RUMOR.

I from the orient to the drooping West Making the wind my post-horse, still unfold The acts commenced on this ball of earth; Upon my tongue continual slanders ride,
The which in every language I pronounce,
Stuffing the ears of men with false reports.
I speak of process of the state of I speak of peace, while covert enmity,
Under the smile of safety, wounds the world
And who but Rumor, who but only I,
Make fearful musters, and prepared defense: Whilst the big year, swollen with some other grief, is thought with child by the stern tyraft War, and no such matter? Rumor is a pipe, Blown by surmises, jealousies, conjectures; And of so easy and so plain a stop, That the blunt monster, with uncounted heads, The still discordant, wavering multitude—

A Battle Incident.

Can play upon it.

[Shakspeare.

At the battle of the Thames a laughable incident occurred, which is thus related by one who was in the engagement: The British general had formed his men in open order, with the cannon pointing down the road, by which the Americans were advancing. General Harrison immediately took advantage of this, and ordered Colonel John- Also, just received at Chandler's, an assortment of son's mounted regiment to charge at speed by heads of companies, (so as to expose the forces. This movement was brilliantly executed by the battalion under the command of Lieut. Col. James Johnson, his brother, Col. Richard M. Johnson, at the same time charging the Indians with the other battalion.

It happened that in one of the companies under James Johnson's command, there was a huge, brawny fellow, named Lamb; he weighed about two hundred and forty pounds, as good humored as big, brave men proverbially are. Lamb had broken down his Kentucky horse by his great weight and was mounted instead upon a short, stout, wild Canadian pony, from whose sides his long limbs depended almost to the ground, while his bulky frame rose high above the beast, looking not unlike an overgrown boy astride of a rough sheep. . When the charge was made, Lamb's pony took tright and broke into a run. Lamb pulled until the bit broke in the animal's mouth, and all command of him was lost .-The little pony stretched himself to the work, dashed out of the ranks, soon out-stripped all the file leaders and rushed on in advance of the company. Lamb was no longer master of his horse or himself, and he was in a quandary. If he rolled off he would be trampled to death by his friends; if the horse rushed upon the British lines with him, so far ahead of the rest, he must be killed. Either way death seemed inevitable, and, to use his expression, he thought "he'd just say something they could tell his friends in old Kentucky when they went home."

He stuck both heels in the pony's flanks and urged him to his utmost speed. On they drove, some fifty yards in front of the leading file, Lamb's gigantic person swaying from side to side, and his legs swinging in a most portentous manner—the little Canadi- at a fair price. an "pulling foot" all he knew how, his tail straight, his nostrils distended, his cars pinned back, and his eyes flashing from under ned back, and his eyes flashing from under their shaggy foretop, with all the splcen of a born devil. Just as he got within a stride or lections of a Life Time, by S. G. Goodrich, &c. two of the British, Lamb flourished his rifle and roared out in a voice of thunder, " Clear out of the way, for I am coming

To his surprise the line opened right and left, and he passed through unhurt. So great was their astonishment at the strange apparition of such a rider and such a horse moving upon them, with furious velocity, that they opened mechanically at his word of command and let him pass. As soon as he gained the rear of their position, Lamb rolled off on the grass and suffered his pony to go on his own road. A few minutes more and he was with his comrades securing the prisoners.

A Candid Descon.

Descon M. was an honest old codger, kind, obliging neighbor, and a good church-going Christian, believing in the Presbyteri-an creed to the fullest extent; but, alackaday! this pillar of the church was at times a little "shaky"—in fact, the deacon would occasionally get exceedingly "mellow," and almost every Sunday at dinner he would indulge in his favorite cider brandy to such an extent that it was with some little difficulty he reached his pew, which was in the broad aisle, near the pulpit, and between the minister's and the village squire's. One Sunday morning the parson told his flock that he should preach a sermon to them in the afternoon touching many glaring sins that he grieved to see so conspicuous among them, and that he hoped that they would listen attentively and not flinch if he should happen to be severe. The afternoon came and the house was full; everybody turned out to hear their neighbors "dressed down" by the minister, who, after well opening his sormon, commenced upon the transgressors in a loud voice with the question, "Where is the drunkard?" A solemn pause succeeded this inquiry, when up rose Deacon M., with his face radiant from copious draughts of his fa-vorite drink at his noontide meal, and, steadying himself as well as he could by the pew-rail, looked up to the parson and replied, in a piping and tremulous voice, "Here I am." Of course a consternation amongst the congregation was the result of the honest deacon's response; however, the parson went on with his remarks as he had written them. commenting severely upon the drunkard, and winding up by warning him to forsake at once such evil habits if he would seek salration and flee the coming wrath. The dea-con then made a bow and seated himself again. "And now," out spoke the preacher man in his loudest tones," Where is the hypocrite ?" A pause but no one responded. Eyes were turned upon this and that man; but the most glances seemed directed to the squire spew, and indeed the parson seemed to squint hard in that direction. The dea-

THE GULF STREAM.—There is a river in the ocean. In the severest drouths it never fails, and in the mightiest floods it never overflows. Its banks and its bottom are of cold water, while its current is of warm. The Gulf of Mexico is its fountain, and its mouth is in the Arctic Seas. It is the Gulf Stream. There is in the world no other such majestic flow of water. Its current is more rapid than the Mississippi or the Amazon, and its volume more than a thousand times greater.-Its waters, as far out from the Gulf as Carolina coasts, are of an indigo blue. They are so distinctly marked, that the line of junction with the common sea-water may be traced by the eye. Often one half of the vessel may be perceived floating in the gulf-stream water, while the other half is in the common water of the sea; so sharp is the line and the want of affinity between these waters; and such, too, the reluctance, so to speak, on the nert of those of the Gulf Stream to mingle with the common water of the sea,-Lieut.

IMPORTANT INVENTION .- For some five years past Mr. D. M. Smyth, of Pennsylvania, (now of this State) an ingenious and scientific mechanic, has concentrat-ed his mind and means upon an invention at length fust been issued by the Government of the United States. This invention is known as "Smyth's Self-Acting Bent-Lever Platform Scale," and as this is the first public notice of this useful and valuable im-provement, we shall take the liberty of expressing provement, we shall take the inserty of expressing ourselves freely upon its merits. The platform of the scale is about 12 by 18 inches, and the whole scale is about 8 inches high and weighs entire only about 25 pounds, while it has the extraordinary capacity o weighing any object from one ounce to four hundred pounds. Its form is compact and convenient, and is which, together with the perdulum, the instant any object is placed upon the platform moves from its centre of gravity to the point indicating the exact weight. The scientific principle upon which it acts ndmits of no inaccuracy or change, and a given pressure or weight upon the platform must always carry the weighted arm and indicator to the same point.—

The principle beyond doubt is the correct one, and that it has been properly applied in this instance, the lucky inventor has left no room for doubt. He seems to have attained perfection itself—at least so far as Platform Scales are concerned, and to have combined

Sir: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best eathertie we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious diseases o distinate that it did not resultly yield to them.

Dr. Atri: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They nave done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Went off to be doctored all great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which som cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighborhad it bed; and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors bills, and lost much time, without being cured suffery even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here. GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Pathanter Indigestion and Impurity of the Bloods thinest, will be prized here. GEO. J. Yours, J. V. HIMES WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1855.

Dear Sir: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

Dr. Atke: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mether has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.

HONDERD SER: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic paims, which ended in chronic rieumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until, by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them I am now entirely well.

VINCENT SLIDELL. For Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an exceller remedy. For Costiveness or Constipation, and as Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual. Fits, Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Dearlness, and Partial Blindness, have been rured by the alterative action of these Pills. Most of the pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreafful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the discase.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtite and dangerous diseases of the threat and lungs. While it is the most powerful initiate yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should have it in stors against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared We have abundant grounds to believe the CREET PECTORAL saves more lives by the consumptions it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the in exorable cauker that, fastened on the vitals, eats your life away.

All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as they know too the vitrues of this remedy, we need not do more thar assure them it is still made the best it can be. We spare ix cost, towers, not still to profile it the those typefic to possible, and thus afford these who rely on it the best agent which our skill cost, to core, no toll to produc it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure. PREPARED BY DR. J. C.
