Tioga gave an agdistrict, and left 577 for a majority. Now, if Tioga can thus control the District, is there rot something for Wilmot and Grow to fear? But let us look further: Mr. Grow in "strik. ing his blow for freedom," and courageously titting a half-witted sprig of chivalry, who April, 1858, authorizing the sale of the Canals, was too drunk to resent the insult, disgusted every sensible man in his district.
