THE LARGEST CERCULATION IN NORTHERN PENN'A. E. B. CHASE & ALVIN DAY, EDITORS. ırsday, Jan. 2ç, 1855. Montrose Great Father there We Worship

Thee! BY HARRY KEMPTVILLE.

Not at the aliar reared with hands, Where motley crowds together kneel, One day in six in sacred bands. To lift aloft their lip-pour'd peal; Where flimsy Fashion fans the flame. And golden gifts would bribe the skies. Where worldly hirelings laud God's name, As bawkers laud their merchandize, To win a living from the throng, Who gaze and pruse and pass along.

Great Father in our humble sphere, We could not follow fashion's glare, Yet would we trust that thou will hear Thy erring creature's plaintive prayer, Though whispered from the lonely dell, Where human feet but seldem trad, Where no eye seans the bosom's swell, Save thine, and only thine oh, God; Yet there, from form and fashion free, Great Father, would we worship Thec!

Here, on thy footstool, where no fane. Be bigots rear'd, and prop'd by pride. Sends on its smoke, thy skies to stain. Great Father, would we tuen asido To whisper forth a simple prayer, In breathings low, yet loud to Thee, As is when lightning flashes bear Thy thunder's deepening revelry, To thrill the heart and bid the soul Look far above where thunders roll!

Thy shrine is every vale and mount, Its dome the blue and spangled sky, Thy mighty deep-its needless fount, When, like thy love, is never dry! Creation, for a text-book spread, While every zone's a pencil'd page O'er which wo'll trace, as on we tread, Thy glorious hand, from age to age. Till countless years, roll'd from yon sun Proclaim the preface but begun!

Each mossy bank and bubbling stream, The depth of forest, hill and sea, . The mid day's biaze and midnights gleam Revealers temples rear'd by thee! Creation, Father, is thy fanc. And there thy creature bows the knee, Forgive us if the thought be vain, There only will we worship Thee. Let bigots blame, yet will we dare To find thy temples everywhere!
