Our readers will have noticed in our columns the advertisement of Dr. Weeks, "Teeth extracted without Pain." He does this by producing upon the patient a brief and pleasant sleep by means of "nitrons oxide" or laughing cas. This agent for producing momentary insensibility to pain is held to be entirely safe and agreeable. We see no reason for doubting that it is so. We have witnessed a case in which it was applied by Dr. Weeks. It was in every respect entirely successful. It does seem that science has accomplished another and complete triumph, and "pulling teeth" need be no longer dreaded.—Carbondale Advance.

CARD—In Philadelphia, June 28th, James C. Card, M. D., in the twenty-ninth year of his age.

Dr. Card graduated at the Eclectic Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1861. He immediately commenced the practice of medicine, and continued the same with good success till last March, when he was appointed by Gov Curlin. Assistant Surgeon of the 100th Reg t, Pa Vols. Whilst lathfully discharging the duties of his office in the army some four weeks are, he had a severe attack of congestion in his stomach and bowels. This nearly prostrated him. Having obtained a discharge, he at once made the attempt to repair to his home in Gibson, but he could only reach Philadelphia, where in six days he expired. We all mourn and regret much our loss; but to his bereaved companion, and other near relatives, the stroke is nearly overwhelming. Let them lean upon the only arm that can sustain, in the hour of trial. Much might be said in commendation of this amiable young man and Physician. His intellect was strong and clear, his morals pure, and hiddlity in every relation such as to scenre the respect of all who knew him, and to give presage of a long, useful, and happy career. Surely, life and its flory are but momentary, and soon fade like the lower of the field.
