

Drowning of O'Conner the Jumper—His Life. We had barely time last evening to give the substance of the telegraphic despatch from Niagara Falls, announcing the death by drowning of O'Conner the jumper, who had advertised to make a leap of ninety feet into the river on the 18th inst. We have since received further particulars of the unfortunate affair, together with something of the history of the man, whose true name is Patrick S. O'Conner.

Age of Punck Max.—President Buchanan will be 63 years old on the 13th of November next. Vice-President Breckinridge will be 52 years of age on the 16th of January next; Lewis Cass is nearly 77 years of age; Stephen A. Douglas was 47 years of age on the 23d of April last; Simon Cameron is in his 60th year; Jefferson Davis is 54 years old; Caleb Cushing is in his 60th year; Howell Cobb will be 44 years old on the 7th of September next; William Seward is in his 53th year; Franklin Pierce is 54 years old; Robert Fitzgibbon is nearly 60 years of age; John Charles Fremont was 46 years old on the 7th of January last; John Bell is 62 years of age; John J. Crittenden will be 73 years old in September next; Alexander H. Stephens was 47 years old in February last; James L. Orr was 57 years old on the 12th of May last; Jesse D. Bright will be 47 years of age on the 11th of September next; Augustus C. Dodge is 49 years old; Isaac Toney is 61 years old; Henry A. Wise is in his 53rd year; Robert M. T. Hunter nearly 50 years of age; Robert Toombs was 49 years old on the 24th of July last; Edward Everett was 64 years old on the 24th of July last; John M. Read is over 50 years of age; Daniel S. Dickinson will be 59 years of age on the 11th of September next; Horatio Seymour is about 50 years of age; John E. Wool is about 65 years of age; John S. Phelps is in his 60th year; Nathaniel P. Banks was 43 years old last January.

Great Triumph of The Ready Pay System! IT IS CERTAIN THAT GOODS CAN BE SOLD SUCCESSFULLY IN MONTROSE, AND AT SUSQUEHANNA DEPOT, For Cash! Gutterberg, Rosenbaum & Co.

HOTSETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of a judicious regimen, they are probably more regulated than the system as a whole. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life.

THE MONTROSE HARDWARE AND CUTLERY. Complete Satisfaction. New and Convenient. UNIONDALE MILL! Flour, Meal and Feed. General Finding Store FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC GOODS.

KEYSTONE HOTEL. Wm. K. HATCH, Proprietor. Complete Satisfaction. New and Convenient. UNIONDALE MILL! Flour, Meal and Feed. General Finding Store FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC GOODS.

1856. J. DICKEYMAN, Jr. 1856. HARDWARE AND STOVE EMPORIUM IN FULL BLAST! Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots & Shoes. HATS and Caps. Yankee Notions, &c.

He took the name of Shields for this occasion, as his relatives were respectable and he did not wish to create any notoriety, and then he could just off the name at pleasure and be known no more to the world as a jumper. One day last week O'Conner jumped from Clarissa street bridge into the river, and the water being very shallow, he injured one of his feet by the experiment. The descent there was about thirty feet, we suppose.

Some months since the New York Evening Post contained a romantic story, of which the proprietor of the Broad Street street tragedy, was the heroine, and was represented as still engaged in the most respectable adventures. Mrs. Cunningham now seems to have adopted a new mode of retaliation on the Post, by fixing herself as the next door neighbor of Mr. Bryant, the proprietor and editor. The town residence of Mr. Bryant is East Sixteenth street, near Second avenue; the house adjoining towards Third street, Mrs. Cunningham has taken up her abode. The four story brown stone front, with massive steps and impressive bow windows is Mr. Bryant's house, exteriorly; and the interior arrangements—it having been built by his own order—are no doubt in harmony with his cultivated and exquisite tastes. A plain two-story brick house that is occupied by Mrs. Cunningham. Proximity to such a neighbor was not altogether relished by Mr. Bryant, as soon as the fact became known to him. He used, every decent means in his power to procure her ejection by the landlord, but without success, as Mrs. Cunningham pays her rent regularly.

Some months since the New York Evening Post contained a romantic story, of which the proprietor of the Broad Street street tragedy, was the heroine, and was represented as still engaged in the most respectable adventures. Mrs. Cunningham now seems to have adopted a new mode of retaliation on the Post, by fixing herself as the next door neighbor of Mr. Bryant, the proprietor and editor. The town residence of Mr. Bryant is East Sixteenth street, near Second avenue; the house adjoining towards Third street, Mrs. Cunningham has taken up her abode. The four story brown stone front, with massive steps and impressive bow windows is Mr. Bryant's house, exteriorly; and the interior arrangements—it having been built by his own order—are no doubt in harmony with his cultivated and exquisite tastes. A plain two-story brick house that is occupied by Mrs. Cunningham. Proximity to such a neighbor was not altogether relished by Mr. Bryant, as soon as the fact became known to him. He used, every decent means in his power to procure her ejection by the landlord, but without success, as Mrs. Cunningham pays her rent regularly.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of a judicious regimen, they are probably more regulated than the system as a whole. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of a judicious regimen, they are probably more regulated than the system as a whole. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of a judicious regimen, they are probably more regulated than the system as a whole. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of a judicious regimen, they are probably more regulated than the system as a whole. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life.