerce, and fo roll along its treasures with a conscious pride,-that ocean, which hardy industry regards, even when the winds have ruffled its surface, as a field of grateful toil, what is it to the victim of this oppression, it to him but a wide-spread prospect of suf-fering, anguish and death? Nor do the skies smile longer, nor is the air longer fragrant to him. The sun is cast down from heaven. An inhuman and accursed traffic has cut him off in his manhood, or in his youth, from evonging to his being, and every blessing which his Creator intended for

The christian communities send forth their emissaries of religion and letters, who stop, here and there, along the coast of the vast continent of Africa, and with painful and tedious efforts maké some almost imperceptible progress in the communication of knowledge, and in the general improvement of the natives who are immediately about them. Not thus slow and imperceptible is the transmission of the vices and bad passions which the subjects of christian states carry to the land. The slave-trade having touched the coast, its influence and its evils spread, like a pestilence, over the whole continent, making savage wars more savage and more frequent, and adding new and fierce passions to the contests of bar-occurrence. In a Chinese river that disembogues in the Yellow Sea, he saw a long, low called "fishing cormorants." The fisherman soon reached out his hand towards the birds, the nearest of which at once waddled up to him and stepped into his open palm; he smoothed his feathers with his right hand, bent his mouth to his arched neck for a mocalled "fishing cormorants." The fisherman ment, and then put him on the edge of the raft. There the bird dipped his bill into the water once or twice, snapped his head from side to side, and ended by diving suddenly into the turbid stream that washed his feet. After being down ten or fifteen seconds, he suddenly popped out of the water with a good sized fish in his mouth, and swimming to his master delivered up the prize. The fisherman stroked him down as before, uttered a few entered a few entered and known as "Smyth's Self-Acting Bent-Lever Platform Scales." The scale in question, from its construction on the principle of stroked him down as before, uttered a few enquestion, from its construction on the principle of couraging words, and the same operation was repeated. Another bird made one or two unsuccessful efforts, when the master took him back on the raft, slapped him soundly on the head, and threw him angrily down. That cormorant made tracks for the other end, and looked onite schamed. The twining of birds. It must perform its work thoroughly, because the laws of nature govern it. In size the scale is a pigmy, but for capacity it is wonderful, weighing any object from one ownce up to four hundred pounds. It can be regulated by any one who looks at it but for a moment. As their cost is but a trifle, they will speedily be as indispensably necessary in the household calendar as looked quite ashamed. The training of birds for the purpose of fishing is quite common in that part of China, and is often made a valuable source of emolument.

In the sight of our law, the African slave-trader is a pirate and a felon; and in the sight of Heaven, an offender far beyond the ordinary depth of human guilt. There is no brighter part of our history, than that which records the measures which have been adopted by the government at an early day, and at different times since, for the suppression of this traffic; and I would call on all the true sons of New England to cooperate with the laws of man, and the justice of Heaven. If there be, within the extent of our knowledge or influence, any participation in this traffic, let us pledge ourselves here, upon the rock of Plymouth, to extirpate and de THIS INVENTION claims superiority over every weighing apparatus.

SMTH'S PATENT PLATFORM SCALE.—We have examined this new invention. Nothing can be simpler or more completely developed than the principle upon which its acts. The platform which sustains the weight lifts a pendulum, suspended and loaded at the end, through an arc of a circle; and the indicator points out, upon the graduated circumference, the exact weight. In other platform scales the measure of avoirdupois has to be ascertained by moving a loose weight on a beam, as on a steelyard, till it his the precise point. Smyth's invention is a self-working one, and indicates at once, and to the minutest fraction, the figure. By attaching the weight on the end of the pendulum, the scale becomes multiplied by fives or tens: by releasing the weight it gives ounces instead of pounds. For household purposes, it is as cheap and far better than steelyards; and is finding the way to all well regulated kitchens where the receipt book with its average. I pursue this topic no further, except again to say, that all christendom, being now blessed with peace, is bound by everything which belongs to its character, and to the character of the present age, to put a stop to this inhuman and disgraceful traffic.

Important and Valuable Invention.—Among others, we have been favored with an examination of the new and valuable invention (recently patent ed.) known as Emyth's Self-Acting Bent-Lever Platform Scale. Mr. D. M. Smyth, the ingenious invention, has spent some five years in the perfection there seems but little doubt. This scale is constructed upon a scientific principle which knows no variation or change, and hence its accuracy is beyond question. Its capacity and strength is unprecedented, while its form and the principle involved make it convenient and applicable to all purposes requiring scales of any description. It is free from any complication or to get out of order. The gentlemar, was elected, and is now a member of the new Parliament.
