A GREAT error of man is the common one erious objection to a machine. You will see that the joint is that part of work of life is done. He is so busy, now, You will see that the joint is that part of the bar which is subject to the greatest stram when striking an obstruction; that place will wear some, and by taking all the strain that to comes on the machine, the outer ends of the tar must drop back; this of course, oreates friction, and with the fact that the connecting wear some will the intervals of business.

friction, and with the fact that the connecting rod is seldom in a line, causes the machine to work hard, and the longer it is used the less Nobody has a right to give the whole day to toil; if he does it, he is false to himself and to his friends, and he thus neglects great it is liked, and finally it finds its way into and to his friends, and he thus neglects great the scrap heap. Besides this you will find a wants of his nature, and unfits himself to do his work in the best manner. The sunshine good reaper has never been made with a joint in the bar. The fact that the two wheels re- is as bright, the wind is as gay, as if pleasure in the par. The fact that the two wheels re-quire too much space to travel in, makes it impossible to lay the grain far enough off to be clear of the machine on its succeeding swath. Having three and sometimes more wheels on the ground, it is impossible to wheels on the ground, it is impossible to wheels on the ground, it is impossible to drive the real with a belt, except from the platform wheel; and the cramping of the wheels on the ground, it is impossible to drive the reel with a belt, except from the platform wheel; and the cramping of the connection and the great side draft are some of the causes why a Beaper cannot be made of the causes why a Beaper cannot be made with a joint in the bar, Hence, you will see that they recommend and warrant the ma-pleasure to exercise the snuscles after rest, where all y if one has been annued during pleasure to exercise the muscles after rest, specially if one has been amused during chine as a Mower, but say "the Reaping atrest. The Kirby, as before remarked, is entirely of iron; the peculiar independent action al lows the wheel and cutter-bar to work each on its own ground, to adjust itself pefectly to it without cramping the connection or the cutters; turn it up-side down, and the con-nection will be in line—the draft is always light and always the same whether on rough or level ground; by a lever at your side you can lift either end or both ends of the bar, and by another you can throw it in or out of getr—all the while in motion.
