"WE ARE ALL EQUAL BEFORE GOD AND THE CONSTITUTION."-James Buchanan.

McCollum & Gerritson, Proprietors.

Montrose, Susquehanna County, Penn'a, Chursday Morning, August 14, 1856.

Volume 13, Anmber 31

Original Poetry

ANGRY WORDS Is that breast with passion stirred? Hark ! Is that an angry word, Coming forth with power to blast Every thought of friendship past, Swiftly coming to destroy Brightest hopes of future joy? Madman! think-awhile refrain, Words of wrath are winged with pain. What advantage does it bring To change friendship's crystal spring. Where in light divine arrayed, Viewless cherubs ever played; To a dark and stagnant pool, Where exulting demonstrale? What advantage to corrolle, And to darken hearts that glowed, With affection's hallowed flame, Monster, hide your brow with shame. With infatuation dire By your words of bitter ire You would have affection's spring. Fanned by a foul demon's wing: You would sink a poisoned dart, Deep into a faithful heart. Quickly if you can regain, Friendship treated with disdain. -Quickly ere too late recall, Your envenomed words of gall. Who can say he ever heard, Good come from an angry word: Angry words soon lead to hate, Angry words exasperate. If in anger we correct, We lose friendship and respect, Speak unkindly to the weak, Bitter tears may stain their cheek; Chide with angry words the strong, They defy and still go wrong. If we meet a faithfess friend Angry words the breach extend; If he still err, words of wrath Drive him farther from his path. Angry words disturb the mind, Leave dark remorse and pain behind. Anger is a venomed thing, Deadlier than a serpent's sting Anger in a moment can, To adiend convert a man. Would you tread the path of life Free from discord, free from strife Would the flame of f riendship glow Would you cheer the child of woo Would you break affliction's red Would you win a soul to God As pure spirits live above? Never speak with angry frown, Never cast the erring down.

Miscellancous.

MY FIRST DUEL.

Never let your anger rule,

Passes joyless to the grave.

Swayed by anger men, a slave

Anger indicates a fool.

Father, Mr. C-was talking to-day about old college times, when he and you were students together at M- University, in the North, and in the course of his conversation, spoke of a duel which you and h friend of yours fought while there.4 How was it? What was the cause? Tell me, won't

Well, my boy, it was one of those affairs of honor, as they are now called, which I thought a brave and chivalrons thing to enter into, and for which I am now heartily ashamed. However, I will relate if to you. and bid you be careful lest you fall into as dire a calamity as I, from the impulse of my over-quick temper and revengeful spirit, became entangled. Mother, do you wish to hear it?' This was addressed to my wife, a clear, blue-eyed dame, now looking with eyes of strange alarm on me and her boy, this having been the first time she had ever, during the course of our married life, even dreamed of such an adventure of her hus-

Oh! yes. I should like to know something of that myself. Well, then, here it is. Twenty years ago boy of sixteen. My father, God bless him! such submissive homage; but as a shot, with shoulder, and, as near as I could judge, from no thought of death or dying crossed my more of it, until our long delay frightened. Both these young men were brave, both skilthat time to I make the direction of his aim, he pointed directly mind: all my energies, all my thoughts, all the most of his aim, he pointed directly mind: all my energies, all my thoughts, all the hard clasped in his, while ation of humilation, will he not feet it now.

ing: shall we try the woods?

take Satan and go alone.

'Now Satan had great difficulty in distinhim as I did myself, and the dog would folmyself and I will accompany you.

out, rifle on shoulder, for the piney woods.

camp in the country. Toward this we now ened our already guawing appetites. Satan received as much of welcome as his masters, made it a consecrated spot whereon to build covered the whole expanse of ground, breaktheir enormous nests. Still on the height in ing creakingly underneath our feet. On we feathered aristocrats, from the very spot on us, and every object was as distinct to the which we now stood, and although marks- eye as it would have been at noon-day.men of superior ability, yet neither had been. George was walking a rod or two behind me able to oblige one of them to stoop from his and at intervals he would increase the disflight. We were told that game had been tance, as he lagged behind, to five or six.— raise my hand to my head, which was now though but a short time since lived with him, seen that very morning, making a range to- Satan walked silently, majestically, and as if aching badly, when I discovered I possessed tracking the deer till they were all exterming night and day. In the daytime, to ascend any other ground than that of hostility to the ward another highland, some five miles distired, in George's rear, and like a well-bred not the least power of motion and could speak nated, and then degrading himself and can the mound far enough for action would be to tant, and that, without doubt, we should find hound as he was, followed in the steps of his no word above a whisper. I made a slight ine family by hunting the timid rabbits from place himself, helpless and without care, withsaw me a member of the Freshmen class at straggling parties of deer between our present master. Thus we strole along, until within M University, a careless, realless, fearless stand and the 'Toad Hollow,' another valley a hundred rods of the house, and then by between the hills, far away to the east. We some unaccountable circumstance, Satan presented me, when I left his roof tree in Flor- soon finished our chat, and started on the introbed his nove and then a good part of his presented me, when I lett his root tree in Fior- soon finished our chat, and started on the intruced his nose and then a good part of his leading the way. After body, between the legs of the already irritated thanked, Jim, you are yourself again, said he indicated our precocious sense of honor, by length hit upon a stratagem; and by careful had no inducement otherwise, with a fine, Satan had been lost sight of for some time, the butt of the rife upon his devoted head. fight rifle, a suit of Indian-dressed deer-skin, we were astonished by hearing far ahead the Mr attention was attracted toward the now by a ghastly smite, being too weak to speak powder and bullet pouch, and, to crown all, loud baying of the dog, yelling in such a man-pictures que group, from hearing the long, - a word. a large, magificently-made dog, which he had ner that we were convinced that game must loud relicof pain which Satan uttered at the brought home with him from Ireland, whith- have been started, and that of a superior qual- rebuke, thereby frightening me, and disturber he had been a year or two before. This ity to that we had been in the habit of fol- the stillness of the night. I turned to see the hound was of a mouse-color, with a fine fox lowing. On we went, fast as we could clear cause, and heard George curse the dog,nose, long slim legs, and stood nearly four a track through the under-brush, stealing threatening to shoot him if again so awkward feet high. His eyes were never still, always along stilly and slily, for fear of rousing some. He was now some distance behind me, and watching some object, even at his meals; and hidden partridge or timid rabbit, before we picking ap a piece of the frozen crust, I deto his general reputation among the fellows, were near enough to draw the head on them. manded why he struck the hound, and threatbe could out-run, out-scent, out-bay any dog On, however we went, swiftly and surely,—ened to shoot him if he did so again, at the collar-bone and slivered it as if it had been external manifestation of a pure and noble Young Eagle now deprived him of his weawithin a hundred miles of M.—. Satan was nearing faster and faster the bound's cry, and same moment throwing the ice at his head, paper. I fell on the snow, and after lying for spirit. As a matter of course, she had many the name he bore at home, and for old re- theyell ringing clearer and shriller through the which unfortunately struck him. He bowed a short time, I crawled down to the house admirers among the young braves of her nainembrances this diabolical name followed frozen air, vibrated against the hill-side, and his head when he felt the blow, but the next and alarmed the inmates by my tale. Satan tion. Her nature was above the arts of a cohim wherever he went. Among the members choed far away. Just as we reached within moment I saw him bring his rifle hurriedly had been before me; he had yelled, and bark- quette; and loving one among them all, and of the unacknowledged secret and sporting a few feet of our canine friend, who seemed to his shoulder and draw the hammer back. ed, and secret and sporting a few feet of our canine friend, who seemed to his shoulder and draw the hammer back. ed, and secret he doors until he gainclub to which I belonged, yelent 'The Pro- to be perfectly motionless, save as to baying. I sprang for a stump near by, but before I ed admission, and then had set up the most visional government, was George E, a rath- we distinctly heard a rustling in the bushes, reached it, I felt in my right side a sharp, dismal howling, running back and forth from who had won her heart, but also to those er fast and unscrupulous sportsman, whose and saw the fiery eyes, and black chargy cutting pain, as if a red-hot iron was scorchible room to the outer door, to the astonishwhole time was spent, instead of at his books nozzle of a young black bear. Frightened I ing my vitals. Down I fell, full length on ment and surprise of all. They had heard as it should have been, coursing the woods, admit I was, and sprang back a few feet up- the snow, and for a moment all was dark and the shots, and supposed them to be the mere and dealing destruction upon all game, of on the first sight, but the manly courage of bloody before my eyes. I now felt the warm annunciators of our near approach, it having Prowling Wolf, was filled with rage, and The Eagle, all, unarmed, was first seated on me and said: 'Well, Jim, there has has been es,' etc.; before I could bring my rifle to my brain: these words seemed burning into my you perfectly prostrated with a violent brain naturally lowering brow seemed, after the settled. He seemed deeply moved, and said, bits and squirrels will be plentiful this mora- tramp as he crunched the dead branches un- urging me to action. Presently this blinding . 2 gave him no answer for a moment, and receding from his former hiding-place, while hung round me with fearful tenaciousness. he resumed; 'If you do not wish to go, I will the baying of the dog, in full chase, reverbe- Satan, nearly wild with excitement, always rated through the gorges as if miles away.-Off we started, the dog still leading the way, guishing between us, as to who was his mas- and on we travelled, till night brought us to ter: George assuming as much control over a stand still, wearied, hungry, and unsuccessful. Satan was where we knew not; low him with as little persuasion as he wo'd still ringing at intervals far off to the north, could be heard his yell, growing fainter and 'I went to my room, equipped, and started to return, but he came not. Cold, wet, and self to my feet, although the effort cost me I forgot to tell you in my preamble that minds to sleep at the camp all night, and go immense decaying log near by, falling upon George's father was one of the Professors in home in the morning. In an hour we had it as soon as having reached it. Down bethe University, and that in college honor, reached the high ground, and could see plain- hind this I lay for a few seconds, in the most George out ranked me. The house he lived by the red light of the sugar-fire, looming up feeble state, my whole system racked with the in was situated within the college-grounds, clearly and plainly in the frosty air, coloring most exerutiating anguish; and, with a powand immediately behind the boundary of the the fleeting snow-clouds with a yellow glare. erful of the will, at length raised myself to tears streaming from his eyes afresh and fallsame, the woods commenced thick and un- Trudging along with as much celerity as pos- my knees, and levelled my rifle across the ing upon my hand, which he had now imcleared. It was in the season when the far-sible, we made from the woods, striking a log. I now looked around for George. For mers gathered, in buckets and pails, direct track to the clearing, which, after hav- a few moments every object, snow, trees, not know what I was doing when I pulled the saccharine space until the consist- almost barely escaping rolling down the in- me, and I supposed myself drowning, or rath- bitterness of the act night and day, and prayent sugar was obtained. It was a favorite numerable precipices, we were obliged to pass er swimming in an ice-ocean. The moon still amusement of ours to go to the sugar-camps we reached, after the boilers had devoured shone brightly, and the woods were clearer Jim, I will watch you, stay near you; be your far away in the woods, and sit around the big their supper. No supper! This was a new than before to my excited fancies. I looked, fires, and listen to the jokes of the boilers, and inducement for anger, and our feelings at our after the dizziness had passed, for several sectaste the steaming syrup. It had been our poor success were not the most gracious and onds for George uselessly, but when I become customs every day to go at the evening enviable. We concluded to return home, - more composed, still in great agony from the gleaming, and stay till late at night, smoking supperless and tired as we were, and waited effect of my wound, I just saw his shadow on our short pipes, and drinking our 'Old Rye' only for the rising of the moon to start. Du- the snow, a hundred yards from my position, out of a leaf noggin; and we never thought ring our detention here, who should come and there I determined to wait his first moourselves far from home, until we had left stalking into our midst, with his ears scratch- tion and then send a bullet through his heart the sugar boilings four or five miles behind. ed, his hide barked, his hair discolored and or head. While waiting thus I debated wheth-'Distant about four miles from our domi- bloody, but our infernal friend, Master Satan. to aim for the breast or eyes. My determicil was the largest and most complete sugar- By all appearances he had indiscreetly intro- nation was at last formed, and I mentally save to pick up our game. About noon we ed foppish erectness, customary to his aristo- act. The ball had entered my right side, room, and to my enfeebled ideas at the time terly style, and did our duty, with the best with the hope of once again meeting with the stilling the fever which was now fast heating among them, our long march having sharp- brute, and exchanging compliments with him my blood and aggrevating my bitter passions were little adapted to cool our feverish blood, seemed further irritating all the worse feelings now aggrevated by the taunts of some of the more and more. It seemed an age I waited,

'One saturday morning, George came to incifectual or insufficient. But man propos- Avenge it! seemed scaring my the bullet extracted, and morning discovered Wolf was reserved, dark and sullen; and his whom the question of life or death was to be der the snow, could be distinctly heard fast fit passed off, but the desise for revenge still jumping in advance at the report of the rifles, was flying hither and thither around me,smelling at my side, and rubbing his cold nose against my face, appearing to know and understand the hurt I had sustained, and seemingly endeavoring to evince the most chilled, we turned us back, resolving in our the most intense pain, I staggered on to an ing fallen in the snow a handred times, and stumps, and sky, all seemed revolving about the trigger of my rifle, and I have repented in from the fire, they were sitting on branches tions of the assembled group, as to the final way, too. God only knows from whom I in- would permit no one to wait upon me but danger from the justice of the tribe, and he ed to exhibit by their influence, that the govand logs, eating their noon-day meal. We destination of our wounded but still untained herited such flerided passions, such damning himself, and I desired no better nurse,) always knew that his only chance was to stand upon were, of course, invited to partake, and quick- adversary, and many were the places named hate and bitter animosity foward any one near me. Gradually my strength returned, his defence. His chance arose from the cusly disposing of our rifles, accontrements, and as the final retreat and cover of the foc. — who had injured me but these thoughts all and then he streve to enterthin me by read- tom of the Indians, that if the murderer es game, ell to work in right hungry and mas- These conjectures, although they inspired us coursed through my brain, and instead of ing to me from my favorite authors, or else caped the blow of the avenger of blood—the Oue morning I awoke, as from a horrid ejaculation, and before the word was concluthe woods and precipices. The Eagle's-Nest in the range of the young warrior's rifle; ded, George was standing beside my bed, is now a cleared farm, and the spot is sown and at night he could not even put his foot as soon as he discovered I was sensible of his fighting our first duel."

"Do you know how long you have been sick?" he asked. · I replied with my eyes in the negative, and he continued: whatever quality, that crossed his hunting George re-assured me, and I retraced my blood oozing out gush by gush from the been our custom to fire just before reaching took little pains to conceal his enmity, though the ground, then by his side was faid down tion. path. To him as a leader, I could have bow- steps. He very coolly raised his rifle to his wound made by the ball. At that moment the rouse, you know, and they thought no his maifested no desire for open violence.

see your master,' he called the dog, who had be his equal both in strength and skill.

took notice of him, and then, in fond submis- his future bride, for their marriage was agreed sion, commenced to lick my face and hands. upon, and the appointed day was near. One ceive the ransom. The friends of Eagle George was obliged to drag him forcibly thirty feet or more is almost perpendicular. away from me, in order to keep him from Just on the edge of this precipice is a footsmothering me, in his joy.

"Can you ever, will you forgive, my hasty act of hateful passion?' said George, the friend, any thing for you, if you will but say eyes of the two met in the moonlight, and vou forgive me.' I could not speak, the big tears of pity Pinioned as his arms were by the other's and affection for him who had always been grasp, the Eagle frustrated the first effort of my friend, were filling my eyes and wetting his foe, and then a desperate wrestle, a deathmy pillow, and my feelings of remorse for the wrestle, followed, in which each was thoroughpart I had enacted in this nearly fatal drama, ly maddened. The grasp of the Wolff was were choking me, and the thoughts of all the broken, and each instally grasping his adverkind and loving instances of friendship sary by the throat with the left hand, sought George had always shown me were exciting his weapon with the right—the one his knife, duced himself to our other black friend, the concluded to direct my ritle at his head and was providential I did not relapse, nearly handle of the knife of Wolf had been turned ern Republic without some provident and our other black friend, the concluded to direct my ritle at his head and was providential I did not relapse, nearly handle of the knife of Wolf had been turned ern Republic without some provident and our other black friend, the concluded to direct my ritle at his head and was providential I did not relapse, nearly handle of the knife of Wolf had been turned my brain and heart in such a manner that it the other his revolver. In the struggle, the holding on the northern frontier of the Southbent our steps. Satan coursed on before, ra- bear, and some not over-amicable personal kill him dead, so dead in fact, that he never driven, as I was, raving mad again, and no in the girdle, and missing it at the first grasp, re-capture of runaway slaves, which the South cing here and there, sometimes starting a deer personal endearments had been exchanged could explain the cause or manner. Thus I word could I have spoken to soothe his an- ere he could recover himself the revolver was or rabbit, which we endeavored to kill and between them, from the effects of which Salay deliverately plotting a murder, the fear guish had his life been at stake. I tried to at his breast, and a bullet through his heart. South, the West would in all probability fall bag with varied seccess, while on he went, tan had hurriedly returned to us in the unof God, or what should come after, never once say, 'Yes, George, I do forgive you, indeed I One flash of hatred from the closing eye, and away. Divergent and hostile interests would yelling and scouting, as if all were but play seemly plight he now presented. One car entering my mind. Thus I reasoned; he had do,' but the words stuck in my throat, and the arm of the dying warrior relaxed; and as spring up between Wisconsin and New York. to him- Leisurely we followed, often excited lopped rather heavily to one side, scratched shot me in a moment of passion, he should my only reply was a faint pressure, of his the body sank, the Eagle hurled it over the Ohio would refuse to be governed by Massaby the break of a deer across our path, but and bleeding, the flesh almost cut through, therefore be subjected to all the after onse- hands, of which he easily interpreted the precipice, and in his wrath fired bullet af bullet af bullet and be account of passion, no should be precipice, and in his wrath fired bullet af bulle never varying from our accustomed track, while the other still retained the old, fashion-quences which necessarily follow such an meaning. Just then the doctor entered the let nito the corpse as it rolled heavily down; lie, which the smaller States would refuse to eratic lineage. His tail, carried on ordinary glanced off against my lowest rib, and cut rather rudely repreached George for so excit round and down the side of the mound, and in the snow, and composed of combastilde occasions stretched out while running to its through my liver, I was convinced, and now, ting me, as weak as I at the time was and tore off the scalp of his foc. materials of every description, we found our straightest tension, or carled gracefully over upon reflection, I stood a fair, almost certain just same. This was the last time we ever There had been no witness of the combat, old cronics, the sugar-boilers, and were heart- his sleek and shining back, was now dropped chancer of going upon the long, unceasing spoke of the matter, by mutual agreement.— for the young girl did not arrive till its terily welcomed, as just 'in pudding time.'— to the ground, and hung, as if in shame,— journey upon which I had now fully resolved Six months I lay, however, between life and mination, when her lover was scalping his There in the snow, some half-dozen yarls between his legs. Varous were the specula- he should bear ma company, ay, and lead the death, George my only attendant, (for he viethm. His life was therefore in imminent communicating to me the news, gathered pur nearest relative of the victim-the family posely, of all the village. Slowly butturely were at liberty to accept a ransom for the life I progressed toward health, and at last was of their kinsman. "The Young Eagle at caused distrust and suspicion by one depart." and was regaled with his share, never scru- by e-standers, and by a raging appetite and but firm to death, I neither spoke nor cried, was by riding with George, who drove me pletely armed, he took possession of the top enough to teach the people the folly and made permitted to leave my room. My first essay once took the advice of his friends. Com- ment against another—if these fruits are not pling to take his bit from one more than the by depressing weariness. The moon having although my sufferings were indiscribable.— with care and anxiety far over to the Ea- of the mound, which was so shaped that other. Conversation now turned upon the now attained a height at which it cast her At length I saw tile upper part of George's gle's-Nest.' We were better friends than every little was himself concealed; no one could aptution as the guide of their actions, then exstate of the woods, and the quantity of game, rays over the tree-tops, and lit up the forest body bent around the stump, and then I drew er, adversity had drawn a band, around our proach him by day without being exposed to where it was best found, and in the greatest with her silvery beams, simultaneously we back the hammer of the rifle, and drawing hearts which no misfortune could sever; and his fire—and he had two devoted and skilful ity and wisdom are utterly dethroned. quantity. This camp was honored with the both arose, determined to make home before the butt to my shoulder as best I could in at this late day George C is the most es- allies, which, together with his position, rencognomen of 'The Eagle's Nest,' it being we starved to death, or became too fretful to my uneasy position, I prepared to aim. Up teemed and dearest, nearest, and most con- dered him far more than a match for his sinhe rose quick and suddenly, and the moment fidential friend your father possesses, as you gle adversary, the avenger of blood—the which stretched to the eastward from us, far Tramp, tramp!—crunch !—we he did so, my finger drew back the trigger well know. I learned from others part of brother of the Wolf. These allies were his Parties and Two Governments.—The disas the eye could reach, and on various occa- paced it over the now crispy snow, which and sent the ball whizzing toward his head. what I have told you, (for he never spoke of bride and a large sagacious hound which incive Seward Abolition party is essentially sions the great bald eagles, the illustrious during the day, had thawed slightly, and This last effort cost me all my strength, and his attention,) that George, as soon as his bro- had long been his hunting companion, and disunion. It is based only on principles emblems of the liberty of our country, had now, since night set in, had frozen, till a crust falling back on the snow, my cars, heart and ken bone had been re-set, immediately coin had guarded him many a night when camp the destruction of the Government and all its very soul were pierced through and through menced to nurse me, and had absolutely ing on the praries. The girl had in her veins interests—its commerce, its railroads, its manby the most horrid scream of pain I ever watched at my bed-side day and night, until the blood of Indian heroes, and she quailed ufactures, its mechanic arts, its telegraphs, its the fissures, betwirt too great rocks, could be walked, unconscious of the presence of each heard, and then all sense vanished from my my final recovery. I have often laughed and not. She demanded with lofty enthusiasm. found mosses and twigs, remnants of the last other, busied only with our melancholy tho'ts mind, all light from my eyes, all feeling from joked with him upon our many old tramps to be made his wife, and then, acquainted resting place of these gigantic birds. Many and desiring neither to converse nor listen to my body, and I seemed as dead. I had faint- together, but we never have adverted, or even with every stratagem of savage war, and hinted, to the bear-hunt at the Eagle's-Nest, with every faculty sharpened by affection, and or our unfortunate return. He begged me to her husbands danger, she watched, and warngive him Satan when I left M-, and I ed, and shielded him with every art that the dream, and remembering nothing of the oc- could do no less than comply with his wish; roused spirit could suggest, and which could currences before narrated, I attempted to and long the old dog, for he is now dead, al- be safely practised.

The Rivals, or the Chief's Daugh-

whose suit she had rejected.

Among the rejected suitors, one alone so that time, for I was therein a perfect marks- between the beast's eyes, and pulled the trig- my mind, were bent on the means to avenge us as I gained the doorway. They immediately between the beast's eyes, and pulled the trig- my mind, were bent on the means to avenge us as I gained the doorway. They immediately between the beast's eyes, and pulled the trig- my mind, were bent on the means to avenge us as I gained the doorway. They immediately mind the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears, and the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears, and the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears, and the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears, and the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears, and the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears, and the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears, and the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears, and the eyes, of old men, were dim with tears. man. Strange feats I could tell you, as to ger. I at the same moment stilled the dog, myself. I had no faults at that time: all I ately sought after you and when found you battle, but while Young Eagle was noble, Over against them, and so near that the fatal generous in spirit and swaved by such high.

fever. Don't touch your head, it has been maiden had refused him, to settle into a hab- rather than revengeful. A red blanket was shaved and now has no hair on it longer than itual scowl. The friends of the Young Ea- now produced and spread upon the grounds a pin. You must be very quiet and make no gle feared for his safety. He, however, was It signified that blood had been shed which exertion to move, the doctor says, and you too happy in the smiles of his chosen bride was not yet washed away, the crimson stain will soon be up and around. Satan has en- to trouble himself concerning the enmity of remaining. Next a blanket all of blue was tirely recovered, and Here, Satan, come and another, especially when he knew himself to spread over the red one. It expressed the us. With a leap like a deer he sprang with from a white. "One summer evening, just as nor in heaven a stain of the blood should reperfect disapproval of the act. I had fallen his fore-paws upon the bed and saluted me the moon was up, Young Eagle sought the main, and that everywhere, and by all, it * Well, George, wait a moment till I dress fainter as we listened. I put my dog-call to near the stump, behind which I had at first with a joyful cry, as he saw I recognized and top of the mound for the purpose of meeting should be forgiven and forgotten. He seemed almost crazy with delight, and side of this mound is naked rock, which for brought goods of various kinds, and plied path, and by it a large flat sandstone rock forms a convenient seat for those who would. survey the valley, while a few low bushes are scattered over a part of the crest of the mound. On this rock Young Eagle sat him down to await the maiden's coming.

> tomahawk flashed by his head, and the next instant he was in the arms of a strong man and forced to the brink of the precipice. The each knew then that the struggle was for life.

tears running down his cheeks, and his eyes yearly with wheat or other grain, in which upon its base without the baying of the observation of his young wife, who was fre- in truth occupy the other. If they do not quently going and coming, that she might if individuals of either party make the Resupply her husband, succeeded in imitating A curious story is related of the "fierce that he hoped to deceive both dog and man. wars and faithfule loves" of the Indians. It His scheine was skilfully executed. The dog is connected with one of the immense mounds wagged his tail, and his master spoke to the which give so striking a peculiarity to avenger as his wife when there were only a "You have been subjected to all this pain the scenery of the practice. "A few years few feet between them; but suddenly the gale ground is a compromise between right and and trouble by my infernal hot temper, and since, at the base of this mound, a chief resiliant hound, discovering his mistake, throw pons, and pinioned his arms; but the next moment, from an impulse of generosity, he set him free, and sent him home armed as usual.

himself to the justice of the tribe to offer a ransom, or, if that was rejected, to lay down his life without resistance. "At the day appointed, the parties met in an open space enlisted against the agitators the patriotism and Strange leats I could tell you, as to ger. I at the same moment stilled the dog, myself. I had no faults at that time: all I ately sought after you, and when found you may aim and general prowess, but they have and waited to see the effects of the shot, in sequent to remember was the cowardly advantage tage taken of no by my friend George and remaining and perfectly in generous in spirit, and swayed by such high kinic could be easily seized, stood the family of the skin Wolf, the lather at the head, by hope that the blood might be washed out in been lying watching us during the whole The happy couple were in the habit of heaven, and remembered no more; and last, conversation, seemingly understanding the meeting at the top of the mound-Young a blanket purely white was spread over all, whole, and as much interested as either of Eagle armed with a revolver he had received significant of a desire that nowhere on earth

> These blankets, thus spread out, were to rethem high before the father of the slain. He considered them a moment of silence, and then turned his eye to the fatal knife. The wife of the Eagle threw her arms around her busband's neck and turned her eyes imploringly full on the old man's face without a word. He had stretched his hand towards the knife when he met that look. He paused, his fingets moved convulsively, but they did not grasp the handle. His lips quivered In a few minutes the bushes rustled near and then a tear was in his eye. "Father" him, and rising, as he thought, to meet her, a said the brother, "he spared my life." The old man turned away. "I accept the ransom," he said: "the blood of my son is washed away. I see no stain now on the hand of the Eagle and he shall be in the place of my son.

A Looking-Glass.

FOR BENNETT OF THE NEW YORK From the New York Herald, Nov. 21, 1855. The same thing will occur on a grander scale, should Mr. Seward ever succeed in becoming President or placing a creature of his own in the Presidential chair. Disunion would of course follow, and the South would at once require, for its own safety and the preservation of its property, to make war upon the concede.

From the New York Herald, December 24, 1855.—Bennett's pictute of the success of Fremont:

remont:

If the last two years have not been enough to show how utterly demoralizing and paraernment has been weakened-how it has been disgraced-how it has been made the plaything of foreign diplomacy-how it has alike distracted our councils of legislation. weakened the executive arm, introduced into our entire political system the elements of anarchy-how it has arrayed section, against perience is thrown away and national moral-

From the New York Herald, November 18, 1855 .- Bennett rebuking and impaling

moral power, and, above all, its position before the world as the representative of liberal ideas and popular rights. These are the sac-rifices required of the American people to give effect to the Utopian policy of Mr. Seward-to his mad crusade against the Constitution, with a view of effecting his anti-slave-

The question comes home to existing party of the United States—an American—occupy Seward movement and do his duly to his country? That movement looks to a dissolution of the Union. Those, then, who regard facts and not forms, must see that in reality there can be but two parties in this country—those who support the government, and those who seek its overthrow. The Black Republicans occupy one of these extremes the hards, the softs, the Americans, the Whites publican tenets an article of their creed, they in fact, are Abolitionists.

There are, in fact, but two parties-those who, with the Black Republicans, attack di rectly or indirectly, on the question of slavery, the federal constitution, and those who sustain that compact. All intermediate wrong-a compromise which cannot be sustained, and which must be surrendered as the contest advances. The constitution is the only basis-the terminus of all ethical and all just political deductions from the premises. We have to come to that point in our de-mestic affairs when it is necessary, and abselutely necessary, to know alike our friends and our enemies. Parties are to be known This was the turning point of the savage by these designations as much as in time of drama. The shedder of blood surrendered war. On the side of the government is only ted the representatives of all our material wealth and all our productive industry, whose tenures are found in order, and the faithful discharge of public duties. We have also of the country—a patriotism that achieved its independence, and that now as vigilantic guards its honor as in the day of the Revolu-