Appeal to the People of the State of Penn-sylvania, for the Purchase of Mount Vernon. Chosen to represent, in this State, the Mount Version Ladies' Association of the Union," I venture to speed to the generous and patrictic people of Pennsylvania, on this day, the anniversary of the birth of WASH-frores, for their aid, in sinison with the people of other States, to complete the purchase of Mount Vernon, the place of his residence and his tomb; and to secure it forever as a giving delicious odors, sweep by us, there public and enduring monument of their una- may be some odors suggestive of anything bated gratitude for his life long services, and but the "balm of a thousand flowers." Gratitude to one whose life was so generous es, we must put our premises through a thor-and exaited; veneration of an example, such as his, of virtues that have so elevated the simply washings, and swashings, and drench character of a public man, may well enlist the deepest sympathics of the women of America, and embolden them to claim the aid, not of their own sex alone, but of every one who justly glories in being a countryman of Washington, and whose heart is moved by actions the purest and noblest that man caying substances be gathered and removed can render to mankind.

The object of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association is to obtain, by voluntary contributions, a sum necessary to purchase and any rate. One cabbage head going into dehold forever, two hundred acres of the Mount composition will do more mischief than ten Vernon Estate, including the mansion where Washington dwelt and died, his tomb, the garden and grounds around them, and the matter, and thorougaly, to sweep cellars, landing at the Potomac by which they are courts and drains, and the bills of mortality DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING. approached. of ladies, and advisory committees of gentlemen, in the various counties, cities and principal towns. Every person by whom one dollar, towards this fund, is paid, becomes thereby a permanent member of the Associ-ation, and is inscribed as such in a record which will be preserved at Mount Vernon. Similar arrangements will be immediately organized throughout the State of Pennsylvania, and a public announcement will be given of the persons by whom subscriptions will be received and the registry of names be made

A large amount has been already collected from places where these arrangements have been completed. The public press, so influential in good works, has lent its powerful aid. Associations established for philanthropic purposes--the fraternity of Free Masons, to which Washington himself belonged; that of the Odd Fellows; the voluntary military companies and firemen; and numerous bodies assembling together for objects of utility and benevolence, have everywhere exhibited the deepest interest, and united in this noble effort with the most liberal spirit. Patriotic individuals have come forward, with prompt sympathy, to lead and encourage communities; and the cheering prospect is held out that this wide-pervading spirit, spreading through all parts of our common country, is insuring complete suc-
