WOOD-NOTES WILD.—NO. 1

The Indian Chief's Last Home.

Wyoming's fertile, deep and wild,
Had been the home of "Nature's child"
For ages, ere the white man came
His rights to take, the sod to claim!
Since then the axe with fatal sound
Has felled trees for its thousand mound,
And fields and [illegible]
Where their red [illegible]
'Twas summer's sun with glorious beam
His daily course had nearly run,
And as he sank, his parting ray
Sparkled on Singpink meadow bay,
Out from the wood the Chief came bound
The white man's cold and dreary ground,
A lonely Indian [illegible]
While from [illegible]
[illegible]
Through [illegible]
He [illegible]

As next [illegible]
[illegible]
For here to [illegible]
Around the [illegible]
Full many a warrior's [illegible]
And there upon the [illegible]
Where flocks of Indian ship are seen,
I had my daughter [illegible]
That her light to the [illegible]
That the hand with the [illegible]
Around the place my child was laid!
In not there now!—and the vows that grow
Over her grave I no more saw.
The Pale-Face's [illegible]

Where [illegible]
Sported here with the forest [illegible]
The days gone by come to his mind—
But soon the hopes repose to find
Within that far off spirit land
Where every thing [illegible]
Tears of the old chief's cheeks bedew
As closer he his robe drew,
And ere the night-dance's [illegible]
He started for the [illegible]

HERRICK, Bird, &c.

Short Sermon for Married Men.

It is said that when the mother of Washington was asked how she had formed the character of her son, she replied that she had endeavored early to teach him two things; obedience, diligence and truth — No better advice can be given by any parent.

Teach your children to obey. Let it be the first lesson. You can hardly begin too soon.

It requires constant care to keep up the habit of obedience, and especially to do it in such a way as not to break down the strength of a child's character

Teach your child to be diligent. The habit of being always employed is a safeguard through life, as well as essential to the culture of alm st every virtue —Nothing can be more foolish than an idea which parents have that it is not respectable to set their children to work. Play is a good thing, innocent reaction is an employment, and a child may learn to be diligent in that as in other things. But let them learn early to be useful.

As to the truth, it is the one essential thing. Let every thing else be sacrificed rather than that. Without it what dependence can you place in your child. And be sure to do nothing yourself which may countenance any prevarication or falsehood, or falsehood, Yet how many parents do teach their children the first lesson of deception.

☞ A large majority of the members of the lower branch of our state Legislature are young men, under and about thirty years of age. Mr. Mc Calmont, the Speaker is about 32 years old, and graduated at the west point Academy. He served in the Florida war.

The receipts of the Erie Railroad for the year ending Dec. 31, reach $805,657 47. Thus far in January this Road has been earning $400 per day.

Education is a better safeguard of liberty than a standing army. If we retrench the wages of the schoolmaster, we must raise those of of the recruiting sergeant.

THE INFORMER.

A very original [illegible], said Dr. Ingledew, laying down the paper as he spoke.

"What's that?" asked Mrs. Ingledew.

"Why, to tell you the truth, Mrs. Sarah O'Blare, who, Dr. Dillon, the detective, is proved a perjurer, by the most positive testimony of Mr. D'Alton. All circumstances come out, and it appears that D'Alton, the Fire Eater, as they so justly and unanimously call him, has been playing him into the hands of Captain Purcell, and so exposed his treasonable practices, and bringing him into open disgrace. Mr. D'Alton's testimony, as I understand, is quite unanswerable. It appears that Dillon, would-be patriot, would-be king-maker of Dillonia—would-be, not much the wiser I dare say, for being exposed by Paddy Blake, still thinks things had gone in accordance with his wishes, called in the grave result."

"I cannot help thinking [illegible]

"Dillon, [illegible] O'Blare, [illegible] days of Hercules and Theseus. But [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] Dillon [illegible] unanimously depended upon the [illegible] and [illegible] the informer, and without this speedy appearance, the prisoner would doubtless, be entitled to an acquittal. At last the crown officer finished his address to the jury, and again peer'd anxiously about the court. This time his face lighted with satisfaction.

"Pachie Rooney."

"Pachie," replied a faint, smothered voice upon the opposite side of the room.

"Come, there, in the Court!" shouted the officer, angrily.

[illegible] more in Mary Donovan's favor.

"Pachie Rooney!" [illegible] "Pachie Rooney!" [illegible] they shall never [illegible]

The informer left the inside yet the [illegible] Mary Donovan, bounced into the [illegible] and he [illegible] with terror, but [illegible] the prosecuting Attorney soon restored him to self possession as he [illegible]
