The Charm of Distance.

Are not all natural things, it may be asked. as levely near as far away? Nay, not so. Look at the clouds, and, watch the delicate sculpture of their alabaster sides, and the rounded lustre of their magnificent rolling. They were meant to be beheld far ist:—I am glad to see that this matter is up for discussion in your paper. The evil is, high above your head; approach them, and they fuse into vague mists, or whirl away in lerge fragments of thunderous vapor. Look troublesome, but they take the fruit in the at the crest of the Alp, from the far-away blossom or in its green state, and so only out plains over which its light is cast, whence off your hopes. But the trespass of the fruit human souls have communion with it by thief robs you of an actual possession in its their myriads. The child looks up to it in full perfection. He carries off with him not the dawn, and the husbandman in the burden only the product of your toil, but the object and heat of the day, and the old man in the going down of the sun, and it is to them all ——lucious grapes and plungs, with the bloom as the celestial city on the world's horizon; dyed with the depth of heaven, and clothed ——product or your affections in all its blooming beauty——lucious grapes and plungs, with the bloom dust of maturity upon they melting cheeks, dyed with the depth of heaven, and clothed with the calm of eternity. There was it set, for holy dominion, by him who marked for the sun his journey, and bade the moon know her going down. It was built for its place in the far off sky; approach it, and, as the sound pear, that you have heard so much of, or new dation, and the tide of human life, shallowed upon the vast aerial shore, is at last met by the Eternal. Here shall thy waves be stayed," the plant of its arrest of the plant stayed," the glory of its aspect fades into blanched fearfulness; its purple walls are rent into grisly rocks, its silver fretwork saddened into wasting snow; the storm-brands of ages are on its breast, the ashes of its own ruin lie solemnly on its white rai-

Nor in such instances as these alone, though, strangely enough, the discrepancy between apparent and actual beauty is greater in approach nearer, that kind of beauty is lost, and another succeeds, to be disorganized and reduced to strange and incomprehensible means and appliances in its turn. If you desire to perceive the great harmonies of the form of a rocky mountain, you must not ascend upon its sides. All is there disorder and accident, or seems so; sudden starts of its shattered beds hither and thither; ugly struggles of unexpected strength from under the ground; fullen fragments, toppling one over another into more helpless fall .-Retire from it, and as your eye commands it more and more, as you see the ruined mountain world with a glance, behold! dim sympathies begin to busy themselves in the disjointed mass; line binds itself into stealthy fellowship with line; group by group, the helpless fragments gather themselves into ordered companies; new captains of hosts and masses of battalions become visible one by one, and far away answers of foot to foot, and of bone to bone, until the ppwerless chaos is seen risen up with girded loins, and not one piece of all the unregarded heap could now be spared from the mystic whole, Now it is indeed true that where nature this strange aspect, and, reasoning as to the means by which such effect could be produced, laboriously to approach the eastern the fiery spectres had been produced by been grievously amazed to find that, at two miles off neither silver nor glass were any more visible; but nature knew better, and prepared for her fairy work with the strong branches and dark leaves, in her own myste-

QUAINT DEFINITION .- A correspondent writes to an exchange as follows: I heard, the other day, a clergyman telling of his experience as a school teacher in Cincinnati, some years ago. He gave to a school of small boys, as a subject for composition the "Ohio river, and one little fellow brought in the following: "He was born at the creation .-His father is the Allegany, and his mother is the Monongahela. He is bigger than both his parents. It is not known when he' will

IN A FINE PHRENSY ROLLING -A brilliant young gentleman remarked, the other day, to a lady with whom he was bowling: "I think, Miss, that you would have made a capital baker." Indeed, sir, why ?"

"Because you make such excellent rolls." -Here is another joke in the same line: "Hollos! who's there?" exclaimed a young man as he entered the Bowling Saloon at

"Tis-I, sir, rolling rapidly," replied a lady as she sent a ball whizzing down the al-

SCIENCE VS. WOODCHUCKS.-Woodchucks are a pest to the farmer, and as one retires to his hole his case is a good one—his safety is secured, unless one goes into the laboritle about the eize of your hand, bore a hole in the edge of his shell, and tie a string in the same; then put on his back near his tail a small amount of sulphur, with a little turment in his rear, he diligently seeks the bottom. The woodchuck, horrified by the smell of the hunter. The turtle is then pulled out for another hunt. We are told the experiment never fails.

will be covered with eternal ice and snow, by a simple contrivance, and as easily removas we now see the plains of the North, where ed. The novelty has for its name the "chathe elephant formerly lived, and where there meleon shoe." is neither Spring nor Autumn. In this case, we-recommend rheumatic and gouty people to lay in a stock of flannels, and see to their drawers. Six thousand years will pass away very soon, and there is no telling how ex-pensive flannel and "sich" will be at the time mentioned.

You threaten trashing, shooting with winte beans, or coarse proportion to the unapproachableness of the object, is the law observed. For every distance from the eye there is a peculiar kind of beauty and actual occurs of the salt, riding on a rail, and seriously contemplates the law observed. For every distance from the eye there is a peculiar kind of beauty contemplates and other horrors. No of beauty, or a different system of lines of thing is too bad for the unknown enewy while form; the sight of that beauty is reserved he remains unknown. But when suspicion, for that distance, and for that alone. If you amounting to positive knowledge, fastens the crime on your neighbor, who is landless, or your neighbor's boy, little Ben, whose father never planted a fruit tree in his life, you be in to relent.

I have no doubt that several remedies are gin to relent. sometimes useful and necessary, especially in chies, and their suburble, where every fruit yard is not only exposed to the vicious in its own neighborhood, but to the vicious among large foreign population. But the fruit grower in the country, and rural vil-lages, where he can exert a social influence over the families infected with this disease, has a much better and cheaper remedy. I have studied the matter professionally for some years, and have come to the conclusion that fruit thieves are moral beings like the rest of mankind, and that this infirmity is a malady that admits of moral treatment. The plan that I have pursued for years is substantially the following, and I am happy to say, it is attended with the best results. Little Ben and his little friends, having no fruit of their own look upon every fruit grow-er as a stingy old curmudgeon who has trea-passed on human rights in having strawberries and pears for family use. Of course loses one kind of beauty as you approach it, with this view, "Old Crusty's" garden is a she substitutes another; this is worthy of legitimate object of plunder, and the higher her infinite power; and, as we shall see, art he raises his walls, and the more he tops can sometimes follow her even in doing this; them with broken glass and other horrors, but all I insist upon at present is, that the the more fun there is in scaling them and several effects of nature are each worked with feeding the watch-dog with strychnine well means referred to a particular distance, and coated with beefsteak. Little Ben may be a producing their effect at that distance only. scamp or a scoundrel, or something worse Take a singular and marked instance; when but he has a heart and a sort of honor upon the sun rises behind a ridge of pines, and which he prides himself. He is very true to those pines are seen from a distance of a his friends, and a box of strawberries sent to his mother, costing you not over five cents, form of the tree, trunk, branches, and all, becomes one frostwork of intensely brilliant cheapest and most impenetrable fence you silver, which is relieved against the clear sky can put around your garden is one built of like a burning fringe, for some distance on fruits judiciously distributed in your own either side of the sun. Now suppose that a neighborhood. To this add the distribution person who had never seen pines were, for of plants and seeds such as every fruit grow-

A wise man who will pursue this course wil soon get all of his neighbors interested in fruit growing, and will create a public sentiridge, how would be be amazed to find that meut that will guard his premises better than high fences, man traps, and poison. If you trees with swarthy and gray trunks, and suspect a boy of plundering your watermeldark green leaves! We, in our simplicity, on patch, send his father one of your best melons next day for dimer; you need not appearance, should have built up trees of scold nor say a word. This as least is the experience up here in GATHEBING AND KEEPING THE FRUIT .- In order to secure soundness and preservation. it is indispensably necessary that the fruit should be gathered by hand. For winter fruit the gathering is delayed as long as possible, avoiding severe frosts, and the most successful practice with our extensive orchard ists is to place the good fruit directly, in a careful manner, in new, tight flour barrels as soon as gathered from the tree. These barrels should be gently shaken while filling, the head closely pressed in; they are then placed in a cool shady exposure under the

They will furnish, at any time, a good Carment, at or until the cold becomes too severe, when they are carefully transferred to a cool, dry cellar, in which air can be admitted occasionally in brisk weather. A cellar, for this purpose, should be dug n dry, gravelly, or sandy soil, with, if possible, a slope to the north, or, at any rate, with openings on the north side for the ad-admission of air very frequently in weather not too cold. Here the barrels should be placed on tiers on their sides, and the cellar, should be kept as dark as possible. In such a cellar, one of the largest apple growers in Dutchess county is able 30 keep the Greening apple, which, in the fruit room, usually decays in January, until the first of April, in ous effort of digging him out.
