

THE DEMOCRAT.

The Large Circulation in Northern Penna. during 1833 copies weekly.

S. B. & E. B. CHASE, Editors.

MONTROSE, SEPTEMBER 20, 1833.

Democratic Nominations.

FOR JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT.

John C. Knox,

Of Tioga County.

CANAL COMMISSIONER.

Thomas H. Forsyth,

Of Philadelphia County.

AUDITOR GENERAL.

Ephraim Banks,

Of Mifflin County.

SURVEYOR GENERAL.

J. Porter Brawley,

Of Crawford County.

FOR SENATOR.

WILLIAM M. PIATT,

Wyoming Co.

FOR REPRESENTATIVES.

EZRA B. CHASE,

Susquehanna Co.

JAMES DEEGAN,

Sullivan Co.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

FRANKLIN FRASER,

Of Montrose.

FOR TREASURER.

D. E. LATHROP,

Of Montrose.

FOR COMMISSIONER.

AMHERST CARPENTER,

Of Bradford.

FOR SURVEYOR.

TIMOTHY BOYLE,

Of New Milford.

FOR AUDITOR.

J. W. CARGILL,

Of Jackson.

ELECTION, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 11.

We have not been furnished with the official proceedings of Post & Co's. Maine Law Convention by the Secretaries, though a Resolution was passed to publish them in all the papers in the District. We don't wonder they are ashamed to see them in print again, after having published them in the Register, and heard somewhat of public sentiment expressed in reference to them.

Are you Assessed?

Let every Democrat remember that he must be assessed ten days before the 11th of October next, or he cannot vote. Be on hand and let not a vote be lost on that account.

The Tickets.

The Tickets will be printed and ready for distribution in the several townships, this week.

We will call the attention of Farmers to the Union Insurance Company, located at Athens, Bradford co. Pa. for protection against loss by fire. O. S. Beebe, of Jessup township, is the agent for Susquehanna county.

Several favors from correspondents are unavoidably crowded out this week... The near approach of the election renders it necessary that our columns should be mainly devoted to political articles, and to a defense against the assaults of the Montrose Bark Whigs under their new guise. After election the favors of our literary friends shall be attended to.

NEW YORK STATE FAIR.—The annual State Fair of New York was held at Saratoga last week. The weather was unfavorable, raining in torrents nearly the whole time, consequently the Fair was less interesting than formerly. The annual address by Hon. Wm. C. Rives, of Virginia, is a good one.

The steamer Star of the North arrived at New York on Saturday last from San Juan. She brought over $2,000,000 in gold, and a large number of passengers. The news is not important.

The Printers of Pittsburgh lately made a strike for an advance in wages. In one of the office girls have been employed in place of regular hands to set type at half price. The remissary rents are too gallant to interfere with the damsels.

We hope those who were so horrified last fall, at the idea of sending so young a candidate to the Legislature, will not now forsake the principles they then advocated, after having put in nomination this year a man for the same place, by several years younger than we were then. Do gentlemen act on some one political idea for a year at a time. Don't be all things to all men in all times.

Opening of the North Branch Canal.

We have just learned, says the Harrisburg Daily Pennsylvanian, that the Canal Commissioners have directed the water to be let into the whole line of the North Branch canal on the 15th day of October next. This is the last link of that great work, commenced nearly twenty years ago, to connect the waters of Chesapeake Bay with the Northern Lakes. Although it has met with many reverses, and a large portion of it has lain in desolation and ruin for a long series of years, it has at last been completed in a most substantial manner, and there can be no doubt that it will prove one of the most profitable lines belonging to the State.

That we do not speak at random on this question, will be seen by the statement of a few facts. This canal traverses the richest mineral region of Pennsylvania. There are inexhaustible beds of iron and coal lying along the line, and it leads into that cold northern region that will consume more coal than any other section of the United States. In our last issue we published a statement showing the receipts at a single office (Beach Haven) on the old North Branch, a line of only about twenty miles, to the amount of $114,000 up to the first day of September. This will be increased to over $100,000 by the end of the year, being sufficient to pay the interest on these millions of dollars collected at a single office.

We cannot doubt the probability of the North Branch canal after this.

The Maine Law Convention.

Since our last issue the great Mass Temperance Convention advertised in the papers has been held at this place, and as faithful chroniclers of the events of the time we propose to lay the whole bare before our readers.

On Tuesday or Wednesday of the first week of Court, a large handbill was issued from the Whig press of this Borough, signed by nobody, calling upon the citizens of the County friendly to the Maine Liquor Law, to convene at the Court House the next Monday evening, "to appoint Delegates to the World's Temperance Convention to be held in the city of New York on the 6th and 7th of September."

We wish our readers to note the above quotation of the effect of that meeting. We make the quotation from the record made by the Secretary, G. Z. Dimock. Now if our readers will turn back to our paper of August 25th, and look at those proceedings, they will see that the meeting was called to gather by HON. WM. LESSUP, and strange to say, in the heads of those honorable men in Montrose, who had succeeded by falsehood, misrepresentation and trickery to dispose of Mr. Dean, for the Conference to take which they chose, as though the Conference could tell better which ones the Convention should have than the Convention itself! A beautiful piece of trickery and fraud to dispose of Mr. Dean, and for honorable men to perpetrate!

By this time the Convention dissolved in disorder, the Democrats declaring their determination to go home and support their own ticket, and reviling all kinds of indignation upon the heads of those honorable men in Montrose, who had succeeded by falsehood, misrepresentation and trickery to play off, what he called a (we can't speak the word) fraud, and managing the game so poorly as to give Chase five hundred votes, that he otherwise would not have got, at the election!

Thus ended the last specimen, and we are bold to say, the most dishonest, untruthful, malignant and corrupt of all other specimens of political scheming ever devised by the Montrose Regulators. Not an impartial man was present, who did not call it even worse names, than we do, and we heard several of the delegates declare that they left before its proceedings were concluded, because they "felt too much like a man stealing sheep," to remain longer. Ask such men as Elder Rial Powel, Edwin Tingley, and even the President of the Convention himself, any of the honest Temperance men of the county, who came here for honest purposes, and we are bold to say, that not one can be found who will not say, that all attempts even by men professing honesty, to supe on a sacred sentiment—a sentiment which should be valued next to their Religion, and used it for the most mercenary political designs, this one capped the climax. And we will go further and ask every candid minded man, if, in their judgment, the men who will, for political purposes, endeavor to make the cause of Temperance subservient to their interests, and strive to lead honest and truthful temperance men with them by duplicity and falsehood both in their words and actions—if those men are not rotten enough at heart to seize the vestments of Religion itself, when that too may be made to serve them in like manner, and pollute them all over in the corruption of political chicanery!

Judge Jessup made four or five speeches, and the others were delivered accordingly. Mr. Fish from Great Bend had the main boldness there, to stand up and resist their doings in part, but when he became troublesome he was soon disposed of by the seat of the Throne.

A Committee of general arrangements was appointed to superintend further proceedings consisting of B. S. Bentley, G. Z. Dimock, L. Post, R. B. Little, W. H. Jessup, A. Chapman, and Geo. Fuller. All these save Messrs. Fuller and Little will be seen in the family of Montrose Whig dominion, and of these two, Mr. Little never served, and whether Mr. Fuller did or not we do not know. One thing we do know, that he was as well convinced of the moral dishonesty of the whole thing as a man could be.

Well, so the fraud succeeded admirably. The Committee of Arrangements met, and appointed Sub Committees in the several townships, to superintend the election of delegates, to meet in Convention and endorse the nominations which should then be made, or to make new ones. They also gave out through the papers that Hon. NEAL DOW, would be present to address the Convention, and though Mr. Bentley knew by telegraphic dispatch before Dow himself that he would not be here, knew it in time to have given notice through the papers to the contrary, still it was not done, and the public was left to suppose that he would, for you see they wanted to get a large assembly from all over the county, and thus show a great enthusiasm for the ticket they intended to nominate. Convinced in fraud, and carried out in a fraud!

By reference to the township Committees appointed by the Committee of Whigs here, it will be seen that a large share of Democrats were appointed. That to those who had seen none of the movements here, made it look very Democratic, but having the key to the first movement, the object sought to be accomplished by this was very apparent. It was only another thickness spread over to hide the movement of the performers in the background.

In the mean time, also to give the thing the best fail, at the idea of sending so young a candidate to the Legislature, the Committee addressed letters to the candidates already nominated, desiring them to give their views, by letter of opposition to the Convention, on the question of nomination this year a man for the same place, by several years younger than we were then. Do gentlemen act on some one political idea for a year at a time. Don't be all things to all men in all times.

First, then, are you in favor of the Maine Liquor Law? If so, how long have you been in favor of it?

Second, were you in favor of it last fall, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to cover up their secretions, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves, and to make it appear that he was perhaps stronger of the two, by reference to his votes last winter, when the Legislature proposed last winter, to endorse it. He was promptly put down, however, while the Elder should question Mr. Piatt, &c., and though that gentleman sternly refused to commit himself further than his letter of acceptance had done, this furnished a sufficient lead which to shield themselves