Thursday, December 17, 1857. From the great length of the President's Message, we are unable to give our usual varicty this week, and for the same cause must defer any extended comments on that document. Is the federal government going into the business of banking, without a specie basis? or are gold and silver considered too good for the people's use, and therefore reserved for the use of officeholders and their favorites?

Among the proceedings of the House of Representatives, we notice that on the 9th inst., as soon as the members were seated, 10th, confirmed by the Senate, Mr. Grow gave notice that he would to-morrow, or on some subsequent day, introduce a bill to secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public lands.

"The Glenwood bark-peeler," as some of the Shamocracy call him, still shows him, self the earnest friend of the poor man, and we trust his efforts in favor of a Home stead bill will jultimately be crowned with success. Such a disposition of the public domain would be more praiseworthy, and more for the public benefit, then the system so much in vogue of making large grants of public lands for Railroads and other purposes. which grants generally enure mainly to the benefit of corporations and speculators.

The first number of the new series will be issued on the first of January next. New subscribers can on the first of January next. New subscribers can be supplied from that date; but immediate application will be necessary for such as desire to begin at the beginning. A Lome is hardly complete, we think we may safely venture to say, without the Home Journal, which, besides being a chronicle of the times, abounds in intelligence designed to enliver an American Home. Its editors (Gao P. Monars and N. P. Willis) devote their entire time, skill and experience, to the task of giving; each week, everything worth knowing. They particularly keep an eye on all the whims and novelties of the day. The utmost pains are taken to present the facts and outlines of all news. In the literary department, we aim at all news. In the literary department, we aim at sketches and readable criticism, and in our conden-sations of the productions of the vast newspaper world of Europe, we endeavor to avoid the tiresome world of Europe, we endeavor to avoid the thresome and the local, and transfer to our columns the pick of English information and brilliancy, while we endeav-or to select with a true sense of pure morals, true wit, and genuine humor.

The new feature for the coming year is one that we have long thought of presenting to our readers—the Connessionnence of four very brilliant women who CHRISTMAS EVENING, December 25th, 1857.

The object of which is to pay for their Hose Cart.

CORRESPONDENCE of four very brilliant women who send us regularly the Gossir of the Keeping of these most readable matters to ourselves—feeling certain that it was precisely the Society purity which our subscribers required as effervescence to the otherwise brimming cup—and, with some difficulty, we have obtained the consent of our fair correspondents. It was only on one condition, however—the inventor. It was only on one condition, however—the incogni-ta, for each, should be strictly preserved. We agreed to this; but, as it was important to distinguish be-tween their several Letters, we ventured to suggest noms de plume, such as we thought would be somewhat descriptive of their several veins of humor. The four ladies will therefore be introduced to the readers of the next volume of the Home Journal, as Mrs. Ja-PONICA JONES, Mrs. AMELIA RATTER, MISS LOTSA NEFFIN, Miss JUSTELLY SURVINE. And from these—the four most brilliant persons of four city acquaintance—the charming Letters will be fully forthcoming.

Every one knows how a ten-table or evening circle is enlivened, by the coming in of an intelligent man, who knows all the new ideas afford; and tells them, briefly and graps and of head; and tells them, briefly, and gayly, and off-hand, in the way of ordinary conversation. Such a person gives you the substance of the daily papers, in three or four sentences -tells you the plan and moral of a new book in a dozen words—gives the essence of a sermon, the core of a public speech, the key to a public characcore of a public speech, the key to a public character, the spirit of an article in a raview, the novelty in fashion, the last turn in politics—all briefly, and all without detail or flummery—leaving it with you, as material for your own discussion and gossip. This is just what we propose to do for the Home Journal for 1858. We mean to jot down, for our readers in the fewest words possible, every new idea that falls in our gay. As we read, as people drop in and talk, as we look about in our walks, we shall be on the look out for ideas and novelites—giving them in the briefest shape. Formerly, we used to lay such memoranda aside, to write about if we about find time—now, we shall give them to our readers, ro discuss now, we shall give them to our readers, to Discuss THEMELIVES. In this way, the subscriber to the Home-Journal will island a chance to get hold in some shape or other, of every new idea that is going.

The other popular features of the paper will be continued:—Sketches of Belles, Portraits of Public. Characters, descriptions of stirring scenes in New-York, news of fashion and manners, phases of gay and literary society, and new fun or new folly—in short, A. PICTURE OF THE WORLD AS IT PASSES. We have ceared thought it necessary to microin, howerer, what our readers well understand, that we take
