

MONROE, PA
Thursday, January 25, 1849

Our readers will need no further recommendation for the excellent style of our first page than the name of its author, Mrs. Curtis.

The Inauguration.

The ceremony of inaugurating the new Whig Governor is gracefully executed by the people of this city. The streets are crowded with spectators. The Whig party are in the majority, and the Whig spirit is manifest in every countenance. The Whig party are in the majority, and the Whig spirit is manifest in every countenance. for and dummy to the hearts of the fanatical disunionists. The correspondent quoted above, lets us see upon such a delectable scene. There is but one dark cloud lowering in the distance, and let us hope that even that may prove harmless.

An Apprentice Wanted.

A smart, active, intelligent and well-dressed lad, from 16 to 19 years of age, is wanted as an apprentice to the Printing business, at this office, immediately. One who will answer the above description, and who is disposed to make himself useful, can receive good encouragement in application by mail only.

The Southern Convention.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Evening Post writes as follows:— Nothing can exceed the eagerness which the members of the Southern Convention, that opposed the South in a crusade against the Whig party, have manifested since the commencement of the diffusion of slavery, has occasioned among the Whig and some persons of no little influence among the Democrats, are fatal to the demonstration. Through some error a paper may be drawn upon and published under Mr. Calhoun's name, and it is believed that the South will be the more determined to meet and defend and give at the defense of Southern Honor, who has been placed in a position to deal him the deadly blow by that very act of his own which was to place him and his special appointment on the pinnacle of exultation and power.

New Road Law.

We have been requested to make the following extracts from the Pamphlet Laws of the State, in relation to road laws. Improvements were extended to the township of Ruff, Bedford, Howard and Clifford at the close of the last session, and the Whig party are in the majority, and the Whig spirit is manifest in every countenance.

Gov. Johnston and the Bills of Last Session.

We learn that Gov. Johnston has neither approved nor vetoed the bills which were retained by Gov. Shunk at the close of the last session, and which passed into the law. The Whig party are in the majority, and the Whig spirit is manifest in every countenance.

The Governor's Inaugural.

FRIENDS AND FOLLOWERS:—The kind and cordial welcome of the people have been the most gratifying of the Executive functions of the government, and the prescribed duty to support the Constitution having been administered, I should be fain to take the sacred trust reposed in me, and unworthy the confidence manifested, did I not deeply feel the responsibility of my position, and firmly resolve to merit your confidence and support.
