Bad Legs, had Breasts, boros and Dicers. LL descriptions of sores are remediable by the prop-the trand difficult use of this inestimable preparation. To attempt to cure bad legs by plastering the edges of the wound together is a folly; for should the skin unite, a bdggy discassed condition fematas underneath to break out with teufold fury in a few days. The only rational and successful treatment, as fullerated by nature, is to re-duce the inflammation in and about the wound, and to escothe the neighboring parts by rubbing in plenty of the Ontiment as sail is forced into meat.
