Spring is Coming.

ST MES. LYDIA JANE PIERSON. Spring is coming !- Listen ! Tisher blue wing'd angel's voice; Spring is coming -winds and streams Bid the grey rob'd earth rejoice; Spring is coming with her gems, larebell buds, and violets blue, Veret leaves, and tender gram,

Gentle showers, and silent dew-Spring is coming-Maiden, To release thee from the hall Where to munic's languid strain, Fast of weary dancers fall : Spring will lead thee to her bowers, Flowery hills, and breezy groves, Where with beauty, balm, and song, Health's clastic spirit roves.

Spring is coming-Farmer. Yoke he good teams to the plough, All earth's gifted, proud, and fair, Unto hee, for bread, must bow. Fashion may affect to sneer At the garb, and quiet lot; Pride mry shun thy pleasant toil; Let them pass, thou need at them not.

Spring is coming-Mother, Bid thy little ones be glad; Though tly form is worn with toil, And the spirit dark and sad; Tell ther spring, bright spring is come, With ser day sun bright and long, Tell then of the sweet wild flowers, Of the glad bird's loving song.

Thoughthy heart be frozen. Filler them hope's chrystal cup; Lest n penury's desert way Ten young hearts be wither'd up. His from their young dewy eyes by school'd spirit's haunted waste, Here the grave stones of thy hopes Lie, with records half effaced.

Where the bitter waters At the false world's smiting, gush, And dark thoughts, make chiding plaint Which thy spirit cannot hush; That to thine incessant toil Gradg'd and scanty meed, is given, And the sunine being of wealth

Scorn thee, as proscribed by heaven-Though to thee life seemeth like one long cold winter night, let God's stars, in winter time Shine more lovingly and bright. Although in life's wintry way Gloom is ever near to you, You may hear the angels say Spring is coming-God is true.
