THE FARMER'S COLUMN.

Notes for the Month.

SUCKERING CORN.—The last Rural New Yorker says: "We find some persons still adhering to the exploded doctrine of the necessity of pulling off the suckers from Indian corn." I would as soon assume the promulgation of pursuing an exploded practice, who takes from a tree a part of its redundant fruit, that the remainder may ripen to ... [illegible] ... the suckers will ... [illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible]