Keeping Apples.

The Apple is the most valuable of all the fruits of the earth, in consequence of its luciousness, its preservability, the variety of uses to which it can be applied, and its productiveness Mr. E. Lake, of Topsfield, Massachussetts, in 1861, obtained, from one acre of ground, two hundred barrels of Baldwin Russet apples, besides a ton and a half of squashes, and a hundred cabbages; one weighing twenty-seven pounds. It has been stated that a single tree has yielded in one season forty bushels of apples. A hundred and fifty good-sized apples makes a bushel. Two baked apples are an abundant dessert for dinner, two each for breakfast and supper, with a single cup of tea or coffee, and as much bread and butter as is wanted, is as much as children and sedentary persons ought to have. Apples come in August and keep good until May, nine months, two hundred and seventy days, fifteen hundred apples, or ten bushels, or four barrels; easily had in the country for one dollar each. Thus four dollars' worth of apples will furnish one person, three parts of the year, with a "relish" for breakfast and supper, and a "dessert" for dinner, of which he will no more "get tired" than of bread, and it will be cheaper and incomparably more healthful than pies, preserves, sweetmeats, doughnuts, cookies, dumplings, puddings, and the other list of stomach-destroying and dyspepsia-engendering articles.

PRESERVING APPLES.—Pick out the perfect ones, pack them away, surrounding each apple with dry, good plaster of Paris. Thus: begin with an inch of plaster, then a layer of apples an inch from the side, and half an inch apart; sift in the plaster until covered nearly an inch, and so on until the receptacle is full. This fertilizing plaster costs from three to ten dollars a ton, and is as good in the spring for such purposes as if it had not been used. Pippins will keep until June in any cool, dry room in the house.

Apples, spread on a board floor, and covered with five or six layers of newspapers, or a sheet, or clean straw, will keep until spring, and even on a common dry cellar floor. Apples will keep many months if, free from speck or bruise, they are wrapped each in soft paper and laid on a shelf, cool and dry. In cities and towns, apples as commonly bought in barrels, will keep pretty well until spring in a dry cellar; but they should be carefully picked over, and the unspecked ones laid down softly every two weeks. Even laid on shelves, two layers deep, and covered with newspapers or straw, picking out the specked ones for use every few days, very few will be lost. Very good apples can be bought in New York, during the latter part of October, for one dollar and a half a barrel; and if cared for and used as above, and in addition given out to school children for luncheon, instead of nuts, sweet-cakes, candy, cross buns, doughnuts, and the like, sickness would be prevented, and money saved to an amount which would surprise any one who never "tried it." Those who live in the country will save themselves a great deal of trouble, and admirably succeed in keeping apples in perfect order until June, if they would take the precaution to pick each apple from the tree and lay it in a basket; then lay them on the floor of a cool, dry room for a few days to dry, and then pack them away in some one of the plans above suggested. It ought to be known that a baked sweet apple is the most digestible food that can be swallowed: they are digested in about an hour and a half, bread requiring two hours longer. Let invalids remember this.—Hall's Journal of Health.

What is Citron?

By citron we do not mean that variery of watermelon which in itself is a hard, green tasteless thing, but which by the addition of sufficient sugar and flavoring is sometimes made to serve as a sweetmeat, but that dark, fragrapt, candied citron, which is seen in the stores, and which the housekeepers use when they wish to accomplish anything unusual in the way of cakes. The citron of the shops is the candied rind of a fruit closely related to the orange and lemon—the Citrus medica. The tree, which is of medium size, is a native of Asia, and is now cultivated in the warm climates generally. The fruit is in general shape like the lemon, but very rough and knobby on the surface. It is quite large, and is said sometimes to attain to the weight of twenty pounds.

The rind is remarkably thick, and out of all proportion to the size of the pulp. The pulp is very acid, like that of the lemon, and the outer portion of the rind contains numerous little receptacles filled with an aromatic oil which communicates its flavor to the preserve, and is also extracted for use in perfumery. The rind is preserved in syrup, dried and packed in boxes for exportation. It is said that the rind is sometimes imported, pickled in salt, and candied after it reaches here. The citron is mentioned by Pliny and other ancient writers, and it is supposed to be the fruit called apple in our translation of the Scriptures.—American Agriculturist.

HOW RATS MAY BE EXPELLED.—A gentleman, whose house was literally over-run with vermin, adopted a novel but strictly philosophical method to dislodge them. Opening the floor at several places in the upper stories of his house, he placed there vessels containing a mixture of sulphuric acid, black oxyd of manganese, and common salt, and closed down the boards. The result was a slow chemical decomposition and recombining of elements, in the progress of which the heavy, stifling gas, chlorine, was disengaged. This made its way along the open spaces and down to the cellar. A few breaths of the poisonous atmosphere served to convince the rats that danger was at hand. Seizing what of their plunder they could, they hastened to abandon the premises, weeping as they went, from having inhaled the noxious chlorine. Many months passed before one of their number ventured to return. An army of ants, moths, bugs, roaches, and other pestilent insects, perished from the fames.

HARD CEMENT.—The following cement has been used with great success in covering terraces, lining basins, soldering stones, &c., and everywhere resists the filtration of water. It is so hard that it scratches iron:

Take ninety-three parts of well-burned brick, and seven parts of litharge, made plastic with linseed oil. The brick and litharge are pulverized; the latter must always be reduced to a very fine powder; they are mixed together, and enough of linseed oil added to make it pliable. It is then applied in the manner of a plaster, the body that is to be covered being always previously wet with a sponge. This precaution is indespensable, otherwise the oil would filter through the body, and prevent the mastic from acquiring the desired decree of hardness. When it is extended over a large surface, it sometimes happens to have flaws in it, which must be filled up with a fresh quantity of the cement. In three or four days it becomes firm.—Scientific American.

FOOD FOR FATTENING POULTRY.—The cheapest and most advantageous food to use for fattening every description of poultry is ground oats. These must not be confounded with oatmeal, or with ordinary ground oats: the whole of the grain is ground to a fine powder; nothing of any kind is taken from it. When it is properly ground, one bushel of the meal will more effectually fatten poultry than a bushel and a half of any other meal. The greatest point in fattening poultry is to feed them at daybreak.

OILING FARM TOOLS.—Every farmer should have a can of linseed oil and a brush on hand, and whenever he buys a new tool he should soak it well with the oil, and dry it by the fire or in the sun before using. The wood by this treatment is toughened and strengthened, and rendered impervious to water. Wet a new hay-rake and dry it, and it will begin to loose in the joints; but if well oiled, the wet will have but slight effect. Shovels and forks are preserved from checking and cracking in the top of the handle by oiling, and the wood becomes as smooth as glass by use, and is far less liable to blister the hand when long used. Axe and hammer often break off where the wood enters the iron; this part particularly should be toughened with oil, to secure durability. Oiling the wood in the eye of the axe will prevent its swelling and shrinking, and sometimes getting loose.

TO PREVENT HENS EATING EGGS.—Hens may be cured of eating eggs by blowing out the contents of an egg, and filling it with mustard made into paste. Make a hole in each end and then blow the contents out, and when filled paste paper over the hole. One taste of the mustard effects a cure.

NEW MILFORD, June 12, 1865.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

A valuable lumber and wood lot in Lathrop township, Susq'a county, Pa., containing about 800 acres, with a good dwelling house and barn thereon, and about 100 acres in grass. On this property is a good sawmill and lath-mill, capable of cutting 500,000 feet of lumber per year. The sawmill is within two miles of Nicholson Station, on the D. L. & W. Railroad. A good road runs through the whole property. There is wood and lumber enough on it to pay for it twice over. A rare chance—will be sold low, with easy terms.

ALSO, the farm known as the "Squire Roberts Farm," in Nicholson, Wyoming county, Pa., containing about 200 acres, 1½ miles from Nicholson station, lying on the Tunkhannock Creek; about 80 acres of flat land; the balance up land—a very desirable property.

ALSO, a valuable Mill property, one mile from Montrose, at the outlet of Jones's Lake, consisting of a gristmill and sawmill, and about 20 acres of land, with the water power. The gristmill is now doing a good custom business, and is well adapted for merchant work.

ALSO, a valuable farm one mile from Montrose, containing about 200 acres. Fifty acres of choice wood land; the balance improved. This farm is well fenced with good stone wall, well watered, and in a high state of cultivation; is capable of keeping from forty to fifty cows—a very desirable property.

ALSO, a house and lot in the Borough of Montrose, fronting on the Public Square. The lot contains about 2¾ acres of land, with a barn and choice fruit and shade trees.

The attention of those wishing to purchase real estate is called to these properties, as they are all good and desirable investments at the prices asked for them. Liberal terms will be given. For terms, prices, and other information, call on, or address DANIEL SEARLE, Pittston, Luzerne Co., Pa., or R. S. SEARLE, Montrose, Susquehanna Co., Pa., Jan. 30th, 1865.—tf

Parties that have used other so called Standard Machines have thrown them aside and give their testimony in favor of these.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED TO GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION.

For several reasons it recommends itself above all others.

1. Beauty and excellence of stitch, alike upon both sides, working equally well on silk, linen, woolen, and cotton goods—seaming, quilting, gathering, hemming, felling, cording, and braiding.

2. Strength of seams that will not rip nor ravel.

3. The most simple in construction of any two threaded machine in use; therefore less liable to get out of repair.

4. Sews without the use of a shuttle, thereby doing away with much cumbersome machinery, and the trouble of regulating the tension of the under thread.

5. Runs at a greater speed than a shuttle machine possibly can.

Agricultural Implements.

THE undersigned desires to call the attention of the public to the article of THRESHING MACHINES manufactured by the long established and well known firm of Wheeler, Melick & Co., at Albany.

These Machines are so favorably known and universally approved that any effort at recommendation I consider unnecessary. Suffice it to say, that experience in manufacturing, and long use, have brought out improvements which make them the

CHAMPIONS OF THE WORLD.

I would call especial attention to their

a new thing, and attached to single, double, treble, or any other horse power, and to either under shot or overshot threshers. The fan can be used as an ordinary hand mill, and less superior, as such, to an fanning mill made. It takes no more power to drive the whole tachment, than it does to drive an ordinary separater or shaker.—Different sizes of cleaning attachment, same patent, are made.

Horse Powers, single and double, Wheeler's patent, with recent improvements. Lawrence & Gould's patent, one, two, and three horse powers. Saw mills for sawing wood, feed cutters, clover hullers, horse rakes, &c. An unrestricted warranty given by the public the strongest guaranty that the above machinery is unequaled in its work, durability, convenience and despatch.

For further particulars, send to the subscriber for circular, or examine machinery. Orders solicited and filled with promptness and fidelity. Also Agent for light draft, manufactured by S. H. SAYRE & BROTHERS, Montrose, Pa.—the best mower for this country. Machines warranted to give entire satisfaction. Instructions for using, and Machines delivered, free of charge for freight or transportation.

All persons wishing to procure the best and cheapest Mowing Machine are advised to witness the work of the Hubbard's Light Draft Mower, before committing themselves to any other Mower now in use. Orders solicited and promptly attended to.
