THE DEMOCRAT.

Thursday, November 22, 1849.

Most Failures.—Walker Joy's Bank at Buffalo, New York, has failed, and the Pawtuxet Bank, Providence, is reported to have stopped payment. The notes of the former institution are worth 75 cents on the dollar.—Bicknell's Rep., Nov. 20

The Bank and Its Organ.

Who ever wants to see the greatest compound of assurance, impudence, perverson, ness, ignorance, stupidity, calumny and falsehood ever exhibited in the columns of one sheet, calling itself decent or respectable, will have only to turn to the last issue of the federal organ of the county to have his curiosity gratified. The Bank, or rather its former Cashier, and our humble self, seem to cause its "good natured" editor more trouble and perplexity than all the world besides, and from the furor and desperation he manifests in warning against the twain, reminds us forcibly of the fate of the wing party who accidently fell with his mercur[illegible] people [illegible] and down [illegible] which have [illegible] Democrats [illegible] boldly [illegible] ment, but [illegible] Bank [illegible] and [illegible] Court, Bank, [illegible] as to come to the [illegible] the [illegible] and also [illegible] and [illegible] pose.

But that has ceased to [illegible] poses exactly as [illegible] cause? Why, simply that we held the [illegible] we know [illegible] and Democrats [illegible] who now [illegible] before the [illegible] And what [illegible] have nothing [illegible] mass — [illegible] gun under [illegible] Democrats [illegible] and [illegible] pose.
