MONTROSE, PA.

Thursday, December 24, 1857.

The Printers in our office, feeling that they have done the State some service"-by their assid. uous labors during the past year, consider themselves entitled to a few days' relaxation, and propose to adjourn for the holidays, after the manner of Members of Congress. We shall therefore issue no paper next week; but, meanwhile, taking Time by the forelock. we wish to our readers, all and several, "a merry Christmas and a happy New-Year."

Our junior type, who intends to get up a little the nicest Carrier's Address ever seen this side of the Rocky Mountains, wishes us to insert the following, partly to show that his poetry-machine is in running order, and partly to prepare the public mind for his advent:

This is to give Montrose folks warning. Don't let it cause another panic,
If you should have a call Satanic, On New Year's Day in the morning; But say your prayers, and all keep steady.

And be sure and have your Quarters ready.

Governor Walker's letter resigning the gov emorship of Kansas, and acting Governor Stanton's nessage convening an extra session of the Kansas Legislature, must convince the hardest to be convinced that the charges of fraud and usurpation made against the framers of the Lecompton Constitution. are true. We cannot wonder that the high-handed villainies so plainly exposed by Gov. Walker's letter, have caused a large portion of the Democratic partr at length to refuse their support to the lawless acts of the slavery-extensionists. The question has be- ago. come simply whether the doctrine that the majority shall rule-once considered Democratic doctrineshall prevail in Kansas, or whether the people of that Territory shall be crushed under the tyranny of Border Ruffian usurpers and the general government.

The position which the supporters of the Lecompton Constitution are required to take, is so repugnant to all the principles of Democracy, to the doctrines even of the Kansas-Nebraska bill, to the pledges and public committals of Mr. Buchanan and his partisans at the North, that a large portion of the party refuse to submit to such degradation as the support of that instrument requires.

We intended to comment on the errors and inconsistencies of that portion of the President's message which treats of Kansas affairs; but that now seems unnecessary; for the letter of Gov. Walker, a distinreished National Democrat, fresh from the scenes he describes, and knowing personally that of which he speaks, fully and completely refutes the statements and arguments of the President. It also establishes. on good Democratic authority, the statements that have appeared in the Republicon newspapers with "Black Re, ublican lies." We hope the Governor's letter will be read by all men of all parties; and after tration that supports it. Especially those who in the campaign of 1856 hurralted for "Buck, Breck, and Free Kansas," believing Buchanan was as much in favor of freedom for Kansas as Fremonf, must now see how greatly they were deceived, and must repudiate an administration whose principles are the reverse of their own.

Modern Democracy seems to be shamming in its pretended hostility to paper currency, as well as in other things. The President-that respectable old Federalist-recommends the issue of $20,000,000 of paper money, in the form of Treasury notes; and

In time of war it may sometimes be necessary for e government to resort to the issue of paper money, or government promises to pay, as was done by the Continental Congress during the Revolution, though the currency so furnished proved little better than none; but situated as we now are, the federal government instead of resorting to such an expedient, should either diminish its expenses to correspond with its present income, or else increase its revenue by a higher tariffor by direct taxation. All these expenses must ultimately be paid by the people; and so to mismanage the public finances as to compel the people to pay interest for money borrowed to carry on the government, in time of peace, is shameful.

The Lecompton Constitution, which President Suchanan and the more reckless portion of the Sham Democracy wish to impose upon the people of Kansas, contains the following provisions, as set forth in a synopsis of the Constitution published in the Washington States, an administration paper which sustains the doings of the Lecompton Convention:

"The Governor is to hold his office for two years, and must be at least thirty years of age, and have nomen is as yet uninvented. been a citizen for twenty years, and have resided in the State at least five years preceding the day of his election, or from the time of forming this Constitu-

Do the Irish Democracy approve of a Constitution like that? If the Free State men of Kansas had adopted a Constitution with such a feature in it, a howl of "Know Nothingian" would have gone up from the been asked to observe that all except pro-Slavery mous vote. men were fees of the foreign born, and unwilling to grant them equal rights of citizenship. But here Irishmen are proscribed-made ineligible to office for twenty years after they become citizens, and of course it is all right and Democratic. Hurrah for Jemmy Buchanan and Slavery, and down with the wicked black Republicans!

IF Mr. Cox, a Democratic member of the House of Representatives, has made a strong speech in that body against the Lecompton Constitution; and Mr. Marshall, a Democratic member from Illinois, has written a letter to the Washington Union, supporting Douglas, and declaring that the preservation of the Democratic party depends upon its adherence to the principle of popular sovereignty. There is said to be a majority in the House opposed to the admisgion of Kansas with the Lecompton Constitution.

The Senate on Saturday last passed the Treasury note bill, by a mixed vote. Yeas 31, Nays 18, Messrs. Crittendon, Foot, Hall, Kennedy, Seward and Wilson of the Opposition voting for it, and Messrs. Broderick, Jeff. Davis, Johnson of Tonn., and Pugh, (Democrats) voting against it, with a majority of the Republicans. It forbids the issue of any notes below the denomination of $100.

The Banks of New York City and State, and also those of Boston, have generally resumed specie

For the Independent Republican. Spending an Evening "out." NOWHERE-IN-PARTICULAR, Dec. 3, 1857.

MR. FRARIER:-In the latest lingo, I am "lying round loose" just at present; and so it happens that on this particular evening, after an afternoon tramp of ten miles through a snow storm, my location is in the immediate neighborhood of this unsnuffed and unenlightened half-civilized tallow candle. Said tallow candle is situated on a little four-legged table, in one corner of a farmer's kitchen, dining room, and parlor. The farther side of the table is inhabited by superannuated tin pan, containing a surprising vegctable, which Jim, the farmer's son, tells me is a Jeusalem cherry tree. Between that and the candle, the only objects of interest are two balls of blue varn transfixed with a darning needle, after the manner of hearts in a valentine, and one half of a pair of A. Bellarny, of Friendsville. snuffers that won't snuff the candle. The last mentioned ornament to the society of the table, still retains its ancient place of honor by the side of the candlestick; but its glory has departed together with one of its legs. It looks lonely and emblematic of the condition of an old bachelor. Console yourself with the idea that if the other half was there, the snuffers would have to snuff. In the centre of the room stands the unremoved supper table, on the top of which two remarkable rinkles in the cloth form an algebraic sign of equality between the farmer and his wife. On this side of the table she washes the dishes, and at the opposite sits the farmer, reading the Banner of Liberty, which a neighbor has just brought from the postoffice a couple of miles distant. Neighbors here do neigh-

Ever and anon, he stops to utter a threat against the unterrified little Simeon, who, regardless of prophesied punishment, is conveying the cat up stairs, using her ail by way of a handle.

Among the items of intelligence, the spectacles save recently discovered something of unusual interest, and, placing them at half-mast in the lower notch his nose, the masculine member of the aforementioned equation addressed me with the exclamatory idea that "Folks said as how old Barnum had got back all his money and was richer'n ever agiii." As it was evidently necessary to say something,

"He went to England, I believe," replied I, putting up my paper and turning around for a chat. Here the other member came in for her share of the conversation, with the interrogative remark that day of January next, to answer said complaint, &c. She'd heerd somebody tellin' suthin' 'bout England's bein' a kind o' half-brother uv his'n."

At this juncture the spectacles were again elevated to the top notch and directed at the news-column of the Banner of Liberty. I being at a loss for a reply to the last inquisition, looked as much as possible as if I didn't know; whereupon Mrs. C- subsided into washing her dishes, and I returned to my scribble. Considered in an educational point of view, that institution is a failure, but its intention foreshadows small cups of economical coffee to-morrow morning, as well as the old lady's agreeable surprise at the fact that I take mine withadministration members in both Houses of Congress the aid of which little Simeon has just been persuaded to have his face washed and go to bed, is the exponent of the family discipline. In the middle of the chimney-breast hangs a picture of a very unremarkable young lady, with her Sunday-go-to-meeting attitude and expression of countenance in a remarkable state of preservation, considering the peculiarity of the circumstances.
