Another Rescue.

A gentleman from Fulton informs us that a village was the theatre of quite an exciting time, to say the least, on Sunday evening last. The story is as follows:—Rev. Mr. Kite, pastor of a regular Wesleyan Methodist, located in Amherstion Church at Fulton, has an interesting and quite pretty daughter, whom he gave three or four years past, he kept at school at that pink of a "niggin" institution, called the McGrawville College, located south of Cortland County. While there it seems that a certain genuine negro, connected with the Institution, called Professor Allen, (Professor Allen! Bah!) and herself became enamored of each other, and therupon entered into the requisite stipulations and agreements to constitute what is known to those interested in such matters as "an engagement" to be married. A little time since the damsel went to her amalgamation-preaching parents and made known the arrangements whereby their lovely daughter expected soon to be folded by the hymenous arms of anti-slavery Sambo. The parents remonstrated and begged, and remonstrated and begged, and told the brougham and sisters to interpose, but all to no avail. The blooming damsel was determined to wrangle of the "bed and board" and into the rich odors, reeking perfumes, and reviving fragrance which McGrawville College teaching had pictured to her in like eloquence; and more than this, she would not remain in membership with the denomination that prescribes but declines to practice, and sent in her resignation in due form of law.

Whirlpool down from McGrawville comes the blushing Allen, all decked in wedding garb, and on Sunday morn he half walks from ponderous sleep and thought he had been playing on the air such sweet music.

"As are those dulcet sounds in break of day,
That creep into the dreaming bridegroom's ear."

And summon him to marriage."

Bat evening came, and as the anxious couple could not have the nuptial rites celebrated under the beloved father's roof, they withdrew to the Phil's tavern on the west side of the river, made preparations for the ceremony. In the mean time the affair got wind abroad in the town, and the incensed populace to some five hundred strong made ready to "disturb the meeting." Several of the prominent citizens fearing lest a serious row should follow, repaired to the marriage hall, while some kept the riot down by threats and persuasion, others gained admittance to the colors. Allen being asked if he was married replied "No" but that he would be in a few minutes. He was remonstrated with and told the consequences that it would ensue—that he would be muddled, and must leave town immediately. He responded that he knew what he was about—was a free man in a free country, and should do as he pleased.

By this time the out-riders could be held still longer, and the window curtains being drawn over here saw and tattered, and erected for merriment. The damsel didn't faint, but at once consented to go home, and was hurried into a sleigh and driven off, while Sambo, undaunted, and surrounded by Abolitionists, was hustled out of the crowd over to the Fulton House. The multitude soon followed, a little he was got away round the house, by some ally corner, and hurried off to Syracuse in a sleigh, at the top of the horse speed.

Thus the black cloud enveloped the whirling and thus ended "Another Rescue."

Pennsylvania Legislature.

Harrisburg Feb. 3d,

SENATE.—The Senate then resumed, on second reading, the consideration of the bill supplemental to the act erecting the office of State Printer.

The bill designates the prices to be paid for the several descriptions of work, and creates the office of a Superintendent of the Public Printing.

The bill was debated at some length, and many amendments offered and rejected.

Mr. Grubb moved an amendment, authorizing the Governor to appoint the Superintendent, which after considerable discussion was adopted—yeas 17, nays 16.

The bill then passed second reading.

House.—Mr. Denison introduced a bill to increase the salaries of the judges of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Chase introduced the following:

Whereas, a bill called the Homestead Bill is now pending before the Senate of the United States, passed by the House of Representatives in its last session; the provisions of which give to each actual settler 160 acres of the public domain, therefore,

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that the provisions of said bill tend to the greatest principles of natural equity and are calculated to destroy the enormous property of the country, which has long been carried on, and is constantly increasing in power and strength.

Resolved, That the industrial interests of the country, the rights of labor, and the principles of justice, all unite in demanding such a reform in the disposal of the public lands, as this bill is calculated to effect, and that, therefore, the Senate, from this State, in the Congress of the United States, be instructed to vote for its passage.

Feb. 4th.

SENATE.—The Senate negatived the bill to make permanently the office of State Printer.

House did nothing of general interest.

Feb. 5th.

SENATE.—A motion was made to reconsider the vote yesterday on the bill creating the office of State Printer, which was postponed for the present.

House.—Mr. Denison introduced a bill to incorporate the Tunkhannock railroad company.

Mr. Chase, a bill to authorize the Canal Commissioners to examine the claim of Alvan Mowry, of Wyoming county.

In the House Feb. 9, the Appropriation was made the special order of the day Wednesday next.

In the Senate, Feb. 10, the vote on the creating the office of State Printer, was reconsidered, and the bill being again before the Senate, on final passage, was further debated and passed.
