Shocking Murders in Williamsburgh.

A shocking occurrence took place at Williamsburgh on Saturday morning. A man named Lawrence Reilly, in a fit of jealousy, murdered his wife, Ann Reilly, his mother-in-law named Mary Golding, and dangerously wounded a young woman named Elizabeth Conroy. The parties resided at No. 110 North-Fourth-st., between Fourth and Fifth. It appears that Reilly was married about six years ago, but had lived unhappily with his wife—so much so that her father took her away a few days since.

This morning, about 7 o'clock, Reilly went to the house of his father-in-law, Mr. Golding, where the desperate acts were committed. Mrs. Golding, was aged about 50 years, Mrs Reilly about 20, and the girl Conroy about 19. Reilly is a young man of 24 or 25 years. The wife and mother died instantly, and the girl is lying at the point of death. The stabs were inflicted in the region of the heart. Reilly was arrested immediately, and made no resistance, saying he was ready to die. The testimony of Elizabeth Conroy was taken by Justice Boswell.

An extra from the office of the Independent Press gives the following additional particulars:

"The prisoner further said, that he and his wife had lived unhappily for years past; that her family were possessed of some property, and they were all opposed to him. He worked hard and did all he could to earn an honest living, but nothing could satisfy them. He further stated that on returning home from his work, he repeatedly found the rooms closed and a young man in the room with his wife.

"On being asked whether he would have some breakfast, he replied, "No, he could not eat," and inquired whether the other woman was dead? When asked why he done the awful deed, he replied that his wife was not true to him; that he had lived a miserable life.

"We are informed that a notice was inserted some years since by Mrs. Golding in one of the village papers, to the effect that her daughter was not married to Reilly, who afterward brought a certificate of marriage, purporting to be from a clergyman in Brooklyn. It was believed to be genuine."

The following is the deposition of Elizabeth Conroy, the girl stabbed by Reilly:

"Elizabeth Conroy being duly sworn, doth depose and say: Lawrence Reilly, on the 15th of June, 1851, at the building 110 North Fourth-st., Williamsburgh, about 8½ or 9 o'clock, did inflict a dangerous wound upon the person of said Elizabeth Conroy, with a sharp instrument that she saw in the hands of said Lawrence Reilly, which she thinks was a knife.

"I saw Ann, daughter of Mary Golding, struck with the same instrument that he struck me with. Anna fell immediately. There was nobody in the room except Anna Lawrence and myself, when he struck Anna with the knife or instrument. He (Reilly,) said nothing before this. I heard a shriek; it proceeded from an adjoining room—the back room—or wall of the second story. Suppose it proceeded from Mary Golding, the mother of Ann.

"He (Reilly) then came in the room.—He took hold of Anna by the shoulder with one hand, and plunged the knife or short instrument in the body of Anna, with the other; he struck her more than once; I went to save Anna, and he then struck me; I am 19 years of age; was staying at the house of Golding, while out of a place."

DROWNED.—Two small children were drowned in the feeder leading into the Delaware & Hudson Canal Basin on yesterday afternoon, the one a girl, six, and the other a boy three years of age. They were children of one Mr. Hagan, who resides but a few rods above the bank of the feeder.—Some workman near by remembered seeing them on or near a floating timber but a few hours previous to the time their bodies were discovered, from which it is supposed they fell into the water and were drowned.

—The Honesdale Herald.

RIOT IN HARRISBURG. The town of Harrisburgh was the scene of a most disgraceful riot, on Saturday night last. A gang of drunken boatmen, without any apparent cause, attacked the house of a poor woman, named Mrs. Eisenhower, who keeps a cake shop and small store on the canal, at the lower end of town. They demanded admittance, which was refused, in consequence of the lateness of the hour. The rioters, about twenty in number, then broke open the door, entered the house in a body, destroyed the furniture, knocked down, and otherwise cruelly abused the old lady and her daughter, and threatened to kill the whole family. The Sheriff and Constables were sent for, and upon their arrival, a desperate struggle ensued between them and the rioters. Bottles, stones, clubs and other weapons were hurled in every direction, the blows fell thick and fast, and blood flowed profusely. Three of the rioters were captures, and being taken before one of the Justices, were committed for trial.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday of this week, Mr. DANIEL JOHNSON, Jr., of Jerusalem, was instantly killed in the western part of that town, about four miles from Branchport. He was assisting in raising a barn for his father, when a heavy stick of timber rolled or slipped from the frame, striking him on the back of the neck, causing instant death. Mr. JOHNSON was about 19 years old. He was highly esteemed for his virtues and manly character, by a large circle of acquaintances. He came from Rome, with his father's family, to this county, in the spring of 1849.—Yates co. Whig

Spoken Like a Man.

JOHN B. BRATTON, Esq., who was a candidate for Canal Commissioner before the Reading Convention, comes out in favor of his successful competitor, in the following manly style:

"We have no complaints to make, and we surely would be most ungenerous to make any, for no man was ever sustained by a truer, nobler set of delegates, than those who honored us by their votes through the different ballotings, until our name was withdrawn from the Convention. We were treated nobly by our friends, and kindly by all. Had we been named at an earlier day, or had our location been different, the result might have been otherwise. For Mr Clover, our successful competitor, and in fact for all the candidates, we have the kindest feelings, for we believe the canvassing was conducted in a highly honorable and praiseworthy manner. All was good humor and fair dealing. Such is always the policy of the Democratic party, and when that is the case the nominations of her Conventions will be cordially and heartily sustained at the polls. There will then be no heart burnings and bitter feelings and jealousies, but all portions of the party, and all sections of the State will look upon each other as friends and brothers.

To all, we say again, we return our sincere thanks. We have not been honored with being the nominee of the Convention, but we have been treated kindly and fairly. That was all we had a right to expect.—The interests, usages, and nominations of our party are our guide, and shall have our best services."

A BLUNT old Democrat, named Wilcox, was introduced to the President at Bergen (where he stopped a few moments on his way to Dunkirk,) as a former Post master of the village. "Yes," said the old fellow, in answer to a question, "I was Post Master twice before you came into office, and I expect to be again, as soon as you get out." This raised a tremendous laugh, in which Mr. Fillmore joined right heartily.

LAND TROUBLES.—Land title troubles have broken out in Iowa. In Lee county, near Fort Madison, lately, a mob of incensed men, numbering 150, marched to the house of a farmer who had rented a farm to a settler, but who, having subsequently bought what is called a "decree" title to it, refused to pay rent or to move. On arriving at the house, the mob removed all his goods, and burned the house to the ground. The following day another house was burned in the same vicinity. The land is on what is called "the half breed track."

GEORGE THOMPSON, M. P.—The following remarks from the pen of the late Hon. Silas Wright, were written in 1839, when George Thompson, we believe, was on his first visit to this country:

"That foreigners ignorant of the character and nature of our institutions, and owning no duty of obligation to them; that citizens of that country which forced domestic slavery upon it, though ours was an institution best calculated to put far off the day when we should spurn the protection of monarch's arm, or attempt to liberate ourselves from the despotism of a monarch's power, should be willing now to disturb the harmony of our country, to break its peace, and perhaps overrun those enviable institutions which are so rapidly conducting us to wealth, and power, and greatness, by means of the very institution which was intended to subject of that monarchy schooled to bow before an earthly throne, and to cringe and tremble and be silent in the presence of hereditary aristocracy, should visit our country to lecture us upon the subject of liberty, may not be as strange as it is ludicrous; but that the high minded citizens of our republic should be led away by such teachers, into conflicts with their political brethren, into excitements which threaten, not to quiet and harmony of their country merely, but the perpetuity of that sacred character by which she exists as a united nation, is strange, is more than strange."

A INTERESTING DECISION BY THE SUPREME COURT OF PA.—We learn from the Harrisburg Telegraph, that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has decided that a debtor intending to claim the $300 exempt from sale by execution out of his real estate, under the act of April, 1849, must give notice of his intention, before the inquisition and sale, or he cannot come in for the money at the distribution. The act contemplates the debtor shall get the 300 dollars exempt property at an appraisement where practicable; and the right to demand money out of the proceeds of sale, is only a last resort, when the property does not admit of division. The failure to give notice of the claim to the Sheriff, who is the agent of the judgment creditors, before sale of the reality, will bar the claim of the debtor to the fund. This is a very interesting decision to debtors in this State, and they should bear it in mind.

The true culture of the imagination does not lead to sentimentalism, but elevates the mind above that which is selfish and sensual, and quickens it into spiritual life, till it glows with charity and delights to exercise itself in self-denial, and in a wise zeal for the good of others.
