"Don't you see that this infamous Nebraska law extends slavery over a territory targe enough for a mighty empire, from which it was excluded by the sacred compact the Missouri Compromise! Surely you are too good a man fore Judge Davies, who decided that a juror to sanction such an outrage against God and humanity!" The poor fellow is puzzled by this sophistry, awed by the anothema implied in the appeal. And so he surrenders his judgement to his spiritual adviser, and be-

just such cases, we have no doubt.

Now the fact is, that popular sovereignty slavery from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Cornecticut. New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio. Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa is fast banishing it from Deleware and will ultimately do the same for Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, and other slave member of the House of Representatives, holding states. Why is Virginia to-day a gives his reasons in a letter to one of his conciple of the Kansas Nebraska law was not for reorganizing the Territory of Kansas, the permitted to operate there, but was over permitted to operate there, but was over fully sustains the construction which we have thrown and trampled under foot by the gov- heretofore given to the proviso to the section ernment. It is a matter of historical record, restoring the Missouri restriction : He says: and will not be denied by any intelligent man, that slaves were forced upon Virginia against her will-nay, against her earnest remonstrance, by the parent government; and thus a slaveholding interest was created and makes all children born tdere up to that which eventually over-matched the anti-slavery feeling, and the result is, what we now witness. The famous "Ordinance of 1787" is continually in the nouths of anti-slavery men, as an infallible antidote against the to extend slavery one single foot; I will nev-"extension of slavery," and they mourn and er vote for the fugitive slave law or its exlament that the same prohibition cannot be applied by congress to all the national teritories not yet organized into states. Look now at the practical effect of that Ordinance, compared with the principles of the Nebraska law. Under the ordinance of 1787, slavery was introduced into Indiana and Illinois, and continued to increase there, until by the erection of these territories i nto states the principle of the Nebraska law was embodied in their Constitution, after which, it gradually diminished, and now is ext'n &

To be more particular: In seventeen hundied and ninety, three years after the passage of the ordinance of seventeen eighty seven, there were no slaves in Indiana, then comprising what is now Indianna and Illinois,-In eighteen hundred, the number was one hundred and thirty-five. In eighteen hundred and ten the number of slaves in Indiana thus curtailed, had increased to 237, while in Illinois the number was 168. Indiana was erected into a state in 1816, and Illinois in EMERY'S AND WHEELER'S RAIL ROAD 1818. By the change, popular sovereignty took the place of the ordinance of 1787.--what was the consequence! Why this: that the number of slaves in Indiana, four years after the change, to wit ; in 1829, was which in 1820 (two years after the change,) was nine hundred and seventeen, was in 1830 reduced to seven hundred and forty seven, in 1840 to three hundred and thirty one, and in 1850 to none. Such is the operation of popular sovereignty upon the system of slavery contrasted with the prohibitory ordinance of 1787. Popular sovereignty is the leading principle of the Nebraska law—the ordinance of 1787 is the same as the Wilmot Proviso. Which do you prefer reader !

What made California a free state! The principle of the Nebraska law-, alias popular sovereignty. Nothing else. Congress had no hand in the business. California had formed a state constitution, such as her people approved, and it prohibited slavery.

A great fuss was made by the "friends o freedom" as they call themselves, because Utah and New Mexico on being organized into territories in 1850, were suthorized to have slavery, or not, as they pleased. But what harm has it done! How many slaves are there in either territory f or in both together? Probably not forty; and these will be set free a long time sooner than if they had remained in the state from which they came.

A still greater uproar was made, because Kansas and Nebraska were erected into territories on the same basis as Utah and New Mexico. Barrels of sermons have no doubt. been preached against the measure, and its mover and supporters have been denounced uphill and down. But what harm has it done? states! Very few certainly. The only danger of such a result, has been occasioned by the abolition emigrant societies; which, by put ng forth greatswelling words of vanity, started up a counter movement in Missouri. of a violent and disgraceful character, whereaz if they had been content to trust the people

He had bought a suit of ready-made clothes it the Store, and the first day's wearing the acident occurred, First, off drapt his coat-tail by the mere force of specific gravity, giving to unfortunate man the apperance of a badly trimmed crast with the flying jib in the stern, and on stooping over to pick up the remnant, the dreadful casualty took place—the fountains of the great deep were broken up-Green's pants were sundered from ankle to waist, and Green himself seemed to be. The only way to prevent such deplorable accidents is to patronize a skillful taior, who makes up his work with a dotermination that it shall not only fit neatly, but wear well. Green buys at the clothing store because he thinks he can get his gearing a little cheaper. In all brobability the pants that served him so treacherously had passed through a fever hospital, been striped from a cholera patient, carried home eight nights in the week on a shutter, and finally bleached and carried by an ingenious Frenchman for a market in the country. Take warning by poor Green's mishap, and go to a Hill, Wood or Seymour, of New York city, and tailor shop like that in the basment of Searle's at prices at least 25 per cent. lower than either.
