A * PAPER BY REV. DENRY WARD BEECHER. New York State Agricultural Society. Among the things we did not, but now do believe in, is the Sewing Machine. One thing after another had been invented; one arm. machine after another had superseded manual labor, until human hands seemed about to ed the silver cup. As often as he slakes his thirst from it may it afford him unmingled go out of use, for any other mechanical purpose than that of lover's pressures, orators' gestures, and for beaux's and belles' gloves. But we also consoled ourselves that one or two things there were yet, which no machinery could perform. We could imagine chil-dren put through the whipping machine, and we had long been accustomed to see them remembered in consequence of it will he feel taught by automatic machines. There was a an exquisite pleasure in the possession of a time honored business handed down to us farm brought to such a degree of perfection without a break; from the garden of Eden, of by his own industry and skill. When the courting-and kissing as one of its ordinan-ces-no machinery could ever perform that. Machine poetry and machine sermons, we are familiar with. Babbage can make machines for cyphering, for computing logarithms, for casting up interest, but can he invent a machine for saving interest, and capface productive, beautiful, worthy of a pre ital teo, for that matter? And, oh! can mium against brisk competition, has injured there ever be a machine for answering letters? We would pay any price for a ma-chine, into which letters being put, and a crank turned, there should drop out at the drawback. It would be more glorious than other side answers, as good as the letters, folded, directed, and stamped ! But machines have steadily gained ground, see and estimate the really good and true and the iron muscle has relieved the flesh hand; machines for boring, sawing, cutting, planing; for making bread (I wish there was one for eating some of it,) pumping water, for making cattle draw their own drink.-But notwithstanding, we firmly believed that some things would never be done by any fin-The outhouses spoken of are not as import-ant as the main buildings. Fine and tastegers except human, and eminent among these impossible things was sewing ! are parts of one whole, at which every farm-er should aim. We desire our readers to When the rumors began to prevail, then anteu our eye brows gently, and went on our way with a quiet consciousness that we could not be taken in by any such story. We re-garded it as of a piece with new found moral-ity in old politicians, with the thousand an-nual rumors of some heaven-dawned virtue in Washington Carbon and a general assort-ment of Dry Goods, Groccries, Hard-ware, Hats and Caps, Boots and dispose of them for cr? ONE HORSE STORE UNDER FULL SPEED!

in Washington City-a mere device to catch the credulous. But, day by day, the clatter grew. Indeed.

we surprised ourselves with a coat, sewed in important respects by a machine. We saw linen pyramids of sheeting made for hotels

The case was growing serious; and at last, it came to a head, when the head of the familv informed us that a woman was to come in a few days with her machine, and do up the family sewing. Of course we submitted without a word. And the three capable per-sons of this household began to prepare matter for the machine to an extent which showed how perfectly they had been fooled by the story of its executive ability. Piles of large stuff lay in each corner; little stuff cov-ered the table; and miscellaneous stuff lay every where. We ran against button heaps, were in danger of getting tangled in webs of linen and sheeting at every turn, and such ripping, and tearing, and cutting, and basting as went on would lead one to imagine that an army was to be clothed.

The day dawned. The woman came, and the iron machine came with her. After a little, there rose a hum from our chamber, not unlike the buzz of a wheat mill, such as we have heard in summer, sitting under willow trees on the edge of a stream, over against a red mill, white dusted. Soon we heard excited exclamations. Everybody seemed stirred up. The girls left their work ; the children forsook their playthings, and we followed the example.

There sat before the simple machine stand, a fair young woman, some sixteen years old, whose foot like that of old-fashioned flax spinners, was working the treadle with the mblest motion. Then came the conviction, for the first time, that sewing was conquered and vanished ! Long sheets entering the fatal pass, streamed through, and came out bemmed, in a ridiculously short time. An hour's work was done up before your eyes in one minute. A shirt was set in of such dimensions, that (we call Baron Munchausen to witness.) a man could not get round it by tair walking, in less than--well, in some time ! It streamed through the all puncturing machine about as soon as a good sized flag, being hoisted, would unroll and flow out to the wind. A bundle of linen took its turn, and came forth a collar, a handkerchief, a cap.-There goes in a piece of cloth ! there comes out a shirt ! We were bewildered. Not much done for some hours in that house but gaze and wonder. We mistake. A good deal more was done and done more effectually, than had ever been done in ten times the time before. What heaps of towels-what piles of sheets-what bedfulls of small trumpery-what bureaus-full of fine trash-what carpet littering stacks of unmentionable mat-ters that make up the cloth inventory of household wealth The dismayed woman of the house saw her three day's prepared work-melting away before noon, as a three day's April anow disappears in a few hours ! The voracious machine began to show its teeth and to demand more food-and now it was a fair race, whether two women could prepare as much as one machine could perform !. It did our very souls good. At last, we hoped that this was working fast enough. Oh what early hours has our lamp been made to illumine! Ah, what breakfasts have we all backwheet.

4. A judiciously arranged dwelling, in neat condition, with conveniences and facilities for household duties.

and useful. We grant that not all the points are equalsential to good farming, as the manuring, the field cultivation, and the pecuniary results.-

5. Convenient buildings to facilitate the economical management of the farm ; among which may be enumerated, a wood-house, a wagon and tool house, a work shop, a convenient piggery, a corn-house, ice-house, smoke-house, &c. &c. ; all secured from de cay by being well raised from the ground and neatly painted or white-washed.

6. Convenient yards attached to the barns and stables, so arranged as to prevent the wastage of the liquid manure, well sheltered from the blasts of winter, and provided with water for the cattle.

7. Door yards well set with grass, flowers and shrubbery, and shaded by ornamental trees, indicating to the passer-by the dwell-ing of taste, health and comfort. _8. A kitchen garden highly cultivated, and containing the best vegetables for the table adapted to our climate. 9. A fruit garden and orchard, where variety of good fruits are successfully cultivated.

10. What relation does the owner of the farm bear to its present condition? Has he brought it to its present state of fertility by his skill and good management; or is the soil naturally rich and productive, yielding abundantly through its own natural fertility rather than through his skill and attention to its culture ? Remarks :- These questions are imporant. The premium, we suppose, should be given to the man who has made his farm he best, and not to him who has inherited the best farm. THE WIRE WORM .- Perhaps we might al earn useful lessons from nature if we would more carefully read her printed pages. For nstance, che who does try to read such les SODS, SAVS : "So far as my observation goes, the wire worm is most troublesome in seasons after a mild Winter, or when there has been a heavy coat of snow on the ground during Winter, thus preventing the frost penetrating the earth to any considerable depth. Conse quently the worms remain near the surface, and are not frozen to death or driven so far below the surface that they must starve before they can return. Two successive crops of buckwheat will generally rid any soil of wire worms,"

Corn should never follow buckwheat.
