Mr. Lindsay, member of Parliament from Sunderland in addressing his constituents, touched upon the American question. He said as it would be some time before cotton could be got else where, he considered it the duty of the Government to endeavor to induce the United States Government, for the cause of humanity, to remove the blockade. Considering the bold stand made by the Confederates, and the strength of the South he thought it almost time that the Govrnments of England and France thought of recognizing the independence of so nu-merous a body of people. (Cheers and some hisses.) It was evident that the North was not sincerely anxious to ab-olish slavery, which would never be removed by a servile war. The separation of the North and South was much more likely to accomplish the object. Teachers' Examination-
