From the New London Chronicle. GROW VS. KEITT: The "Southron" came down like a Kite on his prey

And the "chivalry" followed to see the affray:
And he cried with an oath, while he shock like mouse, ... What business have you on this side of the house? Then spoke Mr. Gow-quite easy and cool-(He knew him a bully, and thought him a fool:)
"My right I'll maintain in this hall of the free

To 'object' when I please, and wherever I be!"
"What meant you," said Keitt, "by the answer you made." Said Grow again coolly-"I meant what I said?" In language unlike the polite "Mr. Guppy,"

Keitt said "you're a Black Republican puppy,"

Answered Grow with the words and the spunk of

"No driver of slaves, cracks his lash over me;" Said "chiralrona" Keitt, "we'll see about that," Said "chiralrons" Keitt- "we'll see about that,"

As he sprang at Grow's throat, like a wild mountain Just then came a "stunder," beneath his left car: And "the gendeman from South Carolina" felt queer: ("Tis whispered, that "stunner" was "planted" by

Grow :
But " Chivalry" fancies he just -- " stubbed his toc.") Then on rushed the South in a terrible plight—And on rushed the South in a terrible plight—And on rushed the North, to "back up" the Right: Virginia" fired up" like a fire-fly in June; Pennsylvania." caught up a stone-ware spittoon; "Olio "stepped round," and it seemed very plain Was wishing, "friend Grow" would "hit him again." Wisconsin was there, "striking out right and left"—Illinois—Mississipti—of reason bereft:
The South hif the North a "terrible dig—The North made a "grab"—and "off went a wig;" Then ascended a shout, and up went a roar; When the aig was replaced with "back side before." And the North looking on, and enjoying the rig; Thought the healt was turned roundings wellas the wig.

Now peace is restored; so when Coogress adjourns And the "inember" to South Carolina returns; His friends may declare—"he has lost all his wits". That "Northerner" gave him "particular fits;"
Yet we'll hope that the ladies, forgetting the blow,
Will present him a cane, and then—bind up hix toe.

From Forney's Press. LETTER FROM THE EDITOR.

Washington, March 12, 1858. I LEET Philadelphia on Wednesday on a hurrica visit to some friends here, and will return. God willing, by this evening's train, carrying with me this hurried letter, which must take the place of my usual word in Tue. Press of to morrow. What a difference beween March 1857 and March 1858! I dwell upon it with surprise and gricf, One year ago the country was full of content, and at peace with itself. The hearts of all our people beat responsively to a noble inaugural, and the hands of men of all parties were uplifted to support and to strengthen our venerable President. The Democrats were united and joyous, and gazed hopefully into a tranquil and victorious lature. The Republicans were dismayed, and new political combinations wars abandoned before the prospect of a wife and patrictic policy. Mr. Seward, in the Senate; Mr. Stanton, in the House; Mr. Greeley, in the Tribune, instead of praparing new weapons of attack upon the Administration, were turning their thoughts to those substitutial questions upon which all men agree in this happy country.

Even the Americans, few in number, could see no profit in faction, and were quietly reconsidering their plans. The extreme South, so apt to chafe into a passion, was as calm as a summer's morning. Conservatish, in its very best sense, had taken possession of the Government An experienced President, a sure and sagacious Cabinet, a ready Schute in session, and a still more willing House preparing for its new term-these constituted the sterling superstructure of an enduring condition of national prosperity.

d the sterling superstructure of an enduring grave subject. I do it more in sorrow than condition of national prosperity.

And what a change one year has produced a frightful abyss; and in my vocation as an d! I can hardly believe my senses that I ed! I can hardly believe my senses that I independent journalist, and as one who would am writing from the capital of my country, to-morrow serve James Buchanan if I felt he and that my old friend—he, to whom I have borne, almost fitial relations from my boy hood—he, to whom I have confided my, few hopes and fears—he, for whom I, dared the frowns of foes, and for whom during four long years in the lower House of Congress the patronage in my gift was fearlessly be stowed, and he knows how gladiy and how spontaneously, too;—I can hardly believe my tenses, that this is the city of Washington, and that James Buchanant is President.

What is the aspect now? One wide and that my old friend-he, to whom I have was right, with all the arder of the What is the aspect now? One wide Reign of Terror. A test is erected here, like some horrid instrument of torture, upon which Democrats are tried and executed for their opinions. The work of decapitation has ceased against life-time fues, and is now waged upon old and cheri-hed friends. Men are removed and calcumniated not for being opposed to Democratic principles, but for being too much in favor of them. The hum blest clerk, with his little family, who strug gles along on his thousand dollars a year must hide his sentiments or leave his place For the bold and upright Democrat whe dares to think aloud, there is short short. he has an office he must be ready for the eminons cortel of dismissal on the instant If he is an independent citizen, he is excluded from the Departments and from the White House like a common Jeper. An army of spies are on the alert, hunting for victims. Wos to the imguarded gentleman who, in the presence of one of these eager eaves dropper, may let fall a free opinion! It is at once caught up and carried, with no lack of exaggeration, to the car of power. If there is on this round globe a race more despised in civilized society than any other, it is the race of informers. The noblest invective of the noblest of lrish grators has made thein immortally infamous. These mercenaries now hold high service in Washington. I could name several of them from our own State, but I forbear for the honor of Pennsylvania. Broken in fortune, reckless of their own fame, laughing at conscience in others and rejecting it for themselves, they swarm here anxious which we think will epen the eyes of many to carn their guilty wages. The most of persons who have heretofore blindly followthese creatures, happily, are the men who have purshed and persecuted the President There are thousands of men in Pennsylvania with the same venom which they now display towards those who differ from his Kan-sas policy.

It is their vocation to make public opinion here against the intrepid sentiment of the people; to bully in the hotels, to infest the rooms of members, to "pump" the new arriweak, to supply false motives for honest differences, to fill the town with rumors of defection among the friends of the Right, to. flatter power, and to applaud to the echo everything of falls from the lips of greatness. "Bir said a wise and good man to me on one occasion, several years ago, "the President rarely hears the truth. He is surrounded with sycophants, who say only what pleases him." How often this profound truth is illustrated! It is said that Frederick the Great—I think Lord Brougham's political horizon. There is henceforth to be short sketch of him, contains the statement rebellion in the Northern Democracy against would sometimes demand of his ministers to the imperious demands of the foes of this talk to him boldly; and when they did he Union in the Southern States! They have yould lose his temper, and beat them for pushed us to the wall, and if we have the their candor. There are many good, brave spirit of manhood coursing in our veins, we men in Washington to day, who would give will refuse longer to bow down and become their worst of thoughts the worst of word, if their mentals. We have already, in our they had the chance. But the eye of great honest efforts to fraternize with them, gone ness has no welcome—the ear of greatness too far. They grow insolent under our conno hearing—for such men. If they attempt cessions, and there is nothing left for us to to speak out, they are turned away or left do but to conquer them, and when we do so, standing "alone in their glory." Let me we shall give power and influence to the true give you the last instance of the way things patriots and Union loving men of the South. are done here. One of the best men over sent from Western Pennsylvania to our State The Detroit Tribune says a loving Legislature was Maxwell M Caslin. the first mile traveled in a journey, all are important things-they make a beginning, and thereby a hope, a promise, a pledge, an

at the bold and tyrannical policy of the President, which proposes to di-regard the right of the free North and make Kansas a slave

State against the protest of her people, by dragooning members of Congress, in order to gratify the demands of the pro-slavery minority of the Union. Let us reflect and ponder. Let us fully consider the disreputable business that even a "l'ennsylvania

President" is now engaged in. The West Chester Republican, a Democratic paper of position and influence, after an able review of the whole question, gives utterance to the following paragraph:

"There is one good result seen through much for Buckingham."

A cold settled in my limbs and brought on exeruciating nearable pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until, by the advice of your excellent squart in Estimore, Dr. Mackentie, I tried your Fills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them I am now cuttiefly well.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town, and glmost every hamlet of the American States its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it all ready known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the sub-tle and dangerous diseases of the Inreat and laugs. While it is the most powerful antidoty yet known to man for the formulable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the fleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for fit fants; and young persons. Parents should have it in steragainst the landisms enemy that steaks inon them unprepared.
