What Our Farms Puld,—Statistics just issued by the Department of Agriculture, show that while the farms of the loyal States, in 1863 produced crops worth $935,764,322, those of 1864 yielded no leas than $1,504,543,690. This is certainly a satisfactory increase, and aftemarkable one, considering the circumstances.

The Long Day.—Mr. Editor.—We have seen in the Republican lately, when the New Year comes in on Sunday, and also when the dark day occurred. We wish now to know when the long day occurred. History somewhere speaks of a day much longer than usual. Now what we wish to know is, when this long day was, and why it was, and what made it. Auburn, Pa., March, 1865.

Rules to be Observed.—In order to secure a good and interesting newspaper at home, an obligation rests upon its patrons to a certain extent as well as upon those immediately concerned in its judication. An exchange lays down these obligations in the following teree maxims, which may be said to cover the whole ground:

1st. Subscribe and pay for it.
2d. Get your neighbors to take it.
3d. Send printing and advertising to the office.
4th Help make the paper interesting by sending local items to the editor.

BUNNEL—Died, Feb 4th, 1865, in Fort Schuyler, of wounds received in taking Fort Fisher, James M. Bunnel, seed 35 years, of Company E, 203, P. V. James M. Bunnel was a resident of Rush, Susquebanna Co., Pa., and in September last volunteered to defend file country scalarst treason and rebellion; and bade addeu to an affectionate wife, an only son, and many warm friends in the hope of returning to greet them again, but alas! he has fallen! and his once happy home is made desolate.

In all the relations of life he was a true man. As a soldier he was not only brave but possessed that moral integrity that gives real value to character. His Bible was his connector and companion in the camp, and his frequent letters to his family gave evidence that he had committed all his interests into the hands of his Maker, and the bereaved once rest in the hope that they shall meet him again on the other shore.

other shore. Weep not for thy husband, he will be here no more; He is happier far on that beautiful shore; There he's tuning his harp with the seraphs on high, And singing sweet songs in his home in the sky. Mourn not for thy husband, he has gone to his home, All his sufferings are over, and silent his groan; His glorified spirit looks down from the skies, And whispers "To bright worlds let your own thoughts arise."

Weep not for thy husband; a bright angel he's now,
A ministering spirit to the dear ones below;
Descending to guard thy rest, now at even,
And bring thee sweet dreams of love, hope and heaven.
