In the Matter of Partnership.

We give below the section of an act passed 1st session of our Legislature, in relation to partners, which is of great importance to all business firms, and one which is little known of. The attention of all business firms, however is called to its provisions and requirements. The section is as follows, and will be found on page 52 of the pamphlet laws of '51.

SEC. 13. That from and after the tenth day of August next, all persons who are now doing business in a partnership capacity in this Commonwealth, shall file or caused to be filed in the office of Prothonotary in the county or counties where the said partnership is carried on, the names and location of such partnership, with the style and name of the same; and as often as any change of members in said partnership shall take place, the same shall be certified by the members of such new partnership as aforesaid; and in default or neglect of such partnership so to do, they shall not be permitted in any suits or actions against them in any court or before any justice of the peace or alderman in this Commonwealth to plead any misnomer or the omission of the name of any member of the partnership or the inclusion of names of persons not members of said partnership.

SEC. 14. That hereafter, where two or more persons may be desirous of entering into any business whatever in partnership capacity, they shall before they engage or enter into any such business as aforesaid, comply with and be subject to all the provisions and restrictions in the next preceding section of the act.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.—A most foul attempt was made to take the life of Mr. HENRY THAWLEY, at Church Hill, Queen Anne's county, Md., about dusk on the evening of the election, and which came very near proving successful. The Centerville Sentinel says:—

"He was standing near the hotel of Mr. Merritt, when he was fired at by some one in an alley adjoining the tavern—the ball took effect on the back of his hand—it then glanced and passed entirely through the back part of his neck. Had his hand not been in the position that it was, at the instant, the ball would have passed through the centre of his neck, which would, no doubt, have caused instant death. Thawley is the same individual who was a short time since confined in the jail in Centerville on the charge of being concerned in the recent kidnapping cases, but was released, in consequence of his turning State's witness.

☞ On Sunday last, in Danville, Livingston Co., New York, a boy about fourteen years age by the name of Ray, met another lad of about the same age who had some apples. Ray requested the boy to give him some which the boy refused to do. Ray then set his dog upon him, and the dog held him while Ray struck him with a long club over the right eye, fracturing his skull in such a manner that the boy survived but three hours.—Ray was lodged in jail.

Folly and its Fatal Consequences.

An occurrence which recently transpired at one of our most popular female seminaries, affords another and powerful warning to those who are indulging in the thoughtless practice of attempting to frighten others. Two of the young ladies in the institution to which we have referred, were engaged a few days since in their own room, conversing upon the science of anatomy, in the course of which one of them proceeded to relate some experience she had formerly acquired in a dissecting-room. Just as the conversation reached this point, the door of the room opened, and another of the inmates of the seminary entered with slow and solemn tread, having a white sheet wrapped about her form, and her face powdered to perfect whiteness, her jet-black hair, eyes, and brows presenting a contrast gave a startling lividness to her ghost-like countenance. The lady who was relating her experience as stated, is said to be mentally superior to any of her class-mates, and noted for her strength of mind and freedom from nervousness and absurd sensibility. So sudden, however, was the approach of the figure, just at a moment when her mind was least prepared for anything associated with thoughts of the dead, that upon beholding the apparation she fell senseless to the floor, and awoke to the scenes around her only to show her anxious attendants that reason had fled its throne, and left sad tokens of the mental wreck. Everything that professional skill could suggest for the relief of the sufferer was tried, but during forty-eight hours a few flitting moments of intelligence was all that offered hope to her afflicted friends—at those times she spoke of familiar names, recalling them by strong mental effort, which seemed to exhaust her shattered powers, and her reason again wandering she exclaimed, "But I can't see it again! Don't let me see! it is too horrible!" and hours elapsed before the return of a lucid interval, and the heart-rending recurrence of the paroxysm. The young lady, whose thoughtlessness led to such terrible mischief, is spoken of a most amiable girl, and one of the warmest friends of the sufferer. Her distress and despair at the consequences of her playful folly, can be better imagined than described. It seems to have been supposed that no device of the kind could be effectual in frightening the lady whose mournful condition we have related. The sad consequences of the error in this case present a warning to the thoughtless which should not pass unheeded. At last accounts no change was discoverable in the distressing symptoms of the unfortunate girl, and there is little encouragement to hope that reason will ever resume its seat.

☞ Somebody advises the whig Party to sell out, and emigrate to Canada.—This is unkind for two reasons—First nobody would buy the stock of the defunct whig Party—and secondly, even Canada is fast becoming Democratic. We see that a correspondent of the American Celt, writing from Montreal, states that on the reception of the news that the Queen of England had signed the bill of pains and penalties against her Catholic subjects the Union Jack was burned in the square that city. The Celt's correspondent further states that in order to keep the matter as private as possible, instructions were given at the telegraph offices not to report the occurrences, and that in consequence of these instructions, the only paper in Montreal that referred to the burning of the Felon Flag was the Gazette.—Columbia Dem.

The Precious Metals.

The Journal of Commerce of New York has prepared elaborate tables of the production of California gold since its discovery, showing that it has been considerably over one hundred millions of dollars, equal to one-half the total Coinage of the country since its separation from the British Empire:

"To the $80,000,000 received at the Mint, must be added large amounts received and consumed by dentists and jewellers; considerable amounts shipped from San Francisco directly to other countries; the whole amount of the gold coinage and circulation of California itself, including the $50 pieces, stamped by the United States Assayer; the shipments received since the 1st of October, amounting, at New York, to nearly or quite $5,000,000; and all the gold dust now in the hands of miners and merchants on the Pacific side. It will not be too large an estimate, probably, to put down the entire production, so far, at $120,000,000.

"The production of gold has depreciated the value of silver in comparison, and that too, at a time when the relative value of the latter had been increased by a series of financial movements in Europe, so that we are fast losing our silver coin. The only remedy which appears feasible, and likely to generally acceptable to be the country, seems to be for Congress to authorise a seignorage to be taken from all the new issues of silver coin. It cannot obtain a free circulation at its present value as it is worth about three per cent. premium, and all large pieces are quickly taken for export. There are many objections to alloying the coin with baser metals, which would not apply to reducing the weight. Let seven per cent. be taken by the Government from the present value of the silver coin, and gold made the sole legal tender for all amounts above three or five dollars, and the export of coin would at once be stopped, while no one could be wronged. The present coins would be worth their full value to the holders; the new coin could be obtained at par for the convenience of change; and the Government would be reimbursed for all the expenses of the mint."

PHILOSOPHICAL.—The editor of the Easton Argus, Mr. W. H. Hutter, was defeated for the Legislature in Northampton county by a Whig opponent; whereupon Mr. H. briefly announces:

"The question was submitted to the people of Northampton county, on Tuesday, whether they would have a good representative or a good editor, the coming winter, and they decide by a majority of 80 that they would rather have a good editor.—Huzza for our side."

A GREAT TOWNSHIP.—Polk township, in Monroe county, gives BIGLER 138—JOHNSTON 1!! Pass along the banner!—Reading Gaz.

A GREATER!—Benzinger township, in Elk county, gives BIGLER 164—JOHNSTON 000!! So hand the banner back; it belongs to the gallant west! Benzinger ought to be erected into a county; it richly deserves the dignity.

In Bridgewater, Oct. 11th, PETER D. KEATOR, in the 32d year of his age.

He was a member of the Montrose Baptist Church, and died rejoicing in the Savior. He has left a wife and children, and a large circle of friends and acquaintances, by whom he was highly esteemed, to mourn his early death.

In Auburn, Aug. 17, BENAJAH FRINK, aged 80 years, 3 months and 19 days.

It is well with me, mother; why dost thou weep,
As thou seest thy loved one in his last long sleep?
As thou lingerest to gaze on my dwelling of clay,
Forgetting my spirit in her white array?

It is well with me, mother; my toils are all o'er,
Earth's sorrows and changes can pain me no more,
The little brief period of life to me given,
Is changed for the lasting enjoyments of heaven.

It is well with me, mother; oh lay up thy tears,
The home of thy child is not saddened by fears,
From the feet of my Savior thy sorrow to see;
It would chill the high raptures of heaven to me.

It is well with me, mother; come,—turn away;
The grave will restore me, all conquered its sway,
I'll spring forth to meet thee at the trumpet's glad sound,
'Mid the songs of the ransomed all swelling around.

Nay, grieve not, my mother 'tis well with thy child,
God gave me, He takes me, His chastenings are mild.
He looks kindly down on thy pathway of tears,
He sees all thy sorrows, and soothes all thy fears.

It is well with me, mother; press on to the skies,
Earth's shadowy scenes thou hast learned to despise,
Ah leave them behind, let thy heart rest above,
In the home of thy child, in the regions of love.

DENTAL SURGERY.

C. D. VIRGIL, Tenders his professional services to the citizens of Montrose and vicinity among whom he proposes to locate as RESIDENT DENTIST. It will be his endeavor to the best of his ability to serve those who may favor him with their patronage. He does not propose so to cheapen the profession as to lower its dignity, or provoke the charge of incompetency, but knowing that the high prices of Dentistry deter many who very much need its benefits, but feel too poor to purchase them, he does propose to consider the circumstances of individuals and charge accordingly. He sincerely hopes that none, however limited their means, will let the opportunity slip of purchasing for a little money so great a benefit. How many weeks and months of bitter, sleepless agony, might be prevented by a little timely attention to the Teeth. Why! the whole earth is filled with groans from toothache; in almost every family this dire spectre-pain holds its night-long vigils. And is there no remedy? O yes, says one, have it pulled. Does that save it? No it's lost forever! Does that prevent the decay, pain, and loss of others?

No, it is but the certain harbinger of their like fate. Can nothing then be done to relieve and save. Yes, nine-tenths of all this misery and loss might be prevented by a reasonable application to the Dentist. Make it a point to have your teeth carefully examined at least once a year, and as soon as a cavity makes its appearance, have it well filled and gum-winged toothache will not haunt your night slumbers, be assured. Dr. V. will esteem it a pleasure to wait on you at any time between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M., at his Office in Odd Fellow's Hall, corner of Chestnut and Turnpike streets. Work warranted.
