The Romance of Crime. Murder of a Wife by her husband and attempted suicide by the husband, in Elkhart County Ind. We find the following full particulars of the late atrocious murder of a wife by her husband in the last Goshen Democrat:

Floming Wright, hitherto a citizen of ordinarily good standing in the community where he resided, killed his wife on Friday, the 23d inst. at their home, seven miles of this place, by beating her on and about the head, in the most shocking and brutal manner, with a massive iron fire shovel. The parties were married on the 18th of The parties were married on the 18th of Milford on Wednesday, the first day of June October, 1848, and, from all accounts, almost next at 10 o'clock A. M. from the moment of their union lived togethanything but happily. Both possessed violent tempers, and continued bickerings, broils, and even repeated altercations in blows, seemed to have been the result. At the time of the perpetration of the fatal deed they were separated. Each had been previously married. During the lives of their first companions they lived or premises immediately adjoining, their houses directly facing each other on opposite March last. What the truth may be we know ces. not, but if the facts aworn to by, her in the hill be true, she was certainly the victim of as harsh treatment at the hands of a crnel hushand as a woman could well be subject to. poison him. Afterward, in October, 1849, he is charged to have insinuated that a child which she had previously bore him was not his. At one time the epithet of liar is ban-died between them, which is followed on his part by the infliction of blows with his fist. and threats to repeat them with a rod; and at another, according to the statement of the bill he accused her of having drank liquor too freely with his own father and of being too intimate with him. Again, in the month of Feb. rusry, 1850 he is charged with having declar. After this a temporary separation after by a reconciliation, brought about, she avers, by the interposition of a relative and her own necessities, from want of the means of living by herself, together with the most profuse promises of reformation on his part. During the period of their last cohabitation, acrimony and bitteruess, it seems, completely Alexander, Caleb rained the ascendant. He is charged with Birdsall, Wm. declaring to her, in substance, on several oc- Bull, Alfred casions: "You ought to have your damned Brown, John throat cut, and I believe it would be no harm Blowers, Benj-2. for me to do it;" and on the 25th of last Feb. By her side was the wretched murderer, holding in his left hand one of the arms of his victim, and with a pocket knife in the right, attempting to cut his own throat. Near by, covered with blood, laid the instrument of death, a huge iron fire shovel. The wound upon himself is not likely to prove fatal, and he is now in prison awaiting the penalty of the law. His account of the matter is, that he went into the house of his wife to see one of their children, which was ailing, or to get one of them—that they got into conversation, in the course of which she used language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and language that provoked him to intense anger, in the language that provoked him to intense anger, in the language that provoked him to intense anger, in the language that provoked him to intense anger, in the language that provoked him to intense anger, in the language that provoked him to intense anger, in the language that provoked him to intense anger, in the language that provoked him to intense the lang knife in the right, attempting to cut his own guage that provoked him to intense anger, in the heat of which he seized the shovel and L or auction, at her residence in Montrose, on felled her to the floor, she being at the time Saturday the 28th inst., at 10 e'clock A. CINECINATI May 14. The trial of the Martha Washington conpirators commenced this morning, before Judge McLean. All the prisoners were present except Nicholson and Stevens. The for-mer forfeited his recognizance of $6,000.— The office of the District Attorney was burgalariously entered at Columbus last night, confessed his guilt, and was committed in default of $10,000 bail. His confession is substantially bound in embossed morocco, stantially the same as stated in our despatch of Friday, but it is reported that parties of re-

Messra Kirkland and Joe Barker, of Pittsburg, preached yesterday in the market space. Some Irish women used their tongues freely, but no disturbance took place. Mr. Meagher arrived here this morning.
