DIED.

In New Millord, on the 23d ult., JAMES BOYLE, in the 59th year of his age, rejoicing in the bright hope of a resurrection to Eternal Life. As a man, a citizen and a christian, the community and the church of God will feel his loss. . For thirty years he was an attached member of the Presbyterian Church, but he ver had a warm grasp for all who loved the Lord secus Christ in sincerity. During the latter part of his life he suffered much, but he leaned upon the arm of the whose strength was made perfect in his weakness. Peace and joy filled the soul of the sufferer. Death for him had no gloom. He joyfully anticipated the hour of his release when he should be with Jesus. Thus one after another of the generation who moved in at the settlement of our valley are passing away. May God raise up, in their stead, men who will be worthy of their fathers. In Jessup, Oct. 4th, Mr. VORNAN WHITFORD, aged 57. Yr. Whilford was one of our most substantial citizens and a worthy man. He came from Rhode Island when this County was in its infancy, and settled in Brooklyn. Here he raised a family and lived to see them all attain to usefulness. But neither rank or character can exempt one from death. May the consolations of the gospel sustain, the mourner sufficient time has elapsed since the inaugura

A sufficient time has esapsed since me mangues tion of Mr. Buchanan, to dispel the hopes entertained by many who did not support his election to the President, that his administration of affairs to the President and concerning as to picture. would be so moderate and conservative as to give repose to a country too long agitated by exciting col-lisions of opinion and interest. On the contrary to has been so far marked by a violence of measures which is without precedent, even in the administra-tion of Mr. Pierce.

In Kansas, it has given all its patronage, not many In Alman, it has given all its patronage, not merily to a faction, detested by the people of that Territory, but to the most odious men of that faction, some of whom have participated directly in scenear violence and bloodshed; while it has concentrated the entire disposable army of the United States at Fort Leavenworth, under the command of a man maken with the command of th pose of intimidating our fellow-citizens there into submission to a foreign usurpation, and if intimidation fails, of desolating them with fire and sword.

In foreign affairs, it does not disguise its purpose to take immense sums from the Treasury, to be expended in the purchase of new territories, while it threatens us with complications and wars fatal to commerce, in the sole interest of an institution, dreamed transparary and avacardinal law the foundation deemed temporary and exceptional by the foundary of our Government, but which now aspires to an eter-nity of duration, and to universal dominion. The purpose of Mr. Buchanan's administration clearly is to keep up the agitation of the slavery question, which was deliberately entered upon at a matter of political calculation in 1854, as the basis of new party then formed to control the destinies of ntry; that agitation to which Mr. Buchanan owes his own election, and to which those who surround him now look confidently for the perpetuation ot their own power.

There are large bodies of our countrymen, in all parts of the Union who deplore this organization of a sectional party at the South, bottoned upon the range olutionary proceedings of 1854, and still maintained olutionary pr by violent acts, appealing to sectional passions; who perceive that it ostracises the moderate and conservative portion of the citizens of the slaveholding States from participation and influence in public affairs; and who see in this geographical arrangement of parties the greatest dangers of all kinds, including danger to the greatest dangers of all kinds, including danger to the peculiar institution, the sensitiveness of which is so recklessly appeared to by political gamblers.

It is proposed by the undersigned to establish a newspaper at the city of Washington, in which the views of these portions of our countrymen may be reflected. This newspaper will be styled The Republic, and will endeavor to maintain a nationality and comprehensiveness of views worthy of its name. comprehensiveness of views worthy of its name.

Esteeming as the most imminent and pressing its party by pandering to the passions of the slavery propaganda, The Republic will resolutely oppose an administration which has determined to perpetuate itself by keeping up a form of party so dangerous and a chiefer the second of the slavery propaganda.

An inflexible attachment to the Union; a rever ence for the Constitution of the United States, as the highest achievement of human wisdom; a general conformity as to doubtful constructions of the Conto the constitution and as to principles of public administration, to the school of politics illustrated by the genius of Mr. Jefferson; peace and justice in our foreign relations; the consolidation of our civilization at home, rather than needless, premature, or dangerous enlargements of territory; the dedication of our present public donuing as the territory. ublic domain as a theater for the prosperous industpublic domain as a theater for the prosperous industry of freemen, and, with that view, the problition of its transfer except in moderate quantities to actual settlers; such, briefly, are the principles, feelings, and objects which will give tone to The Republic. It will be one of the sims of The Republic to cooperate in reducing the expenditures of the Govern-ment, which have been swollen to seventy millions per annum by the extravagance and corruption of the party in power. The revenues of the country are mainly contributed by its free laborers, while its disbursements, of late years, have been made with very little reference to their interests. Public employ-ments, military, naval, and civil, have become more

The publication of The Republic will be com-menced in the first work of September. The prices and terms of subscript or are given below.
