the table, leaving the youth with his head again resting on his hands. When the clock struck eleven, the young prisoner drew a pipe- and some tobacco from his pocket, and asked the tory leader if he had any objections to his smok-

The young ness made no reply, but immediately filled and lighted his pipe; having done when he arose and commenced pacing the floor. He took half a dozen turns up and down each side of the room, approaching near-to the table each time, vessels, store and storehouses, when having exhausted his pipe, he rewhen having exhausted his pipe, he re-turned to his seat and refilled it. He continued smoking until the clock struck twelve; when he arose from his scat, and slowly knocking out the ashes from his pipe said. "There boys, it is twelve o'clock, and I must leave you, good bye!' and immediately, all around the room streaks of fire ran hissing and squirming and the cabin was filled with dense, salphurous smoke, amidst which was heard a crash like a clap of thunder. The Tories sat in their chairs paralyzed with fright.

The smoke soon cleared away, but the prisoner was nowhere to be seen. The table was overturned, the window smashed to pieces, and one chair was lying on the ground outside of the building. The Tory leader after recovering from his stupor, gave one glance of terror around the room, and sprang out of the window, fol-lowed by his comrads. They ran through the forest at the top of their speed in the direction of the British encampment, leaving their muskets and other arms to the mercy of the flames, which had now begun to devour the cabin.

The next day two young men both dressed in the Continental uniform were seen standing near the ruin of the old cabin. One of them was no other than our hero of the night previous. "Let's hear all about it, Tom" said the other.

"Well," said our hero, "last evening as I was passing this place, two Tories ran out of the cabin and took possession of me before I could make any resistance. They took me in, and who do you sup-pose I saw as their leader, but John Barton our old school mate. He talked with me and tried to get me to join them; but I told him I couldn't do it-that at 12 o'clock I was going to escape—disappear in a cloud of fire and smoke; but he laughed at me and said that I was out of my head. 'About eleven o'clock I asked him if I might smoke. He said he had no objections; so I filled my pipe and lighted Mrs. L. J. BIXBY, it, and commenced walking the floor. I HAVING just returned from New York with a choice, beautiful, and extensive assortment of Fall & winter had about a pound of gunpowder in my pocket, and as I walked I strewed it all over the room. When the clock struck swelve, I bid them good by and told them I had to go, and, then knocked the ashes from my pipe. The powder ignited, and a dazzling blaze of fire shot across, from my pipe. The powder ignited, and a sich as an be purchased anywhere. She around and all over the room, filling it with suffocating smoke. Before it cleared with suffocating smoke. A Tool House Wanted.

'Where's that log chain?' asked Joe Tubbs of his boy Bill, as they were gett-ing the team ready to draw a load or wood. I say, Bill, have you swallowed that chain? Never can find anything when you want it. Why didn't you put it up in its place?' Bill stood astonished, as if he had not heard the same thing about some misplaced tools, every week of his life, and said very meckly:

· ticular, thought I left it on the cart, where you generally leave it.'

The fact is, Tubbs was a sloven, and never could lay his hand on any thing he wanted-he added to this sin, a crossgrained fretful temper, that worried every body with whom he came in contact The plows were as often left in the furrow as elsewhere, and lay out over winter; the cart and wagon stood under the old apple tree, by the road side, the chains, voke, and nose baskets, sometimes brought up in the stable, sometimes under the shed, again in the corn crib, but oftener were left with the cart; the shovels spades, crowbars, seythes, corn knives, sickles, rakes, forks axes and other tools were scattered about the premises, generally left where they were last used.

So there wis a hunt of an hour that morning, in all possible places for the log chain, but it didn't turn up. The oxen stood chewing their cuds, philosophically waiting as if they were used to such delays. It was entertaining to an outsider to see Tubbs shirning it, from the barn to the shed from the shed to the corn crib from the crib to the cart, from the cart to the wood pile scolding as he went, and blaming everybody but himself for the loss of his chain.

Look here Bill run over to neighbor Jewett's and ask him to lend us a chain must have something to bind the load,' So Bill send to the neighbor's a half mile off, to borrow. When he made known his errand, Mr. Jewett replied:

'It is rather doubtful whether you can find such an article in these parts, with a draw upon the rather, and a wicked kink in his eye, that squinted toward the slovenly habits of Joe Tubbs. However, he went out to the barn, where he shoved a door that ran back upon little wheels, and introduced Bill to a good sized room where there was notbing but tools. There were the crowbars three of them of different sizes in one corner the plows all cleaned, the hoes and shovels hing up on the sides, the rakes overhead the harness on wooden pegs, and the chains hanging on cleats and everything in its place so that the owner could lay his hand on it in the night, if it were necessary.

The younger Tubbs got the chain, and a new idea of order at the same time. It broke in upon his mind with great clearness, that it was not necessary to spend hours ever week in looking up lost tools, or in borrowing from a neighbor. Tubbs senior, may never build a tool house, and save his temper. But the boy will learn wisdom in his present school of affliction, and when he takes the farm, will have a place for everything and everything in its place.—Agriculturist.

HEALTH AND ITS PLEASURES Or Disease With Its Agonies: Choose Between Them

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

NERVOUS DISORDERS.

W.HAT is more fearful than a breaking down of the W. nervous system? To be excitable or nervous in a small degree is most distressing, for where can a remedy be found? There is once—drink but little wine, beer, or spirits, or far better, none; take no coffee,—weak tea being priris, or far better, none; take no coffee,—weak tea be referable; get all the fresh air you can; take three prilis ever night; cat plenty of solids, avoiding the a dopp; and if these golden rules are followed; you what apply in mind, strong in body, and/orget you have no Mothers & Daughters.

If there is one thing more than another for which these Pills are famous, it is their purifying properties, especially their power of cleansing the blood from all impurities, & removing dangerous and suspended, secretions. Univer-sally adopted as the grand remedy for female complaints, they never fail, never weaken the system, and always bring about what is required. Sick Headache and Want of Appetite. These feelings which so sadden us, most frequently arise from aunoyances or trouble, from perspiration, or from eating and drinking what is unfit for us, thus disordering the stomach and liver. These organs must be regulated if you wish to be well. The Pills, if taken according to the printed instructions, will quickly restore a healthy action to both liver and itomach, whence follow as a natural consequence, a good appetite and a clear head. In the East and West Indies scarcely any other medicine is ever used for these disorders.

DISORDERS OF THE RIDNEYS. «In all diseases affecting these organs, whether they secrete too much or too little water; or whether they be affilted with stone or gravel, or with aches and pains settled in the loins over the regions of the kitneys, these Pills should be taken according to the printed directions, and the Olutment should be well rubbed into the small of the back at bed time. This treatment will give almost immenter relief when all other means have failed.

For Stemachs out of Order. No medicine will so effectually improve the tone of the stomach as these Pills; they remove all acidity, occasional effect by intemperance or improper diet. They reach the liver and reduce it to a healthy action; they never fall in curing all disorders of the liver and stomach.

Reliable Testimony.

We call the attention of the reader to the following letter from President Smith, formerly of Wesleyan University, and now of Annopolis, Md.

MIDDLE TOWN, Conn., Feb. 28, 1859. SETH W. FOWLE & CO. - Gentlemen: - I first made use of the Orgenated Bitters some seven or eight years since. Having suffered for twenty years from a form of dyspepsia, which was attended with a nervous headache, on an average of not less than one day in a week, I was induced, by the unpretending rec-ommendation of Dr. Green, "to try one bottle, and if no benefit was received to discontinue the use."

The use of one bottle warranted a further trial, to the extent of some three or four, with a careful observance of the accompanying directions. The result was, an almost entire relief from the usual dyspeptic symptoms and their depressing, painful consequences. I believe these Bitters produced an entire change in the habits of my system, and upon the active energies of the digestive organs. I now deem myself as exempt from Dyspepsia as most persons. These Bitters have also been of service to other members of my family.

Very respectfully yours,

AUGUSTUS W. SMITH.

RICHMOND, Tioga Co., Pa., Aug. 25, 1858. GREELEMEN, - After suffering for more than thirty ommended for that disease without any good result, I was induced, by Dr. F. H. White of Mansfield, to give the Oxygeneted Bitters a trial. I took two bottles, which gave me so much relief that I purchased two more, which have nearly or quite effected a cure. I am now nearly seventy-five years of age, and for three months past have felt no inconvenience from my food. I take great pleasure in recommending the Bitters to all afflicted with Dyspepsia and its concomitant diseases.

Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an apprient, but I find their-beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. From Dr. J. P. Yaughn, Montreal, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of contineness. If others of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the progenitar of others that are worse. I believe contineness to originate in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease.
