Agricultural.

Cultivate the Farmer, as well as the Farm.

The Wood Pile. It is the next season's supply of wood bean gathered as we strongly advised in December last! You know that it is not economical to burn green wood. A cord of it often contains 1500 lbs, of water. Of course this water will not burn, and it must be got rid of sometime before the wood containing it can burn. It may be disposed of by assioning the wood beforehand in the open sir, or by applying fire to the wood with green. The first process costs nothing; the latter costs a good deal of wood and patience. In other words, it takes more green wood to make the same amount of heat than it does of dry wood, and causes much trouble besides.

No man deserves the name of a good protider, who neglects to lay in a good stock of seasoned wood for the use of his family. How much annoyance in Lindling fires on cold Has the next season's supply of wood been

Fourth, It matures in about two-months lengths and split, and then piled up so that the winds of March and April can blow through it, and the bright sun shine upon it.

The area of every enclosure on a farm ought to be ascertained, in order to determine with some degree of precision the quantity of -eed and pleater sown per acre, and to regulate the manuring and the labor with some degree of accuracy. Fields being generally rectangular, very little difficulty would arise in determining the number of acres in each and when once ascertained, a record could be kept that would render further trouble unnecessary. Many farmers depend too much on on guessing as to the quantity of land and seif, during the coming season, in its cultivathe products per acre, and those who are not pretty knowing in such matters are supposed occasionally to make great mistakes, that to seed one acre, and the pica is $2 per bag, sometimes involve a suspicion of their veracisometimes involve a suspicion of their veraci-ty. If the size of the fields and the amount of their products were accurately registered in a book kept-for that purpose, it would be little trouble, and it would furnish an agreeaand increased fer i ity of his farm, and if at agricultural journal with the result of any of his operations, it could be done with confidence as to its accuracy, which would be facts, and full particulars, will be furnished, free of charge, by me or any of my agents, upon never guess at results, when he has the means in Lis hands of arriving at the truth so casily. Keep a regular account of all the articles sold and purchased, and at the year's cid balance your book, so that you may know your latitude and longitude, and not be in danger of receiving a visit from the S'ieriff .- Genessee Farmer.

To DELAY BLOSSOMS .- Any frait tree may he made to bloom sufficiently late in the s ason to prevent its fruit being injured by the frest in spring, and consequently present a fine heavy crop, by the following judicious

COMPORT TO BRUTES -An animal may be well fed, lodged and properly cleaned, without being comfortable; and in men as well as brutes, want of comfort operates on the di-gestive powers. If the suiface of a stall, in which an ox or horse stands, deviates much from the level, he will be continually uneasy; surface is rough, or if a proper bed or litter is not prepared every evening for it to repose on.—The form of tacks and mangers is often less commodious than might be, and may become a source of uneasities and disquiet, amounting to absolute affering. A hav-rack that projects forward, is bad; because the animal in drawing out the hay, is teased with the hat-eed falling into his eyes and eais; and this form, it may be added, is apt to cause the breath of the animal to ascend through its food, which must, after a time render it nauseaus. For this reason, bay should lie as short a time as possible in lofts above the animals, and when practicable should be fed to them direct from the rick or stack, standing outside the building in a pure -at-

A NUT FOR THE ABOLITIONISTS .- An exhange sais a bill has passed both Houses of the Ohio Legislature forbiding persons in whole or in part of African descent from vowhole or in part of African descent from vo-ling, under healty from one to six months suprisonment in the County Jail, and not exeeding $500 fine. This is quite refreshing, surely. A negro, it is said, ninkes the most unfeeling and hardest kind of a slave driver or over-eer, and the Ohio Abolitionists appear determined to verify the truth of the assertion.
