The whole amount of "Relief notes originally issued, $2,220,265; of this sum, of the old issues $1,163,320 have been redeemed. The amount in circulation of the old issues is $56,945 and of the re-issue, $593,318. Of the extra issues of $22,750, by the Bank of Middletown and Bank of Susquehanna county, only about $4,233 are in circulation. In addition to the above, the Berks County Bank made an over-issue to the amount of $28,501. For the redemption of these the Commonwealth became responsible, pursuant to the act of 29th January, 1845, and has redeemed the sum of $27,408, leaving still in circulation, $1,093.—under the construction given to the act of 10th April, 1849 in accordance with the opinion of the late Attorney General, many of the re-issues as they became defaced were cancelled and renewed. Of these renewed re-issues, the Harrisburg Bank has made $80,000—the Bank of Middletown $100,000, and the Lancaster Bank $144,960.

Gen. Pierce's Fortune

As everything relating to the President elect possesses at this time considerable interest, we give the following from a correspondent of a N. Y. journal,

Gen. Pierce when nominated, was comparatively a poor man, pecuniarily considered, worth, perhaps, somewhere from $15,000 to $25,000, which he had acquired in the pursuit of an ardurous legal practice since he resigned his seat in the United States Senate. Since his election however, his friends appear to be adding to his fortune materially. In addition to the magnificent ring, valued at $3,000, which was recently sent from California, some of his friends in that city are about to give him a splendid coach and pair of horses. A short time since, a few of his friends here gave him a gold-headed cane, on which was engraved the different coats of arms of the thirty-one States. The ladies of Concord are also preparing to foward a large and beautiful copy of the Holy Bible to the White House on the 4th of March. Last, but not least, it is currently rumored that a wealthy relative of Mrs. Pierce, residing in Boston, has checked the General to the tune of $30,000. This latter rumor, however, is contradicted in the New Hampshire Patriot.

The Truth Leaking Out.

"I trust, sir, that we shall be content to let well enough alone. The country is now universally prosperous in its industry—the people do not complain—let us not legislate to their injury."

The above is from Henry M. Fuller's late speech in Congress, and how different its sound from what was the Whig song before the election. Then the cry was 'tariff! tariff!' until the tongue tired and the head ached with the din. The laborer was appealed to to vote not for General Scott but for the 'tariff.' Then the country was not 'prosperous,' but utterly ruined by the Democratic policy of Mr. Walker. Then one universal complaint went up from the whole race of iron men; and not industry, but a wonderful Whig tariff was to make men prosperous. Industry was nothing the tariff was everything. Mechanics, after voting for the tariff, were to awake next morning and find their shops full of gold. Farmers were to find their crops growing, without the necessity to them of tilling the soil and sowing the seed. The tariff had more certificate of cure from Whig politicians than ever Townsend's Sarsaparilla could boast of.

But now—after the election—presto—the country is 'prosperous.' What will the laborers say to this who were deluded to vote for General Scott! Forced tribute, as this confession is, to the wisdom and justice of the Democratic revenue law, it nevertheless exposes the hollow trick of the 'tariff' cry in the late campaign. It is a confession that the late Whig party has no hope to offer for the future—that if for once believes the country is prosperous under its Democratic laws, and will be content to 'leave well enough alone.' The present Fillmore administration has been compelled to do this thing of letting well enough alone, but its weakness and inefficiency was not confessed by its own party in this latitude until now.—Star of the North.

Indians of Western New York.

We find in the Rochester Advertiser an abstract of the Indian Agent in relation to the remnant of the "Six Nations," now resident in the state of New York. According to the census taken in 1851, there were in the state—

Senecas,	2,679
Tuscaroras,	290
Cayugas,	139
Onondagas,	457
Oneidas,	213
Mowhawks,	1
	3,779

The rapid decline of the Indian power in the State, from emigration and other causes, is seen in the fact that of the once powerful "Six Nations" less than four thousand now linger around the council fires of their fathers, while in their places have risen up some fifteen hundred thousand 'pale faces.'

Language of the Law.

If a man would according to law, give to another an orange, instead of saying, 'I give you that orange,' which one would think would be what is called in legal phraseology 'an absolute conveyance of all right and title therein,' the phrase would run thus: 'I give you all and singular my interest, right title and claim of advantage of and in that orange, with all rind, skin, juice, pulp and pips, and right and advantages therein, with full power to bite, cut, suck, and otherwise eat the same, or give the same away, as fully and effectually as I the said A. B. am now entitled to bite, eat suck, and otherwise eat the same orange or give the same away, with or without its rind, skin, juice, pulp or pips, anything theretofore or hereinafter, or in any other deed or deeds, instrument or instruments, of what nature or kind soever, to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding;' with much more to the same effect. Such is the language of lawyers; and it is gravely held by the most learned men among them, that by the omission of any of the words the right to the said orange would not pass to the person for whose use the same was intended.

DR. S. E. CRAIN, GERMAN PHYSICIAN, takes this method of informing his friends and the public in general that he has recently returned from California, and located in the village of Owego, County of Tioga, and has established a permanent office on Lake Street, over T. I. Patch's new brick store, and is ready to attend to any business in the line of his profession.

His superior method of arriving at a correct diagnosis in diseases, and his unparalleled success in treating the various diseases incident to the human system, more especially those of an acute, subacute, chronic, or complicated character, are all that is necessary for him to offer the invalids and diseased of every character to entitle him to the confidence of a discriminating public.—For the benefit of those unacquainted with his method of practice he would say that he describes disease by a chemical and microscopical examination of the Urine.

Persons may send or bring their Urine in a clean (at least two ounce) vial, the first in the morning is preferred, and as a record is kept of all the cases examined, the name and age of the patient are also required. No charge is made for examining a case where no medicine is taken.

His medicines are principally selected from the vegetable Kingdom, and are administered according to the German BOTANIC PRACTICE.

He would also add, that he has at last made an important discovery in relation to treating diseases of a calculous origin, or Gravel. This is a singular deposition, and may consist of crystalline grains, of a gritty, harsh feel, but not distinctly visible upon a close examination; or it may consist in irregular shaped transparent concretions, sufficiently large to be readily distinguished by the eye, and denominated Calculi.

The preparation that he has introduced is capable of dissolving and holding in solution, calculous, or lateritious concretions, which is the source of irritation, and very often extensive inflamation of the Urinary organs, thereby affording the most speedy relief.

Reference can be had at his office from persons living in all the Western counties of the State of New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, &c., who have been given up to die by the most skilful Physicians, heading of him and availing themselves of his skill, have been restored to good health. The great German Remedies for Female obstructions, Worms, Croup and Dysentery, may always be found at the office. SILAS E. CRAIN, M. D.
