

Housensical.

There is much good sense in nonsense.

"Caught on the Jury."

The following, which we heard of as a fact some time ago, is too good to be lost, and may be beneficial to some young gentlemen who have a habit of going to town about once a month and getting on a regular "press," and would not return until he had time to "cool off," which generally took two or three days. His wife was ignorant of the cause of his staying away so long, and suffered greatly from anxiety about his welfare. When he would return, of course his confiding wife would inquire what had been the matter with him, and the inevitable reply was, "That he was caught on the jury, and couldn't get off."

Having gathered his corn, and placed it in a large heap, he, according to custom, determined to call in his neighbors and have a real corn-busking frolic. So he gave Ned, a faithful servant, a jug and an order to go to town and get a gallon of whisky—a very necessary article on such occasions. Ned mounted a mule and was soon in town, and equipped with all the paraphernalia of a corn-busker. When he had proceeded a few hundred yards from town, he concluded to try the "stuff," and not satisfied at once, he kept trying until the world turned around so fast that he turned off the mule, and there he went to sleep.

When Ned awoke, it was "just before the break of day," and so dark that he was unable to make any start toward home until light. As soon as his bewilderment subsided so that he could get the "points," he started with an empty jug—the whisky having run out—and afoot, for the mule had gone home. Of course he was contemplating the application of the old hickory, or a piece of twisted cord, as he went on at the rate of two-forty. Ned reached home about breakfast time, and "fetched up" at the back door with a decidedly guilty conscience.

"What in thunder have you been at, you black rascal?" said his master.

Ned, knowing his master's excuse to his wife when he got on a spree, determined to tell the truth if he died for it, and said:

"Well, massa, to tell the truth, I was ketch on the jury, and couldn't get off."

"Where was the open stable, sir?" said an excited man on Friday night last on Fourth st., to a physician.

"The man was stabbed about an inch and a half to the left of the median line, and about an inch above the umbilicus," was the reply.

"Ohyes; I understand now. But I thought it was near the Court House."

"In one of our Western cities, a poet met an friend of his, the other day, from New York."

"I am perfectly delighted to see you," said the artist, throwing his arm affectionately around his friend's neck; "how long are you going to stay?"

"Oh, I think," said the poet, "that I shall stay as long as my money lasts."

"Oh, how disappointed I am!" said the artist in a tone of sadness. "I hoped you were going to spend a day or two."

Great Excitement!

The Atlantic Cable has been laid, but that doesn't begin to excite as much joy as the fact that

NEW GOODS! NEW GOODS!!

YOUNG & SMITH'S READY-PAY STORE.

THE undersigned would announce to their customers, friends, and the public generally that they have just returned from the city and are receiving and opening a new and complete assortment of

NEW GOODS of various kinds, which will be sold at prices to suit the times for CASH or PRODUCE. We have sought the medium of the press to announce to all upon what principle we shall transact business. It is termed the

to all persons for the same article, and it shall be our endeavor to make those prices such as will induce persons who wish to pay for their goods in cash or produce, to call at least and examine our stock, and if the prices don't come down to the system, we cannot expect to sell them. Some kind friend may say that it will be "no go," but we think from the experience of the past few months of every person who happened to owe the country merchants, especially if it had been standing six months or more, with what coaxing, dunning, threats, &c., they have been beset, we think they will all respond to the above system and resolve to buy no more goods than they can pay for, but that they are determined to support those who will establish that principle and carry it out. We will let the system establish itself upon its own merits. We are confident that it is the most prudent and wise course to be pursued in every branch of business, and that the day is not far distant when it will be generally adopted. Call and see us and we will show you goods at astonishing low prices.

All kinds of Merchandise Produce taken in exchange for Goods at the highest market price. YOUNG & SMITH. Summers, Penn., April 23rd, 1858. 17c.

HAMMONTON LANDS.

NEW ENGLAND SETTLEMENT.

ARE opportunity to all wanting farms—in a healthy place, twenty-five miles from Philadelphia, on the Camden and Atlantic railroad, New Jersey. An old estate has recently been opened for sale, and the first division of 10,000 acres divided up into farms of twenty acres and upwards. The soil is of the best quality for the production of fruits, grains, &c. The price is $15 to $20 per acre, payable in easy quarterly instalments, with a term of four years, with interest. The terms are made easy, in order to insure the rapid improvement of the land, by enabling every industrious man to buy a farm. It is now being extensively improved by good roads, and some of the best citizens from New England and the Middle States are erecting large improvements. It is a scene of the greatest improvement out of Philadelphia. Seventy-five acres have been built in four months. Practical farmers and business men from the length and breadth of the Union are settling there. It is an important business place, on account of its being in the midst of a great market. Every article raised upon this land finds an immediate sale. The water is excellent and no such thing as fever is known.

The soil is a sandy or clay loam, with a clay bottom and the garden manure. It is free of stones, and is generally worked. It abounds largely in the phosphates, and such is its fertility that from the crop produced both upon this land and the large acre adjoining under cultivation, it will be found to exceed any other anywhere in the production of crops most adapted to its market.

The reader may be well aware that the earliest and the best fruits and vegetables come from New Jersey, and that it is the great market for every article of this kind. The land, besides being accessible in every way for fertilizers, has an abundant supply of the best quality of muck manure.

Timber and building materials can be had on the spot at a cheap price, from the mills. Other mills are now being opened, and brickyards have started upon the ground. A person can put up a frame tenement for present convenience for holding a family, or for the purpose of emigration, this is the best course to pursue in order to get a place to live in at first. Carpenters and builders are on hand to put up houses on the best terms.

There are three trains daily to Philadelphia, and to those who improve the railroad company gives free tickets.

The reader will at once be struck with the advantages here presented, and ask himself why the property has not been taken up before. The reason is, it was never thrown in the market, and it is now being offered to the public. No one would be invited to examine the land before purchasing. This all are expected to do. They will see the land under cultivation; they will meet persons, no doubt, from their own neighborhood, who are settling there, and who can give a true and correct opinion of the character of the population. Persons should come prepared to purchase, as many are locating, and locations are not held in restraint.
