THE NEW METAL-ALUMINUM.-Before office. many years this new metal will be employed very generally and profitably in the man utacibre of a great many articles that gold-and silver are now used for. It possesses the remarkable quality of being lighter than all other budies of the metallic class that are now in use. The lightest of these is zinc, which is seven times heavier than water ;-iron is nearly eight times heavier; silver is nearly ten and a half times, and gold twenty times: whereas aluminum is little more than twice and a half times as heavy as that fluid, and consequently it is only about one quarter the weight of silver: An ounce of it will go as far has four ounces of silver or eight ounces of gold, Constant exposure and daily use have no effect on its brilliant surface. for it never tarnishes, and the time will probably come when it will be employed for articles of the most ordinary use.
