SEVEN DAYS

LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the America.

Resignation of the French Ministry—Virtual Dictatorship of Louis Napoleon—More barricades by the Austrian Headsmen—Assassinations of the French and ex at Rome

The Steamship America arrived at Halifax on the 12th with one week's later intelligence.

The America brought 80 passengers.

The Flour and Grain market is dull, with no material change in prices. The demand for Cotton has fallen off, and the prices receded ½ per lb. No new feature in the money market.

FRANCE.—The French Ministry resigned in a body on the 30th ult. One account says they were dismissed, and the President has sent a message to the Assembly, the reading of which created a great excitement among the members, and the enthusiasm Paris generally. It seems that the clash between the ministry, with the exception of M. Odilon Barrot, who was ill, assembled on the morning of the 30th, to advise the President respecting the appointment of a successor to M. Fallaux, the late prime minister. At this meeting Louis Napoleon emphatically declared that the Cabinet wanted dignity—an important matter, rather annoying to raise the number of conservative personages than those who form the Executive Republican Party. However, salt was, the result was too important to be given.

The President added, that he had been [illegible] five ministers might not [illegible] Club of the Country [illegible] himself would not [illegible] the Government, and a vote of confidence in favor of the Ministry. This was enough, and an explosion followed.

In the evening, M. Dupont read to the Assembly a message from the President, which is too long for transmission by Telegraph, but which was received with [illegible] passing. Further excitement [illegible] energy passed, and the [illegible] the compromise was [illegible] shadowed.

The London Times [illegible] and declares signature [illegible] message, which [illegible] French Republic [illegible] administration, and [illegible] who's [illegible] suppose that Louis Napoleon [illegible] to usurp [illegible] the supreme direction [illegible] Republic.

Measures are [illegible] compelled the necessity [illegible] of a firm character, and of a clearly defined policy, which does not compromise power by any vacillation. Napoleon and who are so much ill that a change may not any pendency, is evident as France [illegible] of the most [illegible] work.

In addition [illegible] says, and [illegible] received [illegible] Cabinet there is not [illegible] smallest parliamentary [illegible] to any decree of public [illegible] by pressure.

The most wind [illegible] Assembly would [illegible] this.

Amongst the [illegible] ces of this [illegible] the stimulus [illegible] each of the party [illegible] which are mounting [illegible] government.

All parties perceive, that [illegible] the choice personal responsibility [illegible] administration at [illegible] Louis Napoleon has placed himself [illegible] success, crowned by absolute [illegible] certain destruction.

M. M. Thiers, Molé, and [illegible] Cousin, support the new ministry. We have too much confidence in [illegible] to [illegible].

The proposition [illegible] for amnesty for the members of June, came before the Assembly on the 26th ult. It was, after much discussion, rejected by a majority of 109 to 283. Their trial is still progressing at Versailles, but presents no incident of interest.

The Parisian journals publish the following important telegraphic despatch from Gen. Lamoricière to the Minister of Foreign Affairs:—

"ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18, 1849.

"Count Nesselrode noticed, yesterday, to the Ottoman Envoy, that the Emperor, taking into consideration the letter of the Sultan, confined himself to a demand that the refugees should be expelled from Turkey. Fuad Effendi regards the affair as settled."

General Lamoricière is to [illegible] called from Russia, and given an important [illegible].

The ouvriers of Toulouse have opened a subscription to purchase a sword of honor for the Count De Chambord Heir.

The National states that the French Government has prohibited the entry into France of the Piedmontese journals La Jornal, Delpopoli, published by Mascci, and has also interdicted the passage through its territories of the copies addressed to England and America.

AUSTRIA AND HUNGARY.—The floods, nick-named rulers, in Austria, not satisfied with the blood they have shed, still continued their barbarities. Several additional murders have been added to the already fearful list. Their victims, who have been strangled in Death or shot, are all men of mark; and when it is stated that the wretch Haynau has been appointed Civil and Military Governor of Hungary, crimes at which humanity shudders, at once arise before the mind, at the mention of his name. If this wholesale system is continued in, another crisis in that country is believed inevitable.

The Hungarian officials are, sending in their resignations in masses.

A circular of Kossuth's is circulating in Pesth, in which the patriot assures his countrymen that he has removed the crown of St. Stephen, solely for rendering the coronation of a Hapsburger impossible.

The various nationalities of Hungary have recommenced their old struggle for ascendancy, particularly the Slowaps Rathemes.

The government intends to renew the fortifications of Buda. The contracts for masonry are stated to amount to 264,000 florins.

An ordinance of the Emperor has been published, which has for its object to apply to Hungary the principle equality to the eye of the "law," of all citizens, in all matters of duty and imposts. The Austrian Government have issued circulars to all the Kossa publishers, prohibiting the publication of any book without having first submitted the means to the [illegible] supervision of a military government.

TURKEY.—The only allusion in the papers at hand to the difficulty between Turkey and Russia is given in a single paragraph under the head of France. Measures have been taken by the Porte for the location of the Polish and Hungarian refugees. The former had been conveyed to Thessalonia, while the latter were lodged in fixed quarters at Silistegra and Rudschick. Kossuth and other Chiefs were to remain for a while at Widdin until measures are taken for their removal and ultimate liberation. No less than 300 of the Hungarian refugees had become converts to Islamism, a number of which [illegible] are about to follow their example.
